

For the Maryland Gazette.

Resolved, That all friends in this State and the District of Columbia, favourable to the present administration, be requested to publish these resolutions in their papers.

For the Maryland Gazette.

Resolved, That the election of Andrew Jackson, President of the U. S.

For the Maryland Gazette.

Written in the manner of Lord Byron.

For the Maryland Gazette.

A SPLENDID COFFIN. The coffin which received the corpse of the late King of Madagascar.

For the Maryland Gazette.

Resolved, That we regard the election of Andrew Jackson to the Presidency, as a triumph of republican principles.

For the Maryland Gazette.

Resolved, That we will maintain the present administration, confident that it pursues a policy most beneficial to the country, and deserving public approbation.

For the Maryland Gazette.

Resolved, That we believe there is a faction in the United States, determined to oppose Jackson and his administration, right or wrong.

For the Maryland Gazette.

Resolved, That we consider it highly important to the interests of Maryland, that she should be represented in the General Assembly, as well as in Congress, by men favourable to the administration of Andrew Jackson.

For the Maryland Gazette.

Resolved, That this meeting pledge themselves to give a warm support to Michael C. Sprigg, as Candidate for Congress, and to the four Candidates who may be brought out by Delegates to the General Assembly.

For the Maryland Gazette.

Resolved, That meetings of the friends of Jackson be held in the different election districts, in Washington county, on Saturday the 29th day of August, to select a committee of five to meet at Hagerstown, in Convention.

For the Maryland Gazette.

Resolved, That we regard the election of Andrew Jackson to the Presidency, as a triumph of republican principles.

For the Maryland Gazette.

Resolved, That we believe there is a faction in the United States, determined to oppose Jackson and his administration, right or wrong.

PIRACY AND MURDER.

The following narrative of the plunder and murder of the crew of the Vraw Fredericks, a Dutch brig of 200 tons, belonging to Haarlem, was detailed by a gentleman just arrived from the Florida in the Lovely Nancy, now in the Thames.

At this place it was supposed he left the road, and the track of a horse was traced by some persons through a forest of thickets, over the hill, coming out to the road, where the corpse lay, about fifty yards above the place.

At this place it was supposed he left the road, and the track of a horse was traced by some persons through a forest of thickets, over the hill, coming out to the road, where the corpse lay, about fifty yards above the place.

At this place it was supposed he left the road, and the track of a horse was traced by some persons through a forest of thickets, over the hill, coming out to the road, where the corpse lay, about fifty yards above the place.

At this place it was supposed he left the road, and the track of a horse was traced by some persons through a forest of thickets, over the hill, coming out to the road, where the corpse lay, about fifty yards above the place.

At this place it was supposed he left the road, and the track of a horse was traced by some persons through a forest of thickets, over the hill, coming out to the road, where the corpse lay, about fifty yards above the place.

At this place it was supposed he left the road, and the track of a horse was traced by some persons through a forest of thickets, over the hill, coming out to the road, where the corpse lay, about fifty yards above the place.

At this place it was supposed he left the road, and the track of a horse was traced by some persons through a forest of thickets, over the hill, coming out to the road, where the corpse lay, about fifty yards above the place.

At this place it was supposed he left the road, and the track of a horse was traced by some persons through a forest of thickets, over the hill, coming out to the road, where the corpse lay, about fifty yards above the place.

From the Hagerstown Torch Light.

The examination of the witnesses commenced on Friday 14th, and closed on Wednesday 19th inst. The pleadings were opened on Thursday 20th, by Mr. Dixon, on the part of the state, who was followed by Mr. Buskirk and Mr. McMahon, same day, on the part of the prisoner, Mr. McMahon occupied the greater part of the day on Friday, and was followed on Saturday, by Mr. Dixon, who concluded his speech on Saturday.

At 4 o'clock on Saturday, the jury retired, and after an absence of ten minutes returned with a verdict of 'Guilty of murder in the first degree.'

The following brief sketch of the testimony we are indebted to a gentleman, who was in Cumberland during the trial, and in whose statement we have the utmost confidence.

The testimony commenced with the marriage of the accused, which it was attempted to be proved, was on his part, from mercenary motives.

The testimony commenced with the marriage of the accused, which it was attempted to be proved, was on his part, from mercenary motives.

The testimony commenced with the marriage of the accused, which it was attempted to be proved, was on his part, from mercenary motives.

The testimony commenced with the marriage of the accused, which it was attempted to be proved, was on his part, from mercenary motives.

The testimony commenced with the marriage of the accused, which it was attempted to be proved, was on his part, from mercenary motives.

The testimony commenced with the marriage of the accused, which it was attempted to be proved, was on his part, from mercenary motives.

out, 'Stand from Under!'

By an endorsement on the Way Bill received this morning from Cumberland, we learn that George Bowering has made a confession, in which he accuses Rachel Cunningham with the murder of his wife.

By an endorsement on the Way Bill received this morning from Cumberland, we learn that George Bowering has made a confession, in which he accuses Rachel Cunningham with the murder of his wife.

By an endorsement on the Way Bill received this morning from Cumberland, we learn that George Bowering has made a confession, in which he accuses Rachel Cunningham with the murder of his wife.

By an endorsement on the Way Bill received this morning from Cumberland, we learn that George Bowering has made a confession, in which he accuses Rachel Cunningham with the murder of his wife.

By an endorsement on the Way Bill received this morning from Cumberland, we learn that George Bowering has made a confession, in which he accuses Rachel Cunningham with the murder of his wife.

By an endorsement on the Way Bill received this morning from Cumberland, we learn that George Bowering has made a confession, in which he accuses Rachel Cunningham with the murder of his wife.

By an endorsement on the Way Bill received this morning from Cumberland, we learn that George Bowering has made a confession, in which he accuses Rachel Cunningham with the murder of his wife.

By an endorsement on the Way Bill received this morning from Cumberland, we learn that George Bowering has made a confession, in which he accuses Rachel Cunningham with the murder of his wife.

By an endorsement on the Way Bill received this morning from Cumberland, we learn that George Bowering has made a confession, in which he accuses Rachel Cunningham with the murder of his wife.

From the Hagerstown Torch Light.

The examination of the witnesses commenced on Friday 14th, and closed on Wednesday 19th inst. The pleadings were opened on Thursday 20th, by Mr. Dixon, on the part of the state, who was followed by Mr. Buskirk and Mr. McMahon, same day, on the part of the prisoner, Mr. McMahon occupied the greater part of the day on Friday, and was followed on Saturday, by Mr. Dixon, who concluded his speech on Saturday.

At 4 o'clock on Saturday, the jury retired, and after an absence of ten minutes returned with a verdict of 'Guilty of murder in the first degree.'

The following brief sketch of the testimony we are indebted to a gentleman, who was in Cumberland during the trial, and in whose statement we have the utmost confidence.

The testimony commenced with the marriage of the accused, which it was attempted to be proved, was on his part, from mercenary motives.

The testimony commenced with the marriage of the accused, which it was attempted to be proved, was on his part, from mercenary motives.

The testimony commenced with the marriage of the accused, which it was attempted to be proved, was on his part, from mercenary motives.

The testimony commenced with the marriage of the accused, which it was attempted to be proved, was on his part, from mercenary motives.

The testimony commenced with the marriage of the accused, which it was attempted to be proved, was on his part, from mercenary motives.

The testimony commenced with the marriage of the accused, which it was attempted to be proved, was on his part, from mercenary motives.

From the Hagerstown Torch Light.

The examination of the witnesses commenced on Friday 14th, and closed on Wednesday 19th inst. The pleadings were opened on Thursday 20th, by Mr. Dixon, on the part of the state, who was followed by Mr. Buskirk and Mr. McMahon, same day, on the part of the prisoner, Mr. McMahon occupied the greater part of the day on Friday, and was followed on Saturday, by Mr. Dixon, who concluded his speech on Saturday.

At 4 o'clock on Saturday, the jury retired, and after an absence of ten minutes returned with a verdict of 'Guilty of murder in the first degree.'

The following brief sketch of the testimony we are indebted to a gentleman, who was in Cumberland during the trial, and in whose statement we have the utmost confidence.

The testimony commenced with the marriage of the accused, which it was attempted to be proved, was on his part, from mercenary motives.

The testimony commenced with the marriage of the accused, which it was attempted to be proved, was on his part, from mercenary motives.

The testimony commenced with the marriage of the accused, which it was attempted to be proved, was on his part, from mercenary motives.

The testimony commenced with the marriage of the accused, which it was attempted to be proved, was on his part, from mercenary motives.

The testimony commenced with the marriage of the accused, which it was attempted to be proved, was on his part, from mercenary motives.

The testimony commenced with the marriage of the accused, which it was attempted to be proved, was on his part, from mercenary motives.

From the Hagerstown Torch Light.

The examination of the witnesses commenced on Friday 14th, and closed on Wednesday 19th inst. The pleadings were opened on Thursday 20th, by Mr. Dixon, on the part of the state, who was followed by Mr. Buskirk and Mr. McMahon, same day, on the part of the prisoner, Mr. McMahon occupied the greater part of the day on Friday, and was followed on Saturday, by Mr. Dixon, who concluded his speech on Saturday.

At 4 o'clock on Saturday, the jury retired, and after an absence of ten minutes returned with a verdict of 'Guilty of murder in the first degree.'

The following brief sketch of the testimony we are indebted to a gentleman, who was in Cumberland during the trial, and in whose statement we have the utmost confidence.

The testimony commenced with the marriage of the accused, which it was attempted to be proved, was on his part, from mercenary motives.

The testimony commenced with the marriage of the accused, which it was attempted to be proved, was on his part, from mercenary motives.

The testimony commenced with the marriage of the accused, which it was attempted to be proved, was on his part, from mercenary motives.

The testimony commenced with the marriage of the accused, which it was attempted to be proved, was on his part, from mercenary motives.

The testimony commenced with the marriage of the accused, which it was attempted to be proved, was on his part, from mercenary motives.

The testimony commenced with the marriage of the accused, which it was attempted to be proved, was on his part, from mercenary motives.

From the Hagerstown Torch Light.

The examination of the witnesses commenced on Friday 14th, and closed on Wednesday 19th inst. The pleadings were opened on Thursday 20th, by Mr. Dixon, on the part of the state, who was followed by Mr. Buskirk and Mr. McMahon, same day, on the part of the prisoner, Mr. McMahon occupied the greater part of the day on Friday, and was followed on Saturday, by Mr. Dixon, who concluded his speech on Saturday.

At 4 o'clock on Saturday, the jury retired, and after an absence of ten minutes returned with a verdict of 'Guilty of murder in the first degree.'

The following brief sketch of the testimony we are indebted to a gentleman, who was in Cumberland during the trial, and in whose statement we have the utmost confidence.

The testimony commenced with the marriage of the accused, which it was attempted to be proved, was on his part, from mercenary motives.

The testimony commenced with the marriage of the accused, which it was attempted to be proved, was on his part, from mercenary motives.

The testimony commenced with the marriage of the accused, which it was attempted to be proved, was on his part, from mercenary motives.

The testimony commenced with the marriage of the accused, which it was attempted to be proved, was on his part, from mercenary motives.

The testimony commenced with the marriage of the accused, which it was attempted to be proved, was on his part, from mercenary motives.

The testimony commenced with the marriage of the accused, which it was attempted to be proved, was on his part, from mercenary motives.

From the Hagerstown Torch Light.

The examination of the witnesses commenced on Friday 14th, and closed on Wednesday 19th inst. The pleadings were opened on Thursday 20th, by Mr. Dixon, on the part of the state, who was followed by Mr. Buskirk and Mr. McMahon, same day, on the part of the prisoner, Mr. McMahon occupied the greater part of the day on Friday, and was followed on Saturday, by Mr. Dixon, who concluded his speech on Saturday.

At 4 o'clock on Saturday, the jury retired, and after an absence of ten minutes returned with a verdict of 'Guilty of murder in the first degree.'

The following brief sketch of the testimony we are indebted to a gentleman, who was in Cumberland during the trial, and in whose statement we have the utmost confidence.

The testimony commenced with the marriage of the accused, which it was attempted to be proved, was on his part, from mercenary motives.

The testimony commenced with the marriage of the accused, which it was attempted to be proved, was on his part, from mercenary motives.

The testimony commenced with the marriage of the accused, which it was attempted to be proved, was on his part, from mercenary motives.

The testimony commenced with the marriage of the accused, which it was attempted to be proved, was on his part, from mercenary motives.

The testimony commenced with the marriage of the accused, which it was attempted to be proved, was on his part, from mercenary motives.

The testimony commenced with the marriage of the accused, which it was attempted to be proved, was on his part, from mercenary motives.