A Good Farm for Sale.
The subscriber contemplating a removal from the neighbourhood where he now resides would dispose of, at private sale, the plantation whereon he now lives, lying in Anne Arundel county, and contiguous to the waters of the Patuxent, being not more than three miles from the village of Queen Anne, and about the same distance from Mount Pleasant Ferry. This plantation is in an excellent neighbourhood, has a competency of excellent timber, tall stuff, &c. and is now under complete enclosure. There are many delightful springs, and a stream of water on it which has never been known to fail in the dry seasons. The improvements are good and convenient. They consist of a very good dwelling house, stables, corn house, with sheds. Two fifty feet tobacco houses, one of which has a shed fifty feet long, together with a good kitchen, and two quarters for negroes. There are upwards of two hundred and eighty acres of this tract. Any person wishing to purchase, can view the place, which will be shown by the subscriber. The terms will be made known by
RICHARD ELLIOTT,

GLORIOUS NEWS FROM GREECE!
A paper sent to the New York Commercial Advertiser on Saturday afternoon, dated two o'clock, says, "We stop the press to announce the arrival of the ship Dreadnought, Capt. Napier, from Hydra, whence she sailed on the 2d of May. We have news of the Constitution to the 20th of April instants, and hasten to lay before our readers the following glorious news from Greece."

CORFU, April 5.
The opportunity which has hitherto refused, over the horizon of Greece has been disappointed— Ibrahim having lost a large portion of his army in his reiterated attacks upon Missolonghi, lately recalled to his assistance the troops which he had left at Glanzenza and Parga, to the number of 4000 men, and on the 24th of March made a general assault, in which he was mortally wounded. The enemy attacked the city upon the sea side, where the fortifications were known to be weak. It is not known how many men have fallen on each side, but it is pretended that several thousand Turks have been killed, because 3000 Greeks who arrived during the heat of the action fell upon the Turks, and thus accomplished the victory.
These troops were commanded by Col. Fabvier. Ibrahim received his wound from the musket of a soldier, who saw him employed in giving orders to his troops and recalling them to discipline. After this defeat Ibrahim took refuge in Lepanto, and passed over to Patras. Thus finished this famous siege, from which the enemies of liberty expected their triumph, and flattered themselves with the hope of seeing the Greeks fall and return to slavery.

The state of things in the Peloponnesus improves every day, and every thing is becoming more regular, and returning to order. The National Assembly, which had been convoked, not at Megara, but at Methona, (between Corinth and Argos,) carries on its business with zeal. The Government has commanded Colletti to set out and assemble and re-unite the forces of the chiefs of Ionia, and fly with them to the relief of Missolonghi.—Colocotroni is to remain blockading Tripolizza, until that place, pressed by famine, is forced to surrender. Colispolo is to go to Patras, and Nicetas is to observe those of the enemy who are at Navireno, and the president, Condouriotis, at the head of the Spartans, is to besiege Mokolon and Coron.

A letter under the date of Ancona, April 15, confirms the above defeat, adding the death of Ibrahim.
In another letter from Corfu, it is said Missolonghi still holds out—repelling all the assaults of the Turks. The camp of the Arabs has been burnt.
Another letter from Zante, April 5, says every thing is still in favor of the besieged. The camp of Ibrahim has been burnt and his troops discouraged. At this moment we hear a very heavy cannonade in the direction of Missolonghi. We have no fear, as the garrison is well supplied with provisions and ammunition.

Under the date of Augsburg, April 24, we find the following: "While the French journals make Ibrahim Pacha take Missolonghi by assault, the Corfu packet brings us letters of the 5th April, which confirm the news favorable to the Greeks. Ibrahim made another assault upon the 21st of March, but the Egyptians were repulsed with a loss of several thousand men; three Beys and a Pacha were killed on the field. Ibrahim himself has been dangerously wounded; and according to a report in the Ionian Islands, has died of his wounds; but this last news wants confirmation."
Letters from Zante, received at Venice, April 15, announce the death of Ibrahim Pacha.

[We find many other articles, all tending to confirm the fact, that the Greeks have met with some great and unexpected success.—Laus Deo.]
FROM SMYRNA.—By the brig Cherub, Capt. Rich, at Boston, in 73 days from Smyrna, the following intelligence is received.
Important information has been received at Smyrna from Mr. Washington in the Greek service, that a Greek fortress which commands Missolonghi, had been taken by Ibrahim Pacha, the garrison of which fled into Missolonghi, and as the Greeks in the latter place had only fifteen days provisions, it was expected the place would soon fall into the hands of their enemies. A Greek fleet was fitting out at Napoli with provisions and munitions of war for their relief. The Greek cause was considered hopeless, as they began to be considered as the common cause of their country, united themselves abandoned to fight it out without the least direct assistance from foreign powers.
In Candia nothing but the little rock Cerabure remained in their possession. Napoli di Romania was sickly. Messrs Washington and Jarvis were directing their way to Missolonghi. Mr. Miller was going to Ne-gropont to join Fuvier. Dr. How was attending the hospital at Napoli. Mr. Allen had arrived in Smyrna bay. It was well known at Smyrna, by recent arrivals, that preparations were making at Alexandria and Constantinople for another expedition to the Morea against the Greeks.

Grand Harmonicon,
OR, MUSICAL GLASSES,
MR. FRANCIS H. SMITH.

From Virginia, respectfully informs the public that he has lately invented and patented a new musical instrument which he is desirous to introduce into general use, and in order that the public may have a fair opportunity of judging its merits, intends giving a CONCERT at the Assembly Room, THIS EVENING JUNE 15th.

The Harmonicon, although not new in its principles, is yet different in its construction from all those musical glasses which have heretofore been exhibited, and competent judges have pronounced it decidedly superior. It combines great power with extraordinary sweetness and richness of tone, and is susceptible, at the same time, of the utmost variety in its combinations. So soft are its tones, that some have called it the Æolian Harp harmonicon, while others, on hearing its rich and powerful chords, have been deceived, by supposing it a well toned organ. Though capable of executing the most rapid passages, it is so soft and plaintive music that it is best adapted—affording a rich treat to the lovers of Scotch and Irish melody.

The science of music is, by means of the Harmonicon, brought within the compass of the meanest capacity. Although to an observer it may appear difficult of execution, yet nothing is more easily acquired. Half an hour's instruction will give any one who has already a knowledge of the principles of music, a full conception of the instrument; and a few weeks practice will make a pleasing performer. Mr. Smith has known many who could play at sight after ten minutes instruction.

This instrument certainly possesses many advantages over all others—such as the exquisite excellence of the music—the cheapness of its construction—its being always in tune, and the great facility with which a knowledge of it may be acquired.

PART I.
Within a mile of Edinburgh. A Prey to Tender Anguish. Bonnie Doon. Jesse's, the flower o' Dunblane. Auld lang syne, with variations, composed for the Harmonicon, by Mr. Smith. Though love is warm awhile. Begone dull care. Away with melancholy, and variations by Mr. Smith. Mozart's waltz.

PART II.
Will commence with the celebrated duet, Now at Moonlight's fairy hour. Hungarian waltz with variations. Yellow haired laddie O Nanny will thou gang wi' me. Auld Robin Gray. My Nanny O. The soldier's return. And conclude with the admired duet of A. L. well.

Tickets at 75 cts. each.—Children 50 cts.—may be had at Mr. Shaw's Store, and at the door—A Family or club ticket admitting four or more at 50 cts. each to be had of Mr. Shaw only. Performance to commence at 8 o'clock.

Orders for the Harmonicon will be received by Mr. Shaw. The glasses will be arranged in a neat mahogany case and delivered to subscribers for thirty-five dollars. A book of instructions containing also a selection of favourite music, will accompany each instrument.
