

APPOINTMENT BY THE PRESIDENT. It is with pleasure we announce the appointment of VASILI MAXCY, Esq. of this county, to the office of Solicitor of the Treasury of the United States.

ADMINISTRATION MEETING. A meeting of the Republican central committee of Frederick county, was held at the court house in Fredericktown, on the 14th inst. The committee appointed the 4th inst. the day on which the delegates should assemble from the several election districts, for the purpose of nominating four suitable candidates to represent the county in the next Legislature.

For the Maryland Gazette. CALCULATION EXTRAORDINARY. The opposition in this state made fine calculations of success at the October elections; but it will be a moment's reflection to perceive that they must all fall to the ground.

ONE OF THE DISAPPOINTED. May 29. For the Maryland Gazette. MARYLAND, No. 3.—ANNAPOLIS. The cry of "Proscription" has almost ceased to have an effect in Maryland. It is now used in some counties along with the "American System" and "Internal Improvement."

cannot will not war with the fair sex; they do not wish to abridge any of their privileges of writing, or of speaking, in any the smallest degree. Ladies do not vote at our elections, and therefore it is right to hear them, to hear them patiently, and with kind, and friendly feelings, on whatever side they may be found.

We are happy to say Mr. Seaton is in the way of doing well, though still feeble. No injury appears to have been sustained by any of the organs, nor has he suffered much from the only severe evidently affected, were the kidneys, which have been unusually treated, and there have been some slight discharges of blood from the bladder and lungs.

FOREIGN. THREE DAYS LATER FROM ENGLAND. The packet ship Napoleon, at New-York, sailed from Liverpool on the 26th April, bringing London papers to the 25th, including the postscripts to the New-York afternoon papers of Friday the annexed items.

RELATING TO THE NATIVES, they are now at peace with us, and seem disposed for a festive and harmonious with the colonies. A person may go to any of the colonies, and can only be decided by an appeal to arms.

WINNERS CASTLE, April 22, 1880. The King is better. HALFORD. This announcement, brief, plain, and satisfactory as it doubtless is, was received with unmingled satisfaction, because although it did not acquaint us with the nature of the King's indisposition, it plainly proved that the immediate danger of the disease must have been removed, when the attendance of more than one physician, was no longer required.

ANTHONY WOODS. The above named person is well known among several respectable coach and blacksmith establishments, in this city.

EXTRAORDINARY CASE OF RESUSCITATION. EFFECTS OF LIGHTNING. Persons apparently dead from lightning have been recovered by repeatedly throwing cold water over the whole body.

FROM THE SHANNON TOWN (Ireland) Gazette of May 1. The treatment mentioned in the preceding paragraph, proved successful in a recent case of apparent death from lightning in this town.

THE ARRIVAL OF THE MEDITERRANEAN. Letters from Alexandria, announcing that the troops of the Pacha of Egypt have not moved, are reported very prevalent that, regarding the dissolution of the chambers had been decided upon, and that the ordinance would appear on the following day.

LETTERS FROM BEMLIN, of April 1, say the plague sensibly diminished at Adrianople. Out of 400 souls, which were on board the ship Newry at the time of her departure, between 40 and 50 were drowned, and not 200, as was at first stated.

will receive the No. 1 of the "Liberia Herald." All the news of the day you will see in it. I wish you would take a jaunt out here and look round for yourself and see how you like the country; as for myself, I am much pleased and satisfied. Mr. George McGill has done remarkably well with the goods he brought out, retailing them at 100 and 150 per cent. advance, for specie and ivory.

Providence is always for good, I might regret that a few curious incidents now among the events of my most singularly guided life, which, in addition to mere selfishness or peculiarity of character, could not have been practically illustrated the importance of imbuing the mind with religious and moral principles.

fect himself, that his clear and animated flow of eloquence never failed to stir the attention, and he became wherever he taught, the idol of his pupils. His lectures upon anatomy were read by the class, and the dissections were placed before the class—dissection, and muscle, and blood vessel, and nerve, and bone, were laid bare in turn—their use and position and nature exemplified to the eye, and enforced by the lecturer's precise description, while the student was in practical direction, I have never known an individual attend one of these courses and not receive the most profound impression of Dr. Godman's unrivalled teaching.

From Godman's (1841) Daily Advertiser. DR. JOHN D. GODMAN.

The late Dr. John D. Godman was in many respects an interesting and uncommon personage. His natural endowments were great, and the success with which he cultivated them amidst very numerous obstacles and discouragements were truly admirable. He was born at Annapolis, in Maryland, and had the misfortune to lose both his parents at an early age. His father, who had been wealthy, lost the greater part of his estate before his death, and the remainder was bequeathed to his children by the mismanagement of three trustees, who were appointed by his will.
