EXTRAVAGANCE.

From the U. S. Telegraph. Much has been said in the zealous administration prints about the insufficiency of the salary allowed to the agents of our government. It is doubted whether any sum. no matter how great, would be sufficient to enable some gentlemen to show their devotion to the trappings of royalty! The time was when such agents were not employed. We hope that our Republican: simplicity may be speedily restor-

The attention of plain farmers is invited to the following article from the Jackson Democrat, published in Reading. Pennsylvania; and they are asked, as they love their. country, to compare the monarchical tendency of public affairs abroad, with the demoralizing tendency of affairs at home-with the billiard table and other gambling apparatus purchased by money from the public treasury for the President's Mansion, and the efforts to silence a Senator from Virginia by the pistol of the Secretary of State, who was seconded by an officer of the FOREIGN MINISTERS .- We gave, last week, an extract from one of Mr. Carter's letters from Europe, descriptive of the splendour of our minister, Mr. Brown's style of living in Paris .- Now we cannot but think, that a more republican and plain style, would better become the representative of our country. Should no change be made in these things, our public will soon become as gaudy and tinselled as the best jewelled monarchy extant. Whilst upon this theme we would remark, that we have seen the dress of one of our Charge de Affairs to South America, and will try to describe it to our readers: A blue cloth coat, worked with gold four or five inches deep npon the lappets; cuffs, breast, and collar, with gold buttons; white waiscoat, worked to match, with gold buttons, and other gold insignia to correspond! Tho cost we forget. What would be the surprise of one of our honest farmers, if he could be transported to a levee, and see a Minister of America, a Democratic Republican strutting about in a gold laced coat, waistcoat, &c. Would be believe that that man represented Republicanism? We doubt it. Vet nothing to the Palace and gold dishes, knives and forks, spoons, &c. of the Minister. Is there no necessity for reform? But this must begin with the President.
