Valuable Land for Sale.

By virtue of a decree of the Court of Chancery, the subscriber will set up at public sale, on Thursday the 5th day of October next at 12 o'clock A. M. if fair, if not the first fair day thereafter, on the premises, the farm on which Mrs Elizabeth Linthicum now resides, composed of two tracts of land called "Poplar Neck," and "Mitchell's Addition," lying on the south side of South River, next above the Lower Ferry, and containing about 200 acres. This land has a kind soil and is well adapted to the cultivation of tobacco and grain, lies level and is very improveable. The improvements are a new convenient dwelling house, tebacco house and orchard, surpassing any in the county in its size and the quality of its fruit, the former owner being distroguished for the excellence and quality of the cider he made from it every year.

The terms of sale will be accommodating, and will be made known on the day of see Nich has Brewer, Trustee. Sept. 21.

> West River Land FOR SALE.

The subscriber will sell at private ale, the plantation on which he now ives, lately the property of Daniel Murray, esq. This tract contains about 330 acres, and for its size com bines as many advantages as any in the state, having been highly improved by clover and plaister, and is well adapted to the growth of tobac-co, wheat, corn. &c. It has an extensive meadow well set in timothy, and another of equal size may be set this fall. The improvements are a comfortable frame dwelling, with every nesessary outhouse, say dairy, smoke-house, ice house, &c. with houses sufficient to cure 40,000 wt. tobacco, nearly all new. There is wood enough for the support of the farm; it is well watered, having several natural streams through it, a pump of excel-lent water at the door, and a well in the farm yard. In short it will suit the planter, farmer or grazier. As nothing but pecuniary embarrassments induce me to offer this property for. sale, a great bargain may be had by early application to the subscriber

William G Sanders. A. A. county Sept. 21, 1826. The Editor of the Baltimore Gazette will publish the above once a week untill countermanded.

Public Sale.

The subscriber will offer for sale on the 29th day of this present month, the farm on which he now resides, called "Rockhold's Stand," containing one hundred and two acres and three fourths of an acre of land. This farm adjoins the lands of Mr. David Robinson and Mr John Tydings, and is situate near the waters of Magothy river, in Anne Arundel county. It is under good fences, has comfortable improvements, with plenty of wood, and good water, and to a person with a small family, would be a desirable situation. The desirable take place at 11 o'clock A.M. of the premises.

FEMALE HEROISM. From the 'Sketches of a Soldier's Life in Ireland.

* She was the individual who distinguished herself so nobly at Matagorda, near Cadiz, while the French were besieging the lat-ter place in 1810. Her husband was then a serjeant in the 94th regiment, and one of the detachment that occupied that fort, when the French bombarded it with thirty pieces of cannon. It may be easily conceived what havor would be created by so much artillery playing upon a place not more than an hundred yards square, and it may also be imagined that few women could have maintained ordinary courage or self possession in such a place; but from the commencement of the action she behaved in a manner which it is scarcely in my power to do justice to. The bomb proofs being too small to contain the whole garrison, some of the men had huts formed on the battery. and among the rest was that of Mrs. R-When the French opened upon us. she was awakened out of her sleep by a 24 pound shot striking the fascine where her head lay; but nothing daunted, she got up and removed her child, a boy about four years old, down to the bomb proof, and assisted the surgeon in dressing the wounded men, who were fast increasing on his hands, for which purpose she tore up her linen and that of her husband. Water being needed, one of the drum boys was desired to go and draw some from the well in the centre of the battery; but he did not seem much inclined to the task, and was lingering at the door with the bucket daugling in his hand .- Why don't you go for water?' said the surgeon. 'Tho poor thing's frightened,' said Mrs. R—, and no wonder at it, give it to me and I'll go for it.' So saying she relieved the drummer from the perilous duty, and amid the dreadful discharge of artillery playing on the battery, she let down the vessel to fill it with water.

She had scarcely done so, when the rope was cut by a shot; but sho determined to get her message with her, and, begging the assis-tance of a sailor; she recovered the bucket and brought it filled with water down to the bomb proof, where her attention to the wounded soldiers was beyond all praise. In the intervals, she carried sand bags for the repair of the battery, handed along ammunition, and supplied the men at the guns with wine and water; and when the other two women, who has been in hysterics in one of the bomb proofs, from the time the action commenced, were leaving the battery she refused to

Next morning, our ammunition being expended, we ceased firing, and the French seeing the dilapiduted state of the fort, sent down a strong force to take possession of the place, and our men were mustered for their reception, when Mrs. R-was at the post with the others, determined to share in the danger. It was a critical moment, for, had they got under the range of our guns, our efforts would have heen unavailing. Through the rul-nous state of the fort, three guns, all that we could bring to bear upon them, were crammed with loose powder, grape, ball cartridge, &c. to the muzzle, ready for a farewell shot, and when they came within two or three hundred yards of the fort, we poured their contents into the very heart of the column and laid the half of them prostrate on the earth. Those, who survived, took to flight, their batteries again munition having arrived for us, we returned their salute; but, the place.
