Maryland Gazette.

PRINTED AND PUBLISHED

OL LXXXII.

and Seasonable

principally with Case latest arrivals, now at latest the lowest east principal attention, to give a to those who may favor in custom, (being duly most posite and convenient use ouse and Dock.

JAMES IGLEHART,

rtnership Dissolved

o-partnership heretofare et

ween the subscribers, ander EVANS & IGLEHART lived on the 1st instact by onsent. All persons large ibers, for settlement, and bted to the same in any married to the same in any married to come formal ely, and settle the same.

JOSEPH EVANS.

JAMES IGLEHART

DR DAVIS,

lassical and Mathemi

on the first of January,

his dwelling near the Popla

d (Lodging, Washing & Candles, included) 810

Total, in advance wited,

of Appeals of Maryland.

Subscription.

Holeidad e

RT OF APPEALS OF

eported by Thomas Harri

e, Clerk of the Court of A a. and Reverdy Johnson, wire. Altorney at Luw.

Decisions will form a con of the first volume of Report published by Messrs Ham

ber of each volume will a

Reports in bulky volume.

ense will not be so se

will be $1 25, payable on

Subscriptions to the above received at GEO SHAW the Maryland Gazette Uffer

respective Offices of the Care

TEAM-BOAT

LABTELAND.

Instead of half past 11.

ust Published

Sham & Claude's Store,

cation

PRINTING

And for Sale

25.

Maryland will discontinue route until the Spring and Il again resume her regul

OF THE

MARYLAND,

DECISIONS

, PUBLISHED

Jonas Green, CRCH STREET. ANNAPOLIS.

ce-Three Dollars per annum.

To the Voters

of Anne-Arundel County.

At the late election of delegates e general assembly of Maryland, induced to offer you my services induced to offer you my services resent you in that homourable assize. And, although a young 1 flattered myself that on act of my location in a part of the y that his not had a member for your assisted by the exertions. e neglibrars, and a number of any. I would be returned as ns of the poils proved that these rations were well grounded; and rantbeen for the effect produced rantogen for the charge production care certificates minted in band gred "Truth" and circulated that the county, only a few days the election. I feel assured that one of these certificates, nor how that such were in exise, too late to counteract the effect rereintended to have. On that at a regimental meeting in the Sanced found-that-my-political tion of deese handbillis, with cer er, and Mr. Richard Sellmen, by stating to them that I would to be re-election of John Quin ent. As I was confident that I are expressed myself as stated to printed certificates, when I would be stand. I feet it the charge contained in these configures out only two doys cheelection. But knowing how maly gentlemen misunderstand

when I felt disposed to view it resa misunderstanding. I ap-Compton, the gentleman men in Mr Mercer's certificate, as sir to Mr. Sellman's. Mr. Comp. to a to the courge, to a large and subjection of persons. And mand insult the raters of the attempted to obtain their sup-wa, when you consider the This duty is the more inwhen uncommon pains to show ertificates since the election. Mercer has stated to several friends, what he gave a qualiblge, and before it was public was: altered, and a part left that his knowledge or convent; at he did not approve of the al-

She will likewise leave at part of Mr. Sellman's was also ", as I understand without his edge. Here, my fellow-ettizens, et a base attempt to impose gar L. G. Taylor. erificates upon you. And is or should any man be allowed apparity to make alterations in ments of writing, and then pub en over the original signatures iscourse on Edo it not morally as had as after red by F. S. Kax. P.sq. in the 12d day of February has Panch 25 cresspapolic, Ince 21.

hat filches from me my good name, ne of that which not enriches him, makes me poor indeed."

of the animal to Mr. Proud for or the original certificate of Mr. mt success; co iscioni e original and printed certifi-te not agree, he refuses me eve-generous public will agree with me is holding. Mr. Proud responsible for the alterations made in Mr. Mercer's certificate, which has several lines left out in one place. But my Fellow Citizens, why all this mystery if the alte ration in the certificate does not after the sense? Why does not Mr. Proud on senser way does not Mr. Proud as he has it in his power, give me a correct copy of the original certificate of Mr. Morcor; but as he refuses me this act of justice, my only resource is to But such conduct generally produces a reaction, and I hope in this instance it may have that effect, as I am deter mined (from the renewed solicitations of many ardent friends, in different parts of the county, and encouraged by tion.) to offer you my services to re-present you in the Legislature of Ma-wants; and as I have been a Furmer the most of my life, I expected to be dependent on my own exertions for a jection with some of my political enenies. I now take my leave of y u; and for the many acts of kindness and hospitality I mer with during by excursions through the county. I beg you will accept the graveful acknowledge ments of our Ferend, and Fellow Citizen,

CHARLES S. MATHEWS. Elk Rulge, dec 12 1827

MISSIELLATT.

ORIGINAL ANECHOTE.

county of Direness, and the eccentric Judge Crane was to preside. Judge Crane was very wealthy, and highly virtues, especially for his charitable-ness to the more but he always dressed he rode when he went abroad, although he owned many valuable horses. On the morning of the day in which the court was to begin, the judge set our before day and walked gently on, through hall, rain and snow, to the appointed place. On arriving at Poughase attempt to immose forgeries of tivern, where he found the landling on the services were making large proparations for the entertainment of m. This days in the mass in the judges, lawyers, and other gentle men, whom they expected would attend the circuit court. The judge was determined to have some sport, and in a pleasant tone ad-dressed the land ady—I have no mo ney, and was obliged to come to court and I have wasked through this dread ful storm more than twenty miles, am wet and cold, dry and nungry. want something to eat before court nea magisterial posture, and putting on a countenance of contempt, said to the judge, you say you are wet and cold, dry and hot; now can all that be? No. my dear midam, says the judge, I said that I was wet and cold; and if you had been out as ting as I have been in this storm, I think you would be like wise wet and cold. I said that I want ed something to drink and cat. But you have no money, you say, retorted the landtady. I told you the truth, says the judge, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth, but were I as rich as Crossus, I would be willing to lady. I never knew him, said the judge, but I have understood that he ry satisfaction respecting it, although he has been seen with the original since my application to him for a copy, from all those circumstances connected, a wellas I now have, I would willingly with dignity and propriety.

When the says to her in an austere manner, found good fires and clean floors, and during the court hours he presided with dignity and propriety.

The says to her in an austere manner, found good fires and clean floors, and during the court hours he presided with dignity and propriety. go to work a little while, if I could on iv get something to drink and a bite of good victuals. Well, old daddy, save he, how much do you want to drink? Haif a gill of good brandy, madain. says he-Very well, says she, I will give you haif a gill, and some cold vicgive you haif a gill, and some con-tuals if you will go into the back yard and cut and split three arm-full of and cut and split three historen. wood, and bring it into the kitchen, good fire to dry the gentlemen's great appeal to that tribunal, (the Sovereign coats when they come, and after you People.) where justice is free to all, get your victuals, I shall want you to Well, says he, give me the He drank the liquor and walked quia good axe. and he soon laid by the ood, viz. his arms three times full. would cat and be off-now for the road by certificates, signed by men of high it is, said she coldly. And it is all respectability, and not garble I that I must as cold as myself, but not half so have here stated nothing by facts. wet, for I see neither tea, nor codec, I cannot let this occasion pass with-out returning to you my fellow citizens. not be choosers said she. Lam not begmy sincere thinks for your liberal sup-port at the late election. And I am happy to say, that in most of the dis-tricts my expectations were fully re-lated in the following supersymmetric structures and the following supersymmetric structures are supersymmetric structures and the following supersymmetric structures are supersymmetric structures and supersymmetric structures are supersymmetric structures are supersymmetric structures and supersymmetric structures are supersymmetric s To my triends in a yown dis- cold pork and beef, cold potatoes and press oy gratitude. Meny of you save soup, and if you want any tinog het known me from boynood, and your there is mustard and pepper, and nergeneous support is a proof of your is good brend, good butter, and good disregard of the foul aspersion at the greese, and ad good enough for such tempted to be cast unon-ny character. An old tagammum as you are: It is Rissel and educated among yea, I at very good, said he: pleasantly, flattered myself that I knew your, out maidam or so good as to let me have some new milk warm right from the cow, to wet this good victuals. The cows are not milked, says see. Then let me have a bowl of cold milk, said storm to the spring house to skin it for smile, dear madam, I have a good wife at home, older than you are, who would go out in a worse storm than this to go out in a worse storm than this to bringed no on, was right in among misk the rows, and bring the milk to barehold of gentlemen taiking as the poorest man on earth, at his requests or to bring the milk from the lawyers were (againg that in. Then spring house, cream and all without go says sie, and waisper to the old skinning, to feed the most abject of the human race. You have a very good kitchen. The error of was done accordingly wife at home, says sire. Indeed I aive said he, and she keeps my dathes clean and whole, and now, this tanding you called me tax old ragamuffin,? I am not ashuned to appear abroad in the clothes I wear in any good company-Well, I must confess, says she, Shorily after the first republican constitution of the State of New York was framed, and the judiciary system was estransized for the civil depirtment, the supreme court, or that branch of it called the vericuit court. Was appointed for one of the circuits, in the region of Directors and the point of Directors and the property of Directors and Direct Crane? The circuit julge, says she,

Well, says the judge, I will bet a goose, that Judge Crane has not had, and will not have a great coat on his back or an umbrella over his head this day. You old goose, said she, I care nothing for your nets. Est and be off. I tell you judge Crane is to be here, and we've no room for you. I don't care said he, one tye straw more for Judge Crane, than I do for myself. court house, and stay until dinner time, than go to any tavern; and if business was very urgent, he would be very likely to say away even from din ner. I know something about the old coig r, and some people say he is a run v, tosty, crusty, old fudge.—Pret ty talk indeed, says the landlady, about the supreme judge. Now ext your cold check and be off, or be off without eat. ing just as you please. I tell you. and the judge, Judge Crane is not the supreme judge, and if he were he is no more fit to be a judge than I am. Well move he off with yourself, says she. Don't be in so great a hurry, said he, mildly. I wish to know who is the Landford here? I wish to know where ty, and wont be home till night; but if he were here you would not stay long he were here you would not stay long. Well, madam, said he, give us a cup of cider to wet my victuals, if you won! give me mick. Not a drop, says her ladyship. The judge who had now got pretty well warmed and dried, and wished for his breakfast, put on a stern countenance, and positively declared he would not leave the room and fire until he pleased. But, added he, if work for something to eat and drink.

"Croesus?" says the and be off. The cider was immediately. I never knew him, said the judge, but I have understood that he was very rich. I want something to the collation before him, was very rich. I want something to the collation before him.

one of the supreme judges, you old walked to the court nouse, was found good fires and clean floors, and during the court hours he presided with dignity and propriety.

When the judge withdrew, the landlady anxiously looked after him for so netime, as he walked steadily on towards the court house, supposing him to be some poor man summoned up to court as a witness, or some cul-prit or some vagab and who might give her further trouble in time of courts, that they would see that he did not who might be gentlemen and the judged ver, and he is certainly crazy or drunk, who might be up there. White some for he is down at the table, and has of the girls declared if he did cone, they would use some of his own/expudding already, and has his nose right pressions which he used respecting rus y. crusiv,' yes, and 'fu'ty old fu'ze,' says another. When dinner was announced, the court not being througed, was incon-dictely adjourned, and the day being stormy and cold, the judges and law yers poured into the sheriff's taxorn; where they were sme of good fires and who walked to a store and proclassed a valuable shawl, and put into his pocket on the inside of his coa; then wasked quietry to the tavern. While he was thus distanced, the landlady enthe answer, was that yet melain, and est respect to the subreme judge, retired to the kitchen, not a little chagrin ed, or disappointed. In the mean time the judge arrayed, and being at proper times very sociable, and at all times, tout of cheering he minds of thissa present, he jegan to alike some pertinent remarks, and to tell some lively anecdores, intended to convey good morals; which set the whole company into a roar of langater. And at this instant, one of the waiting maids enmen that they might sit down to dinner. She did her errand and hastened back to her mistress with the tidings. loud as be could, and all the judges and ingly, and the judge in a low tone of voice, said to the girl, toly your mistress I have a little business to do you by rehearsed the message, and added that she believed the oil fellow was two or three days." Well, Butty, says the mistress, go the clean plates for a change is ready, and that all the toots and pies, &c. are no roon for you. I don't in good order. Bet y again repaired he, one rye straw more for to her post at the head of the table, men now sat down to an excellent repast, and after a short ejaculatory address to the throne of grace, delivered by Judge Crane, in which he artored the Rather of all mercies for feeding all his creatures throughout the im mensity of space-invoked a blessing on that portion of earth's bounty then before them, and supplicated distinct mercy through the merits of our Re deemer, the gentlemen began to carve and serve round in usual form. But as the Judge was of a singular turn in almost every thing, and had to ken a fancy that if a person custimi food at the same meal, and that which is more solid and harder of the stion, that the light food should be eaten first; he therefore filled his plate with som pudding, made of milk, rice, and eggs, and placing himself in rather an awkward situation, with his left elbow on the table and his head near the plate, began to eat according to his common custom, which was very fast, although he was not a great cater. And some of the gentlemen near the judge, followed his example as to pattaking of the pudding before the meat, of course a large deep vessel which had contain seeing him there in that position, so dis oncerted the poor girl, that she did not observe that any one excepting the judge had partaken of the pudding, nor did she know what he meant by sallad; ban was nearly empty, and then has tened back with her utmost speed to her mistress, and addressed her with Lord madam, that old fellow's there yet, and he is certainly crazy or drunk pudding already, and has his nose right down in a plate full now, shoveling it in like a hog; and told me as if he was lord of the mannor, to bring him a clean plate to cat salled on Bless me, where can we get sall of at this time of the year: And the gentlemen have not done carving, and not one has begin to eat meat, much less to eat a tub full of pad ling.

Aye, he'll get a clean plate, say-Martina, before gentlemen want clean

I'll clear him out, says the mistress and starts for the dining room, burning with indignation. The judge was remarkable for not giving unnecessary trouble to any body where he put up, and generally ate whatever was set before him without making any remarks; and seldom made parhyps he may not come. The faint laty who was anxious to pay the high-lest respect to the stareme judge, retir-lest this time he had observed near him, a dish of beau iful raw white cabforce, cut up and put into vinegar's (with the Low Darch at Poughkerpsie call cold slaw and which he called salful.) and he wished for a separate plate to prepare so ne of it for his own fan control of the called salful. The carving and serving were not yet finished, when he expected a clean plate and when the landlady arrived a the door of the diving room determined to drive him out. She alvanced with a firm step to the door, and fixed her keen eye sternly on the judge, when he, turned his eye that way, and an I have a clean plate to eat som sallad on? A clean plate and sallad! retorted the landledy in lignority. I wish you would come into the kitchen, until gentlemen have dired: I had reserved that seat for Judge Crane. The company were struck with astonish ment and fixed their eyes alternately sit or stood in mute suspense-when the judge gracefully raised himself up in his chair carelessly folding his armacross his breast, then putting his head awkwardly on one side. You saved this seat for Judge Crane, did you, landla-dy? Indeed I did, says she It was so in as my business is done, I'll be of but if you will step to the door and see if he is coming or send one of the ser-vants to call for him with your permisbick and when the gentlemen begin to sion and the approbation of these gensit down, do you stand by the need of themen, with whom I have some busigen le lucss to do, I will occupy his seat until left at lyou shall find the judge - Find the man that I wish a vacant price of the head of the table for Julys Crune, and then do you hasten back and see for him yourself, not send me or my servants. I gave you your breakfast servants. I gave you your breakfast you fill two more turcenes with grays and put one at each end of the long table. And Ma tha, do you see that all quietly and keep away, and now you quietly and keep away, and now you must come here to disturb gentlemen at dinner. Here the whole joke burst on the minds of the gen ienen present, who fell into a load fit of aughter.— Judge Crane, than I do for myself, and softly informed a gentleman of the and, that if he and softly informed a gentleman of the and the softly informed a gentleman of the and, the says the judge mildly, did I chop would have likely go directly to the ed back to assist John. The gentleman did, says she, and said you had no more content. nev. I told you the whole truth, says the judge, but I have a beautiful shawl worth more than ten dollars, which I just now bought, and will leave it with you in pawn, if you will only let me eat dinner with those gentlemen. Here the gentlemen were biting their lips to keep from hughter. How did you buy a showl worth more than ten dollars, without money? I bought on credit says he. And where did you find credit to that amount says she? I brought it from home said he. That is a like ly story, and something like your buse of Julya Come, this morning we she. How could I abuse the judge if he was not present? said he. Why says she, you called him rusty, fusty tudgy and old codger and said you did not care a rye straw more for him than you did for yourself. And here the whole company were in an uproar of laughter again. But as soon as it a little subsided, one of the gentlemen asked the landlady how she knew that > used in England, instead of the English bushel; and the inhabitants of Pough keepsie were mainly Low Dutch at that the gentleman she was addressing was not Judge Crane He Judge Crane! said sher he looks more like a snipe than a crane!

Here the loud laughter burst forth again. And, after a little pause, the judge said; "I must confess that I am not a bird of very fine feathers, but I issure you that I am a Crane, and a rane is often a very useful instrument: I saw a very good one in your kitchen this morning; and sometimes an instrument called a torane,' is of incalcula-sle use, madam." Before she had time to reply, so ne of the gentlemen with whom she was acquainted, assured her hat she was talking with the presiding Astonished and confounded, the attempted some excuse, and hasti-

The judge had, by this time, unobserved, taken from his pocket the beautiful shawl, and folded it at full length, one way, and in a narrow form the other, and it being of a very fine texture, appeared more like an elegant sash than like a valuable shows. When he arose, with graceful dignity, and, with a half smile advanced a few steps towards the landlady, saying, "it is not my province to pardon, but it is my business to judge! and I judge that wy of and I shall, hereafter, be friends— & I judge, also, that you will, without mesitation, receive this as a present, if not as a pawn," So saying, he gently laid it were the laid it over her shoulders and across her arms, saying: Take it, madam, and do not attempt to return it, for it was purchased on purpose for a pre-sent for you." She hastily retired in confusion, hardly knowing what she did, and took with her the snawl worth twelve dollars instead of ten.

And here were three parties who had each two good things. The land-lady had a good shawi and good less on to ineditate now—the confessors and A good illiner and good jike to talk over—ind too judge had good intentions of the joke, and good will and ability to follow up, he lesson given.

AFFECTING.

The following aff-cting a count was related to me a few years since, while wo men, who went into the celebrated Mummoth Cave, which is situated in Green county. Kentucky, and is about 10 miles in length, with the intention of exploring it:-

These men, after having provid d themselves with a lantern, food and re-freshments, for one or two days journey, entered the cave, and commenced their subterranean tour. As they walked on from one apartment to another, viewing in astonishment the wonders of this stupendous cavern, and often came to large and almost fathomless pits, which they passed with much difficulty by crawling on their hands and knees. They proceeded in this way, waiking and crawling for about a day, and in the mean time, had passed a number of these pits. They had just passed one of them, when, by some fatal accident, their light was extinguished. One of them, in the agony of despair, appeared to lose his reason—became bewilered --- whirled round, exclaiming, Lord have mercy on us, and fell! and in fulling, plus god headling into the pit they had just passed. His companion listened, and heard him distinctly strike on the bottom and groan. He called to him, but received no answer—he called again but all was si-lent as the tomb. I thought, said he, had I but fallen with him it must have been a happy circumstance, for to attempt to find the month of the cave, they had met with in entering, must, he conceived, be impossible. He thought therefore, of dying only by starvation. He concluded, however, to make an at-ternot to get out; he could but die, he thought, by sharing the fate of his com-panion, and this would sooner put an end to his suffering.

He set out, crawling on his hands and knees, and proceeded safely in this way about a day, when he again yielded to his feelings, and borst into tears. This alone he said, relieved his agony. He set out again, but with little hope of arriving at the mouth of the cave, and continued winding his way in midnight darkness about a day longer. As they entered the cave they observed that it branched off in various directions, and he concluded that he had taken a wrong one, and was as far or farther from the entrance than when he ser out. The possibility again occurred to him of finding the way out; and once more nnding the way out; and once more he summoned his remaining strength, and commenced groping his way thro? the dreary cavern—and on the morn-ing of the third day, when nature was nearly exhausted, and all hope had fled, he thought he perceived the dawn of light, and on suddenly turning a corner the morning star shone full in his face! His feelings, he said, must be imagined, for they could not be describ-

[Zion's Herald.