DREADFUL ACCIDENT. On the forenoon of last Sunday, an accident of a truly melancholy nature occurred near the village of Bolivar.

Blairsville, Pa. Record.

BLOWING UP OF THE STEAM FRIGATE FULTON.

An accident of a most awful and fatal character, occurred at the New York Navy Yard, on Thursday evening, the 10th inst.

DREADFUL EXPLOSION. Our city was astounded last evening by the appalling intelligence of the destruction of the Steam Frigate Fulton, at the Navy Yard, Brooklyn.

The Fulton has ever since the war been occupied at a receiving ship, and was moored within two hundred yards of the shore.

The escape of Midshipman Eckford seems to have been almost miraculous. When Com. Chauncey, who was one of the first to reach the vessel, got on board, the first object that met his eye was young Eckford hanging by one of his legs between the gun deck, whether he had been forced by the explosion.

The room in which the officers were dining was situated about midships. The whole company at the table were forced, by the concussion, against the transom, with such violence as to break their limbs, and otherwise to cut and bruise them in a shocking manner.

THE BODIES OF THE KILLED. The bodies of the following persons have been brought on shore and placed in coffins.

It happened fortunately that sixty-two men formerly attached to the frigate, were drafted on Tuesday, and had proceeded to Norfolk to form part of the crew of the frigate Constitution, now on the eve of departure for a foreign station.

MR. MAHON'S ADDRESS.

To the Jackson Voters of Baltimore City and County. Circumstances of a private nature, and of very recent occurrence, which are beyond my control, compel me to decline being a Candidate for the high office, for which I have been nominated, by the Jackson Convention.

Looking back to the causes which have called me into political life, in this community, and to the exertions which have sustained me, in my onward course, I am penetrated with feelings of the liveliest gratitude, towards those, with whom I have had the honor of acting, throughout the late contest.

The contest was one, which admitted of no neutrals. In our estimation, it deeply involved the purity of our institutions—it tested the capacity of the people of this country, to sustain themselves against the subduing and enervating influence of an administration, which sprang into power, without their aid—it determined the question, whether we should bow down under the dominion of precedents, whose safety consisted in the establishment of a succession to the Presidency, wanting nothing but the purple to assimilate it, to the governments of older times.

As soon as the intelligence reached the city, thousands of persons visited the wreck of the Fulton. The steam boats on their passage up the river, stopped to learn the particulars, and hundreds of small boats proceeded to the spot. The Navy Yard was also filled with persons making inquiries after their relations or friends, and expressing much anxiety to see the bodies, for the purpose of ascertaining whether they were among the dead or wounded.

The interest excited by the news of this event, was last evening sublime and universal: Nor has it abated this morning.

Commodore Chauncey, and the officers of the station, were on board the wreck, after the explosion, giving directions to remove the scattered timbers, in order that a search might take place for such bodies as might be buried in the ruins.

The tide being at the ebb, immense quantities of the fragments of the ship floated down in front of the city, and hundreds of small boats were seen busily engaged in securing them.

Since the foregoing was prepared, we have had a call from an officer who left the wharf since ten o'clock. The tide had come in, so that the wreck filled with water.

What is a very remarkable circumstance, although several of the persons at dinner, in the ward room, seated with their lives, and some of the main-jarvel, not a vestige of the timber chairs, or any of the furniture remained. Every thing was blown to atoms.

LATEST FROM ENGLAND.

The ship Mentor, Webb, has arrived at New York from Liverpool, bringing London papers to the 29th and Liverpool to the 26th May instants.

The riots in the manufacturing districts, have produced the consequences that were to be apprehended. Blood has been shed. Five men have been killed at Rochdale, and about twenty five wounded.

The dragoons are ordered to march to-morrow from Birmingham to Leeds. Hopes are entertained that the differences between the masters and men at Spitalfields will be adjusted.

A letter from Ancona states that the United States have failed in their effort to obtain from the Porte, the cession of an island in the Mediterranean. They had opened a negotiation with the Greek Government for the same object, with every prospect of success.
