NOTICE.

The sale of the personal estate of Dr BEAL M. WORTHINGTON, deceased, heretofore advertised, is indefinitely postponed until further notice. Sept. 30.

Annapolis and Baltimore PACKET.

THE SLOOP

George Washington,

Built by the late Capt John Barber, expressly for a Packet, has lately been painted and fitted up in a commodious style for the accommodation of passengers, and conveyance of freight between this city and Baltimore. This has been attended with considerable expense, which must be defrayed by the profits arising from the business of this vessel only—the subscriber no longer holding an interest in the work of the other boat, the partnership connexion between the two having been dissolved. Under these circumstances, the subscriber solicits for the Sloop the support of a liberal public, and more particularly the encouragement of those friends, who in the lifetime of the former owner, gave a preference to the sloop.

Careful and experienced hands are employed to navigate this vessel, under the immediate superintendance of the son of the subscriber, John T. Barber, who will execute with pleasure and faithfulness, any business with which he may be entrusted.

Farmers, planters and others, residing on navigable branches of the Chesapeake, who may wish to transport Grain, Tobacco, or other commodities to the Baltimore market, can at a short notice, and on moderate terms, have the use of the sloop for this purpose. The Sloop is staunch and new, and is considered as safe a vessel as any one belonging to this Bay.

100 Acres of Land,

To be Sold for CASH without reserve. This Land lies within three miles of Annapolis, on South River, adjoining the Farm of Aberdeen. Persons inclined to purchase, will be shown the premises on application to HENRY S. HOLLAND, Sept. 9.

VALUABLE FARM.

The subscriber offers for sale the FARM

On which he now resides. Few Plantations are more fertile. The improvements are excellent a very large and commodious dwelling house, with every convenient out house that can possibly be necessary—an abundance of fruit trees of every kind of the best and most careful selection. This Farm contains about 350 acres, adjoins the city of Annapolis, and has on it an abundance of fuel, and rail timbers. Persons inclined to purchase, are invited to view this valuable estate, and for terms apply to LEWIS DUVALL, Jan. 10.

RAGS.

Clean Linen and Cotton Rags, will be purchased at the Store of the subscriber. C. SHAW, July 8.

FROM THE EASTPORT SENTINEL, SEPT. 18. LARGE WEN.

This week, a Wen, weighing Seven Pounds, was taken from the right breast of L. F. Delesdernier, Esq. of Lubeck, now in the 73d year of his age. The operation was performed by Dr Ayer, of this place, in about five minutes. The tumour had been of more than twenty years standing, and from its great size and a recently ulcerated state, was last wearing upon the health of the patient. The wound is now rapidly healing, and will probably be perfectly well in a few days—indeed, he has not been confined to the house a single day, and is now able to take his usual walk. We mention this circumstance as we do not recollect of ever hearing before of so large a wen being amputated, and with a view, also, to encourage others who are afflicted with those troublesome protuberances to submit to an operation, but are restrained, through fear from having them removed, when in fact, no danger need be apprehended if the operation is performed by skilful hands.

DISCOVERY SHIPS.

(From a Private Letter) H. M. ship Hecla, Dray's Strait, lat 69 deg. N. long 51 W. June 22. Our passage across the Atlantic was exceedingly favourable being only a fortnight from the Orkneys to Cape Farewell; and we have been enveloped in fog ever since, which has prevented our getting in the Whale fish Islands, whither the Capt. Barry proposes to unload the transport; and this evening the weather has become more clear, and we see the islands about 10 miles to windward of us, so that we may hope to be there to-morrow morning.

WHALE-FISH ISLANDS, June 29.

We arrived here, as I had anticipated, on Saturday morning, and have been since busily engaged in removing our stores from the transport, which will, in all probability, leave us on Thursday morning, and as I am going on an excursion to Disco, about 20 miles from this, I must finish my letters to-night. There is resident on this island a Danish Governor or merchant, and about 80 or 90 Esquimaux, or rather a mixed race of Danes and Esquimaux, they are mostly christians, and it is quite delightful to find the Holy Scriptures among them, and to see almost every one of these poor creatures enabled to read the Blessed Word in their own language. The huts of these people are, comparatively, clean and comfortable; they possess a great many of the European comforts of life; and among the things that excited our astonishment was, their having, in almost every hut, a musical instrument, called a mandolin, very much like a guitar, on which the Esquimaux were to perform very tolerably. The Governor's wife is from Copenhagen, and judging by her appearance, the climate agrees well with her, for her fat ruddy cheeks bespeak robust health—With any other man for a husband she would seem a monstrous large woman; but as the Governor happens to be six feet, and stout in proportion, they are tolerably well paired. They have a Missionary residing about eighteen miles from this, who, during the summer months, is continually going about visiting the different islands to admonish and instruct, and to perform the Christian ceremonies of baptism & marriage, &c. What devotion to the cause of religion is here exercised! The privations and difficulties they must have to encounter are incalculable; and it is quite delightful to see in this little place, that the blessed fruit of their labours in making its appearance among them—I have had some pleasing proofs of the improved state of their moral character. Some years ago I had a Labrador translation of the Gospel given me, and I had now the satisfaction of receiving the sincere thanks of a poor fellow for it, to whom I hope it will prove a blessing; he could read it very well to me, that his daughter, a girl 11 years of age, would also be able to read it. The translations which they possess here were made by the celebrated Otto Fabricius, and they have also the Church Catechism, and a Book of Hymns in their own language. We are to have the Governor and his wife and a little girl, not their daughter but a child they adopted and brought from Denmark about eleven years ago, to dine with us to-day; the latter is, I think the most interesting person on the island, being a very pretty little girl of good manners, and able to play very sweetly on the mandolin, and accompany it with a soft, and pleasing voice; it is scarcely possible to look at her, and her situation, and not regret that she is to grow bigger and to be, come older—poor little thing, she will be much delighted to-day, as we shall have an abundant supply of beads, &c. to give her. The settlement to which Captains Parry and Hopper, &c. are going to have to-morrow is the principal one that the Danes have in this country, and we understand that there are several gentleman-like, intelligent men, there; among them are two Danish officers, who are employed in a survey of all the coast in possession of their country in this neighbourhood, and one of these is son to the first Minister in Copenhagen. FROM QUIN'S VISIT TO SPAIN.

In Seville the houses are mostly built according to the eastern fashion, seldom consisting of more than two stories, and constructed round the four sides of an open area, which as I have elsewhere observed, is called the Patio. The front door, which is open from morning till night, leads to a short entrance which is neatly paved with bricks or polished tiles. From this passage, called the zaguan, (an Arabic word for a porch) another door, which is generally shut, leads to the interior square, or Patio. This inner door, is sometimes of oak or mahogany; but usually it is formed of iron bars, arranged often in a light and fanciful style, handsomely painted & gilt. Through this door, any one passing in the street may observe the economy of the patio, which is bordered with polished tiles, sometimes planted with shady trees, but more generally decorated with vases in which the most fragrant roses and other flowers are growing. Not contented with the number of flower pots which they can conveniently arrange on the floor of the patio, they have also half flat vases, which are suspended on the walls all round. In this place are also sometimes glass cupboards, in which all the riches of the house in China ware are set out, and wired cases, in which books are arrayed in the shade. It is quite refreshing to pass from the burning streets into one of these nymphlike abodes, where coolness and shade are at once to be obtained. In some, there are handsome fountains ever yielding pure and cool streamlets; and the tiles are kept constantly cool by sprinkling them frequently with water.

As yet, most of the inhabitants were living above stairs, and the rooms on the first story were shut up. Numbers might easily have let their lower apartments but they preferred to keep them for their own use, as they would remove down stairs about the latter end of May. The communication of the rooms above stairs with each other, is usually by an external gallery, which runs all round the square. To the edges of this gallery pulleys are attached, by means of which a canvass awning may be stretched over their the patio in summer. There is a custom in Seville which is characteristic of the ancient piety of the place. At sun rise, a large soft toned bell is tolled from the tower of the Cathedral 3 times summoning all the inhabitants wherever they are, or however occupied to devote a few moments to the performance of a short prayer in honour of the Virgin, called the "Angelus Domini." At the close of evening the bell tolls again; and to a foreigner it is curious, and not uninteresting to observe the sudden & fervent attention which is paid in the streets, within and without doors in the Alamedas, on the river, by every body, high and low, the idler and the labourer, the horseman and the pedestrian, infancy and age, to this solemn sound. The crowds in the promenade all suddenly stop, and each group repeats, within its own circle the concluding prayer. The lover suspends his compliments the mistress ceases her laughing eyes to a demure look, and closes up her fan, the politician breaks off in his argument, the young men are abashed in their gay discourse, and take off their hats, all worldly business and amusements are forgotten for about three minutes, till the cheerful tinkling of lighter bells announces that the operation is over.

It is a custom, however, common to many other places.

INDIAN JURISPRUDENCE.

The Cherokees, it is said, have established something like a judiciary system, and introduced into their society many of the laws and usages of civilization. Some of their savage institutions are disappearing under the meliorating influence of moral justice. Bigamy, we understand, is done away with, and prohibited by severe penalties. As a specimen of the manner in which they dispense justice in cases of trivial import, we relate the following anecdote, said to be authentic. An Indian assaulted another, of which regular information was made. The judge ordered the sheriff to bring the parties before him. The sheriff went in pursuit of them, but returned without them. "Where are your prisoners?" said the judge. "I caught them," replied the sheriff. "What did you do with them?" "I gave the defendant fifteen lashes." "What did you do with the plaintiff?" "Gave him fifteen too." "What was the informer, or witness?" "Who I gave him twenty-five lashes—for had he held his tongue, there would have been no such fuss and trouble."—It would be well if all the dispensations of justice could be so equally & promptly administered.

THE COSMORAMA AT PARIS IN AUGUST LAST, exhibited the following objects, viz. the Falls of Niagara, a general view of the Pyramids of Egypt in their present state, the Glaciers of the Alps, the city and environs of Constantinople, and the Cathedral of Milan.

MODEST WORTH.

When first I caught his foot in the net, He blimmed and beck, and blimmed and beck, For 'twas him I could not get, How many years he had been dead.
