

Wednesday, February 1, 1826.
Resolution in favour of Mounting Baltimore and resolution relative to George Hill, and others, were sent to the Senate.

Sappington presents a memorial from the students of the Liberty-town Academy, praying referred.

Speed presents a petition from William of the city of Annapolis, referred.

Tyson reports a bill to establish pilotage and their fees.

Ecclleston reports a bill to repeal in part an act of the not relating to shortening the term of the 27, 1816, ch. 229, so far as the same is binding on the sheriff of Dorchester County.

A preamble and resolution relative to the petition of the president of the United States in relation to the contemplated Congress, were read the second time, and referred to the Senate.

BOTANY BAY.
The settlement of Botany Bay was first established in 1788, thirty-seven years ago we have never entered into the contemplation of who recommended the measure, that association and such a state of society, as never in the two colonies, could have been created in the first hundred years. The town of Sydney has 1200 houses, and 7000 inhabitants; and the demand for land and new buildings in former in many places is stated to be 10000 an acre, and that houses let for 1000 to 3000 a year. Nothing can be more profitable than the commanding situation of the island of the Australasian world. Its noble harbours with its hundred coves, capable of containing the shipping in the world, its warehouses, its quays, and the number of ships which give to it the appearance and bustle of a great seaport. It has two episcopal churches, Methodist churches, and a Roman Catholic; an excellent market held three days in the week in a large oblong square with commodious stores for the reception of unsold goods; and for which trifling dues are levied, amounting in the year 1817 to 131, and in 1822 to 579. A Bank is established at Sydney, which has shared dividends among the proprietors to 15 per cent, and there is also a savings bank, instituted by Governor Macquarie. The Sydney Magazine, the Australasian, the Sydney Gazette. They have a Philosophical, Agricultural, and a Horticultural Society. Neither has the religious and moral education of adults, nor of the children of the colony been neglected. They have various schools, supported from the public revenue; besides Sunday Schools, for the instruction of the poor, of which the students alone have five, attended by three hundred children. They have private seminaries for the more opulent classes, two of which are supported by clergymen of the established church; and there are several schools in Sydney for the education of young ladies.

MEN OF STRAW.
A modern traveller in Italy, relates the following historical account of a ruse de guerre practised by highway robbers. My companions in the presence were all on the quiver, for the carriage had stopped and robbed two evenings before. This fellow had practised ingenious and daring stratagem to effect his purpose. He manufactured ten figures of straw in the duskness of the night, and placed them with fuses and sabres; he drew up in the middle array, and having taken his post a little distance from his company, he ordered the Diligence to stop, threatening the least resistance was to call up his companions, and put all the passengers to death. In this manner he laid the party under contribution, amongst whom were two Spanish merchants, with their servants' purses were heavily laden, and who were afterwards armed.

Sheriff's Sale.
In virtue of a writ of fieri facias, issued out of the court of appeals, at suit of the state of Maryland, vs Benjamin Gaither, I have executed and levied all that tract or part of a tract or parcel of land, situate in the county of Prince Georges, and known as the "Part of Gaither's Collection," or by whatsoever name may be called, containing 914 acres of land, or less, being the plantation whereon John Gaither now resides, also the life estate of said Gaither in and to a three story Brick House and Lot situate on School Street, in the city of Annapolis, together with the occupation of Mr. David Ridgely. And I hereby give notice, that on Friday 24th February next, I will proceed to sell the said property at public sale, at eleven o'clock, to the highest bidder, to satisfy the debts due as aforesaid.

R. Welch, of Ben. Shif. A. Compt.

ANNAPOLIS: THURSDAY, FEB. 2, 1826.

THE OHIO CANALS.—The following is an account of the progress and prospects of the Ohio Canal, as far as taken from a gentleman of the first rank in the State of Ohio, to his residence in Washington, dated Jan. 14, 1826.

The Ohio Canal project is highly encouraging. It is a large project, and our canals may be compared to their whole extent, 375 miles, at a cost, little if any thing less than three millions of dollars exclusive of interest. We seem to be justified in our expectation by what has been done. The contractors make fair, nay handsome profits, as may be inferred from the increasing competition, and decreasing prices, at every fresh disposal of contracts.

ELECTION.—The election of a representative in Congress for the district composed of Prince George's and Anne Arundel counties, and this city, took place yesterday. It will be some days before we hear from the whole district. In this city the votes were:

For WOODSON, 122
For WOOTTON, 111

BLUFLAWS.
The editor of the Salem Observer has a propensity for hunting up and publishing things both new and old. Amongst the latter, his last paper contains the particulars of a trial which took place in Connecticut, in 1669, under that section of the blue laws which prohibited kissing. The offenders were Sarah Tuttle and Jacob Murline. They appeared in evidence, that Sarah dropped her purse, and Jacob found them. When he asked for them, Jacob demanded a kiss for his pay, and as the demand did not appear to be extravagant, Sarah adjusted the matter without requiring credit. The facts were clearly proved, and the parties were each fined twenty shillings. Had the law been kept in force until this time, we have no doubt that the treasury of Connecticut would have been the richest in the universe.

THE BILLS TO AMEND THE JUDICIARY.—The House of Representatives, on the 27th inst. passed a bill to amend the Judiciary Act of the 18th of September, 1801, which has been ordered to a third reading in the Senate, by a vote of 13 to 59.

VIRGINIA LEGISLATURE.

The House of Delegates of Virginia, assembled on Thursday last, by a vote of 101 to 94 against calling a convention; and on the day previous a bill passed the same body by a vote of 121 to 47, dispensing with appearance in civil cases.

A gentleman from Washington has handed us, says the Baltimore Patriot, the following, which may be relied upon for its accuracy.

Dimensions of the Capitol of the United States, and its Grounds.—The ground within the Iron Wall, 29 acres and 1-8. Length of Foot Walk, outside of the Walling, 3 1/2 of a mile and 185 feet. The walling is as follows:—
Length in front, 350 feet
Depth of Wings, 120 do.
East Projection and Steps, 63 do.
West do, do, 85 do.
Covering 1 1/2 acres, and 1826 feet.
Height of wings to top of Balustrade, 70 feet.
Height to top of Centre dome, 140 do.
Representative's room, greatest length, 95 do.
Representative's room, greatest height, 60 do.
Senate Chamber, greatest length, 74 do.
Senate Chamber, greatest height, 42 do.
Great Central Rotunda, 96 feet in diameter, and 96 feet high.
Library, 92 by 34, and 36 feet high.

BOW STREET—LONDON.
A troublesome Lodger.—Miss Eliza Bishop, a dumpy damsel of rather dingy complexion, was charged with having assaulted a tall and portly tailor, who officiates as deputy landlord of the house in which she lodges. He accused her of being a very troublesome lodger. Coming in at all hours of the night, with all sorts of company; and when he told her such doings were not to be put up with, she called him a "quidding-headed concern;" and, in fact every thing but a gentleman. So he tried to put her out of the house, but somehow or other, she dragged him out, and kicked up such a bobby that he was constrained to send her to the watch-house in his own defence. "All which," said he, "can be fully testified by another of the lodgers—Mr. Star."

The Magistrate said it appeared to him that the comely complainant had taken an illegal step to get rid of a troublesome lodger; but if Mr. Star could throw any light upon the subject he had no objection to attend to him.

Mr. Star stepped forward, but he did not shine as a witness—he knew nothing about the matter except what he had been told by the fat tailor; and therefore he was desired to withdraw himself; and Miss Eliza Bishop was called upon to speak for herself.

She declared that she was the "quietest girl going" and that the fat tailor was the plague of every body. "I did but come in with a lady of my acquaintance what I'd asked to sleep with me," said she; and he puts out of his parour with a d—n you, Madam, I'll give you notice;" and then, without further notice, he seized her by the shoulders, and she hung to his skirts, and so they scuffled in the street together.

Case dismissed—the magistrate not chusing to be made use of as a cheap ejectment for troublesome lodgers.

Singular Prediction relative to the late Arctic expedition.—The London Literary Chronicle states that in the new edition of the "Astrologer of the Nineteenth Century," which professes to give a complete elucidation of mysterious arts, there appears the following singular prediction relative to the failure of the late Arctic expedition. After noticing several astrological reasons, the writer states that they impart great danger to the commander of the expedition, and if the figure speaks truth, Captain Parry will not succeed in his enterprise, but it is to be feared will be in extreme danger during the ensuing year, if not relieved previous to that period. This prediction was printed in the month of August, 1825, and the exact fulfillment thereof, by the return of Captain Parry in October, is certainly a curious coincidence and a great triumph to the believers in celestial lore, especially as it is seldom that these prognostications are so literally fulfilled.

INDIANA.
Nathaniel W. Marks, Sheriff of Rush county, has been removed from office, and disqualified from holding any office in Indiana for five years. It was charged with having forged, uttered and published, with intent to defraud the State, a certificate of the amount of revenue due from the county of Rush. His trial was by a regular process of impeachment, and it is said to have excited great interest.

Baltimore, Feb. 1.

STOP THE MURDERER!
Edward Riley, a poor but honest drayman, was murdered on the night of the 30th Jan. in North Howard street, in the city of Baltimore, and robbed of about $75.

John Riley, who was seen with him a short time previous to the murder, and who knew of his having the money about him; is supposed to be the murderer, having suddenly left his house and taken the six o'clock stage on the following morning for the city of Washington. The said John Riley is about 30 years of age, about 5 feet 6 inches high, round face, dark hair and dark eyes, of a lively disposition, and is given to intoxication. He had on a blue coat, blue pantaloons, yellow waistcoat, a new fur hat, a new scarlet tartan plaid cloak, and a yellow cane with a buck horn head. He is a weaver by profession.

HAVANNA.
The last accounts from Havana represent that a squadron of three 74's, with troops, was daily expected to arrive there from Spain.

RHODE ISLAND.
Among the accounts allowed by the Rhode Island Legislature, at the session which has just closed, was one of $632, to a man for repairing the pillory, and preparing the fixtures for cropping and branding a poor rogue by the name of Palmer Hines.

From the Richmond Whig, of January 27.

BAIL IN CIVIL CASES.
A bill of much consequence, dispensing with appearance Bail in Civil Cases, brought in by Mr. M'Callany, passed the House of Delegates on Wednesday, by a vote of 121 to 47. No law perhaps in the Statute Book, whose operation is felt by all classes and at all times, has been so little understood by the great mass of population, as the law of bail. Comparatively few are apprised of the nature of the responsibility encountered by appearance bail—and while the ignorant are almost universally mistaken in their idea of the nature and extent of the responsibility incurred in this character, their ignorance is as general as their practised upon by the cunning and interested to their injury. An appearance bail makes himself liable for the debt, where the Office Judgment is not set aside at the succeeding term. But the original obligation of the bail is simply to secure the appearance of the defendant to plead. It follows of course, that as the appearance bail is always allowed the privilege of setting aside the judgment and pleading, he can only fail to do so but by accident or misfortune—by the sudden adjournment of the Court, sickness, &c. These being the only causes which will prevent his entering special bail, it equally follows, that he is never made liable for the debt of his principal, except when he is taken by surprise, or pursued by misfortune. As we think that neither such nor misfortune ought to subject one man to pay another's debts, as the original obligation of appearance bail extended no further than to secure the appearance of his principal—as the nature of the undertaking is not understood by the less intelligent part of the community—and as this ignorance is made the prey of sharks who prowl around the administration of justice, we think that the law will be happily amended by dispensing with appearance bail, the poor and ignorant protected, the Code simplified, and something done towards the great work of abolishing common law forms.

In the year 1824 it appears that 239 men and 132 women committed suicide in France, being a diminution of 19 in number. The greatness of the number is openly attributed to the gambling tables, the lottery, and the houses of debauch kept up by the government for the sake of the profits derived from them, with the distress that inevitably follows those who become their dupes.

In the first constituent assembly of Guatemala, in 1823, three Indian deputies took their seats, of whom two were ecclesiastics. An Indian was also elected Senator. The tribes of Indians in that Republic form more than half the population. By the constitution, they are placed on an equality with the descendants of the Spaniards.

The legislature of Virginia have refused to repeal the law of that state, which renders the marrying, by a widower, the sister of his first wife, a penal offence.

The debate upon the question was long and animated.

OBITUARY.

Died, on Sunday morning last, at an advanced age, after a long illness, Mrs. Sarah Clements, relict of the late Francis T. Clements, Esq.

In this city, on Thursday morning last, suddenly, Mr. Thomas Morgan. He has left a widow and several children to mourn their loss.

On Friday last, in this county, much regretted, Mrs. Brown, relict of the late Basil Brown, esq.

On Tuesday night last, at his residence a few miles from this city, Mr. John Henry Sciple.

On Sunday morning last, at his residence on Kent Island, Mr. Hugh Phenix. He was a respectable industrious man, and has left a widow and children to mourn the loss of an excellent husband and father.

In Baltimore on the 23d ult. after a long and painful illness, Mr. Peregrine Welch, late clerk to the City Commissioners of that city.

In Baltimore, on Saturday afternoon, the 23th inst. the Rev. Joseph Thy, minister of the Methodist Episcopal Church, communicated.

Departed this life on Friday the 27th day of January, 1826, in the 75th year of his age, BENJAMIN HARWOOD, Esquire, late Trustee of the State of Maryland, and Treasurer of the western shore.

It is painful to the surviving friends of a worthy man to recapitulate the many excellent qualities that adorned his life, because it brings them again in review before them; but it is due to the generation which succeeds him, that they should be exhibited in full relief, as a bright example to be copied, and a light to lead them the way to fame, fortune, and eternal happiness.

Such a man as Mr. Harwood should not be suffered to pass from this scene of transitory enjoyment and suffering, with a simple "Hic Jacet." His were the virtues that threw a sun-beam upon the hearthstone, the light of the family circle. The noiseless tenor of his way through the walks of private life, was upon a bed of flowers, scattering a sweetness and perfume around him; his charity was ever in full bloom, and the flooding of his heart enriched and fertilized every barren spot within the reach of its inundation. But the overflowing of his charity was neither periodical or limited; it was one continual welling of a full and benevolent spirit. The poor must lament him in their orphanage, the rich deplore him as a friend and associate, and the state as one of the lost pillars of its support. To those who knew Mr. Harwood this will not appear extravagant eulogy, indeed, on this subject, no eulogy can be extravagant, for although the monuments of the high-born and the noble, may be sometimes marked with a gilded epitaph and an splendid lie, yet in this instance no aid is required of sculpture, for the grateful recollections of his charities testify, that he was "an Israelite without guile." To such a man no public honours should be decreed, because they would detract from that highest of honours, the voluntary homage of the heart.

Few have lived and died like the subject of this obituary notice. He closed his accounts with the state, and his God, together, and, as we in one respect know, and in the other believe, satisfactorily. Such was the purity of his character, that even at those periods when different parties alternately swayed the councils of the state, the spirit of persecution ever stayed its destroying arm when it approached him—To say he had no enemy, would leave half unsaid, for every man who knew him, loved and admired him.

His name is set—
"Oh! rise some other such."

50 Dollars Reward.

Ranaway from the subscriber on West River, near Butler's Tavern, in Anne Arundel county on the 28th inst. a Negro Man named STEPHEN STEUART; he is about twenty-one years of age, and nearly five feet ten inches in height; his clothing when he absconded was a shirt, black cloth coat and vest, two pair of pantaloons, one of black cloth, and one of striped country cloth, two white shirts, a decent black hat, and a black silk handkerchief around his neck, he has a scar, extending from the left corner of his mouth, one across the pit of his left hand; and some on his left side, all of which have been occasioned by his bad conduct before he belonged to me. He is straight and likely, and of dark complexion, walks with his head a little back, and is smart in his replies to all interrogatories. He has but a few years to serve, and will no doubt pass himself for a free man. It is supposed he will make his way either for Alexandria or Baltimore. I will give twenty dollars reward if taken in the state, and fifty if taken out of the state, and pay all reasonable charges if brought home, or secured in any goal so that I get him again.
