A CARD
 To all those having, or desirous of having an interest in the 8th class of the Grand University Lottery.
 The sale of tickets in the above Scheme not having been sufficient to warrant the drawing, to take place on the 22d instant as originally intended, without a risk of considerable loss to the manager; the drawing of the same is hereby postponed for 30 or 60 days; notice of the precise day on which the Lottery will positively be drawn will however soon be given
 P. CANFIELD, Manager.
 It may not, perhaps, be necessary to assign any further reasons for this short postponement than are contained in the above. The MANAGER would however beg leave to add, that when this class was issued, few persons, if any, anticipated in the least, the late panic in the money market which has almost paralysed every kind of business, and has caused such a singular and unprecedented stagnation in trade. The distress of capitalists and monied institutions has not been confined to any single state in our confederacy; but it has been severely felt from one extremity of the country to the other, and has been general in several of the oldest and wealthiest foreign countries. And it will not be considered a matter of surprise, that the same causes which have induced so recently the postponement of the drawing of an important lottery, should have a similar effect on one of much greater magnitude.—But it is hoped, that a happy change to these reverses has already commenced, and that all classes of our citizens in every part of the union will soon participate in the returning tide of prosperity. The scheme now offered is by far the most attractive and splendid of any ever presented to the public in the United States, and many, very many who adventure therein will certainly be rewarded with princely fortunes or handsome additions to what they already possess.
 Those who have not yet taken an interest in this Lottery, now have an additional opportunity offered them; and they are respectfully reminded, that by promptly purchasing chances in this most splendid scheme, they will insure an early distribution of the rich prizes it contains.—as the lottery shall positively be drawn as soon as the sale of tickets will justify; and the prizes paid in cash immediately after the drawing; all persons are therefore invited to come forward and take a ticket or share at either of the manager's offices; where all applications personal or per letter will at any time be promptly attended to by the public's obedient servant,
 P. CANFIELD.

Thought on the Prosperity of the Wicked.
 An Extract from Montesquieu.
 "I admire the wisdom of Providence, in the distribution of riches. If they had only been granted to the deserving, they would not have been sufficiently distinguished from virtue itself, and we should have been no longer aware of their vanity and worthlessness. But when we examine what class of men generally possess the greatest share, we learn to despise riches, by our contempt of the rich."

From the Church Register. ANECDOTE
 Of the French Revolution, from an eye-witness.
 That the crimes of the French Revolution were mainly to be attributed to the infidel and the irreligious opinions, which had been industriously propagated by Voltaire, and other writers of the same school, is now a matter of history. It were in vain to attempt to trace to the pure love of civil liberty, the unheeded of cruelties and massacres which were committed under her name. These can only be referred to the deistical and atheistical notions, which denied Revelation, set up the goddess of Reason as the idol of popular worship, declared Death an everlasting sleep, and stripped man at once of immortality and future accountability.
 It will be remembered, that in 1792, when the approach of the Prussians had spread an alarm in Paris, a meeting of the populace was called by Robespierre, Danton, Marat, and others of the most sanguinary and atrocious character, in the Champ de Mars. Here it was resolved, that the domestic foes of the nation ought to be destroyed before its foreign enemies were attacked.
 Accordingly, parties of armed men, infuriate and thirsty for blood, proceeded to the prisons, where the non-juring clergy, the Swiss officers, and other prisoners confined since the 10th of August, were in custody. They were taken out, one by one, and after a kind of mock trial, some few being acquitted, the rest were murdered. The massacre lasted for two days, and more than 1000 persons were put to death.
 Among these were the beautiful & accomplished Princess Lamballe. She was taken from her bed, and carried before this bloody tribunal, massacred, and her head carried by the populace to the Temple, to be seen by the Queen, whose friend she was.
 It was on the evening of the second day which had witnessed this dreadful carnage, that a number of the Royalists, male and female, sought an asylum in a mansion, once the scene of revelry and gaiety—now of sadness and terror. There were assembled many of the soi disant philosophers, and many who had been deluded by them. Among the former, was Monsieur A, distinguished not less by his learning and talents, than by his licentious yet sprightly sallies, at the expense of every thing sacred. But now, even the facetious Monsieur A, was mute. All was silence and despair. At length Mademoiselle C. a young lady celebrated at Court for her personal charms & great amiableness of character—who had been seduced from the religious principles which at an earlier age had been too faintly impressed on her mind—advancing towards Monsieur A. and throwing herself on the floor, exclaimed, with a piercing shriek, "Oh! give me back my God!" The company immediately dispersed.
 What theme is here for meditation!
