I have always been of the number to import coarse woollen cloth, the enormous duty or tax fixed upon them, would have been added to the original cost, and the poor man whose family or tax upon imported woollen exopposed to every attempt to lay that ax upon them as would make impracticable for the poly man to needed warm comming to prove them from the cold of winter, would have been obliged to pay it, no matter how ill it might accord with his means, or submit to the necessity of seeing his family go without it altogether. But chase them, or compel the merchant abandon the importation of them hadon the importation of them in law which would impose upon sollen cloths a tax or duty amount at to a prohibition of their introduct in into the country instead of making steally an independent people, would are the effect of placing the agricultural, the mechanical and the labourg classes of citizens, who are the stnumerous and useful, in an absorbance of the stnumerous and useful, in an absorbance in the structure is the state of the structure is the state of the st tnumerous and useful, in an absoa law. The whole of this by has not yet been published in any other received by me, but from the following extract from it, the reader will per prestate of dependence upon the ma-practurers. This is well known by designing partizans of the day. to, for party purposes, are constant resetting themselves to make the ression muon the minds of those ement's serious reflection, that we never be truly independent while re import a single article from abroad. such fine talk as this may be well a-layed to the ear of the Eastern mamen wear, and the fine cloths which are worn only by the wealthy. Does not his show, that the New England members the assives viewed this measure bers themselves viewed this measure of the administration, as calculated particularly to benefit the manufacture with New Bugiand at the expense of the reat of the states? Is it becoming the rulers of this republic, to encourage appoint of the administration itself ago measures that in their action will prove grievous to the majority, because such measure will benefit a portion of her citizens in a few favourite states? Common sense will make every ingenuous man answer in the negative. No distinctions of this kind ought ever to be practised in a republic. COMMODORE PORTER.

The Editor of the New York Gazette has received information by the way of Havana, that Com. Porter had sailed flavana, that Com. Forcer had sailed for Cadiz bay, with the frigate Libertad and the brig Guerreto, (both well manned) with the view of intercepting the frigate Perla, which sailed from Havana on the 16th ult. with 5,50,000 in gold.

This confirms the statement published by us some days ago, that Commodore Parter was apprised of the sailing of the Perla, and would adopt measures to intercept her, if possible—As we have heard nothing of him for some time in the Wet Indies, it is likely he is gone towards Cadiz, but there is little doubt that the prize can only be obtained by hard fighting, she being well prepared for defence, and her commander a-ware that an effort would be made to
