Should we not love to bring oil times in view, And set our minds to find our what is true?

For we all know we cannot win a race, whilst we continue lingering in one place. Have you not heard by faith the world was made, And all its vast propertions filly laid, That God made man, and gave him glorious mind To praise his God, for which he was design'd—But off his guard, the man by freewill did The very thing his Maker had forbidy. Two hundred twody-two weeks past, Mankind more wicked grew at last; When the decree the world to drown, No righteous man but Noah was found, by faith he saw the flood would come, Prepared an ark and danger shun'd, One housed weets, with to il and sweat,

By faith he saw the flord would come, Prepared an ark and danger shun'd, One hundred years with roil and sweat, And when prepared all creatures met, And enter'd into that small pen: The flood all other's life did and. Abra'm was called by faith to shine, The middle of fullness of time, For he belier'd a Son would come, To die, and raise again to some. Thus by faith hie offered his son, Against reason the promise won. Thus by faith lie offered his son, Against reason the promise won. We would in our wisdom transgress, And say you gare this son to bless; For you have told me so and so, How numerous his seed should grow; How numerous his seed should grow; Hor he believ'd, and so he walk'd, Then he believ'd he'd raise the dead, He doubted not what he had said.
