SALE OF VALUABLE REAL ESTATE.

BY virtue of a decree of the Court of Chancery of Maryland, the subscriber, as trustee, will offer for sale at public auction on the premises, on Saturday the 28th day of November next, at 12 o'clock, the farm in Annapolis Neck, lately owned by Philip W. Thomas, deceased. This farm containing of land, is situated on South River, near its mouth. A considerable part of it is covered with heavy timber; in point of fertility of soil it is exceeded by none in the neighbourhood; the soil is peculiarly adapted to the growth of Tobacco and Corn, and every species of market crop, and from its proximity to Annapolis, (being only four miles distant,) a ready market is found for all its products—abundance of fish, oysters and wild fowl are always to be found on its shores, which are several miles in extent.

624 ACRES

THE TERMS OF SALE.
 As prescribed by the decree are, that the purchase money be paid in three equal instalments, at twelve, eighteen and twenty-four months, payment to be secured by bonds or notes, with security approved by the trustee.
 On ratification of the sale and payment of the whole purchase money, the subscriber is authorized to convey an estate in fee simple to persons disposed to purchase are invited to examine the premises now in the occupation of Mrs. Wells. For any further information application may be made to Ramsey Waters, of the city of Annapolis, or to the subscriber residing on the premises.

Swaim's Panacea

For the cure of Scrophulous, King's Evil, Pimples and Mercerial Diseases, Rheumatic Ulcers, Sores, White Swellings, Diseases of the Liver and Skin, General Debility, &c. and all diseases arising from impure blood.—It has also been found beneficial in Nervous and Dyspeptic Complaints.
 Price Two Dollars per bottle, and Family Dollars per dozen.

TO THE PUBLIC.

In consequence of the numerous frauds and impositions practised in reference to my medicine, I am again induced to change the form of my bottles. In future, the Panacea will be put up in "rotund bottles, fitted longitudinally with the following words blown in the glass: "Swaim's Panacea—Philadelphia." These bottles are much stronger than those heretofore used and will have but little probability of being broken, with my own signature on it, so that the cork cannot be drawn without destroying the signature, without which being genuine.—The medicine must consequently be bought to the genuine when my signature is visible; to counterfeit which, will be punishable as forgery.

The increasing demand for this celebrated medicine has enabled me to reduce the price to two dollars per bottle, thus bringing it within the reach of the indigent.

My panacea requires no opium; its astonishing effects and wonderful operation, have drawn, both from Patients and Medical Practitioners of the highest respectability, the most unqualified approbation, and established for it a character, which every pen, tho' dipped in gall, can never tarnish.

The false reports concerning this valuable medicine, which have been so diligently circulated in every part of the mischievous effects of the spurious imitations.

The Proprietor pledges himself to the public, and gives them the most solemn assurances, that this medicine contains neither mercury, nor any other deleterious drug.

The public are cautioned not to purchase my Panacea, except from myself, my accredited agents, or persons of known respectability, and all those who consequently be without recourse, who shall purchase from any other persons.

Philadelphia, Sept. 1828.
 From Doctor Vaentine Mott, Professor of Surgery in the University of N. Y., Surgeon of the New York Hospital, &c.
 I have repeatedly used Swaim's Panacea, both in the Hospital and in private practice, and have found it to be a valuable medicine in chronic, syphilitic and scrofulous complaints, and in obstinate cutaneous affections.
 Valentine Mott, M. D.
 New-York, 1st mo 5th, 1824.

From Doctor William P. Dewees Adjunct Professor of Midwifery in the University of Pennsylvania, &c. &c.
 I have much pleasure in saying I have witnessed the most decided and happy effects in several instances of inveterate disease from Swaim's Panacea, where other remedies had failed—one was that of Mrs Brown

 Philadelphia, Feb 20, 1823

From Doctor James Mease, Member of the American Philosophical Society, &c. &c.
 I cheerfully add my testimony in favour of Mr Swaim's Panacea, as a remedy in venereal disease. I saw two inveterate cases perfectly cured by it, after the usual remedies had been long tried without effect—those of Mrs Ocker and Mrs Campbell.

MISCELLANY.

(From Blackwood's Magazine for April)
THE INDIAN WITH HIS DEAD CHILD.

Then the hunter turned away from that scene, where the home of his father once had been, and burning thoughts flash'd o'er his mind. Of the white man's faith and love unkiln.—

In the silence of the midnight,
 I journey with the dead;
 In the darkness of the forest boughs,
 A lonely path I tread.
 But my heart is high and fearless;
 As by mighty wings upborne;
 The mountain Eagle hath not plumage,
 So strong as love and scorn.

I have rais'd thee from the grave sod,
 By the white man's path defiled;
 On to the ancestral wilderness
 I bear thy dust, my child!
 I have ask'd the ancient deities
 To give my dead a place,
 Where the stately footstep of the free
 Alone should leave a trace.

And the rocking pines made answer—
 Go, bring us back thee own!
 And the streams from all the hunter's hills,
 Rush'd with an echoing tone,
 Thou shalt rest by sounding waters,
 Thy not unquiet may roll;
 The voices of those chainless ones
 With joy shall fill thy soul.

In the silence of the midnight
 I journey with the dead,
 Where the arrows of my father's bow
 Their falcon-flight have sped
 I have left the spoiler's dwellings
 For evermore behind;
 Tumbling with their household sounds,
 For one shall sweep the wind.

Alone, amidst their hearth-fires,
 I watch'd my child's decay;
 Woe's deep I saw the spirit light,
 From his young eyes fade away.
 When his head sunk on my bosom,
 When the dead sleep o'er him fell
 There was none—'Pale race farewell!

To the forest to the cedars,
 To the warrior and his bow,
 Back, back I bore thee laughing thence,
 I bear thee slumbering now!
 I bear thee unto burial
 With the mighty hunters gone—
 I shall hear thee in the forest breeze,
 'Thou wilt speak of joy, my son!

In the silence of the midnight
 I journey with the dead;
 But my heart is strong, my step is fleet,
 My father's path I tread.

*A striking display of Indian character occurred some years since in a town in Maine. An Indian of the Kennebec tribe, remarkable for his good conduct, received a grant of land from the State, and fixed himself in a new township, where a number of families were settled. Though not ill treated, yet the common prejudice against Indians prevented any sympathy with him. This was shown on the death of his only child, when none of the people came near him. Shortly after he gave up his farm, dug up the body of his child and carried it with him two hundred miles through the forest, to join the Canadian Indians—Tudor's Letters on the Eastern States of America.

THE BLACK TRADER.

The second voyage I ever made was in the Good Intent, of Glasgow, bound to Puerto Rico. I have reason to remember it, for an awful and solemn mystery that attended it has impressed it on my memory, and few who were then with me have forgotten the perils and the horrors of that fated passage.

We had light but favourable winds for the first five weeks, and the captain and passengers were anticipating a speedy end to the voyage, when one night, as we were running about seven knots an hour, Gibbie Altam, who had the watch upon deck, saw a light to leeward shipping upon the water, or rather a snowy streak, as it appeared, at the distance of little more than a cable's length from the vessel. The captain, although he imagined it to be only the foam of a wave, immediately ordered Gibbie to heave the lead; but he found no bottom; and the man at the helm, who at the first alarm had altered the ship's course by the captain's orders, was now commanded to steer as before. At that moment a large, black looking vessel, which none of us had previously observed, came sailing swiftly over the white spot towards us. Our captain hailed her, but no one answered; and indeed not a soul was to be seen upon her deck. Her sails, like her hull, appeared to be perfectly black, and she seemed wandering like a dark spirit over the endless billows of the ocean.

"That's an ill token," said Gibbie, as he showed the departing vessel with his eye, "that's an ill token, or Gibbie kees natling toot ill! As sure as we are on the waters, we'll see the Black Trader, and few who meet her, be they gentle or simple, can boast such a proportion of survivors. As it is no sight, and some of us will find it see afore we'more."

As the vessel, seven small, pale, blue, thin men were standing on our deck, few or fore-castle, and having remained for a few
