

The following extracts are from Memories of a Family in Eternity.

Soldiers of Christ, arise And put your armour on. Who in the strength of Jesus trusts, Is more than conqueror...

Mr. Lindley was a firm believer in the truth of the Christian religion, and in its vital and practical influence upon the heart and life. He could not have borne the idea of dying without its consolations.

He soon began to resist the attractions of God's spirit. He secretly treacherously expedited to extract the arrows of conviction from his soul.

His wife and children were also brought to the altar. His wife and children were also brought to the altar. His wife and children were also brought to the altar.

Mr. L. at first seemed averse to speaking upon the subject. Mrs. Anna was present and ventured to make a remark.

The sensibility of the father was touched by the solemnity of the occasion. "I do not think that my feelings as a character will warrant such a professional performance."

"I am rejoiced," said he, "to see one young man in his maturity devote himself to the service of his heavenly Father."

"If you are so judiciously advised, I for I am not to say, that the Lord will be with you."

The pleasure of the world, said Mrs. Anna, I can enjoy without regret, but I am sensible of my own weakness, to keep that white robe unstained.

She was more than satisfied, and her husband would have been present at the interview. He evidently sought to avoid it, and was accordingly absent at the time.

The next Sunday arrived. The afternoon had been appointed for the service. Mr. Lindley and his daughter were seated next to each other.

The ceremony proceeded. The meek, humble, and subdued appearance of the mother and her daughter, the tender, affecting and solemn language of the service, made a deep impression upon the congregation.

From the Monday that his wife and daughter received baptism, his views and feelings seemed totally changed. The effort which he made to withstand the strong wooing of the Spirit, that urged him to surrender himself to the service of his Saviour, seemed to burst at once from around him all those bands of religion which parental instruction had first imposed.

About four years had now elapsed since the occurrence of the events related in the last chapter. And in reference to those sweet scenes of domestic happiness, which formerly gladdened the dwelling of Mr. Lindley, it might well be said that they were gold become dim; how is the most fine gold changed!

which he thought necessary to adopt to carry his plans. He began to contract habits of dissipation. His usual noon was neglected. A brown, which never before had darkened the sunshine of his home, was now frequent.

He no longer visited the sanctuary of God. The truth that he there heard troubled him. He no longer read the bible, for condemnation flashed upon him from its every page.

At this time there was in this village an organized club of sceptics, who styled their body the 'Organization of Reason.' This club was made up of the most profane and profane in its conduct.

Mr. Lindley connected himself, and in time became a member of the club. In all those points in which his character formerly appeared most amiable, his conduct was now conspicuously and uniformly degraded.

At this time he was a member of the club. In all those points in which his character formerly appeared most amiable, his conduct was now conspicuously and uniformly degraded.

At this time he was a member of the club. In all those points in which his character formerly appeared most amiable, his conduct was now conspicuously and uniformly degraded.

At this time he was a member of the club. In all those points in which his character formerly appeared most amiable, his conduct was now conspicuously and uniformly degraded.

At this time he was a member of the club. In all those points in which his character formerly appeared most amiable, his conduct was now conspicuously and uniformly degraded.

At this time he was a member of the club. In all those points in which his character formerly appeared most amiable, his conduct was now conspicuously and uniformly degraded.

At this time he was a member of the club. In all those points in which his character formerly appeared most amiable, his conduct was now conspicuously and uniformly degraded.

At this time he was a member of the club. In all those points in which his character formerly appeared most amiable, his conduct was now conspicuously and uniformly degraded.

At this time he was a member of the club. In all those points in which his character formerly appeared most amiable, his conduct was now conspicuously and uniformly degraded.

At this time he was a member of the club. In all those points in which his character formerly appeared most amiable, his conduct was now conspicuously and uniformly degraded.

At this time he was a member of the club. In all those points in which his character formerly appeared most amiable, his conduct was now conspicuously and uniformly degraded.

At this time he was a member of the club. In all those points in which his character formerly appeared most amiable, his conduct was now conspicuously and uniformly degraded.

The Venus frigate, Captain Russell Bedford, arrived yesterday in this port. She brings back to France 200 conscripts and 73 sick men, as well as Gen. Foret de Moursay, and 20 officers.

The Venus frigate, Captain Russell Bedford, arrived yesterday in this port. She brings back to France 200 conscripts and 73 sick men, as well as Gen. Foret de Moursay, and 20 officers.

The Venus frigate, Captain Russell Bedford, arrived yesterday in this port. She brings back to France 200 conscripts and 73 sick men, as well as Gen. Foret de Moursay, and 20 officers.

The Venus frigate, Captain Russell Bedford, arrived yesterday in this port. She brings back to France 200 conscripts and 73 sick men, as well as Gen. Foret de Moursay, and 20 officers.

The Venus frigate, Captain Russell Bedford, arrived yesterday in this port. She brings back to France 200 conscripts and 73 sick men, as well as Gen. Foret de Moursay, and 20 officers.

The Venus frigate, Captain Russell Bedford, arrived yesterday in this port. She brings back to France 200 conscripts and 73 sick men, as well as Gen. Foret de Moursay, and 20 officers.

The Venus frigate, Captain Russell Bedford, arrived yesterday in this port. She brings back to France 200 conscripts and 73 sick men, as well as Gen. Foret de Moursay, and 20 officers.

The Venus frigate, Captain Russell Bedford, arrived yesterday in this port. She brings back to France 200 conscripts and 73 sick men, as well as Gen. Foret de Moursay, and 20 officers.

The Venus frigate, Captain Russell Bedford, arrived yesterday in this port. She brings back to France 200 conscripts and 73 sick men, as well as Gen. Foret de Moursay, and 20 officers.

The Venus frigate, Captain Russell Bedford, arrived yesterday in this port. She brings back to France 200 conscripts and 73 sick men, as well as Gen. Foret de Moursay, and 20 officers.

The Venus frigate, Captain Russell Bedford, arrived yesterday in this port. She brings back to France 200 conscripts and 73 sick men, as well as Gen. Foret de Moursay, and 20 officers.

The Venus frigate, Captain Russell Bedford, arrived yesterday in this port. She brings back to France 200 conscripts and 73 sick men, as well as Gen. Foret de Moursay, and 20 officers.

The Venus frigate, Captain Russell Bedford, arrived yesterday in this port. She brings back to France 200 conscripts and 73 sick men, as well as Gen. Foret de Moursay, and 20 officers.

The Venus frigate, Captain Russell Bedford, arrived yesterday in this port. She brings back to France 200 conscripts and 73 sick men, as well as Gen. Foret de Moursay, and 20 officers.

The Venus frigate, Captain Russell Bedford, arrived yesterday in this port. She brings back to France 200 conscripts and 73 sick men, as well as Gen. Foret de Moursay, and 20 officers.

The Venus frigate, Captain Russell Bedford, arrived yesterday in this port. She brings back to France 200 conscripts and 73 sick men, as well as Gen. Foret de Moursay, and 20 officers.

on her useless offspring. The children are still in blissful ignorance of their actual situation; they stand at the window of the carriage, and bow and kiss hands to the multitude, as they were wont to do when proceeding from the Tuilleries to the Chateau de St. Cloud.

Charles X. and his family left Valogne on the 10th at nine o'clock in the morning; they arrived at one o'clock at Cherbourg, and without stopping in the town they proceeded towards the great port, where they were expected by two American ships chartered for the purpose of carrying them away from France.

Charles X. and his family left Valogne on the 10th at nine o'clock in the morning; they arrived at one o'clock at Cherbourg, and without stopping in the town they proceeded towards the great port, where they were expected by two American ships chartered for the purpose of carrying them away from France.

Charles X. and his family left Valogne on the 10th at nine o'clock in the morning; they arrived at one o'clock at Cherbourg, and without stopping in the town they proceeded towards the great port, where they were expected by two American ships chartered for the purpose of carrying them away from France.

Charles X. and his family left Valogne on the 10th at nine o'clock in the morning; they arrived at one o'clock at Cherbourg, and without stopping in the town they proceeded towards the great port, where they were expected by two American ships chartered for the purpose of carrying them away from France.

Charles X. and his family left Valogne on the 10th at nine o'clock in the morning; they arrived at one o'clock at Cherbourg, and without stopping in the town they proceeded towards the great port, where they were expected by two American ships chartered for the purpose of carrying them away from France.

Charles X. and his family left Valogne on the 10th at nine o'clock in the morning; they arrived at one o'clock at Cherbourg, and without stopping in the town they proceeded towards the great port, where they were expected by two American ships chartered for the purpose of carrying them away from France.

Charles X. and his family left Valogne on the 10th at nine o'clock in the morning; they arrived at one o'clock at Cherbourg, and without stopping in the town they proceeded towards the great port, where they were expected by two American ships chartered for the purpose of carrying them away from France.

Charles X. and his family left Valogne on the 10th at nine o'clock in the morning; they arrived at one o'clock at Cherbourg, and without stopping in the town they proceeded towards the great port, where they were expected by two American ships chartered for the purpose of carrying them away from France.

Charles X. and his family left Valogne on the 10th at nine o'clock in the morning; they arrived at one o'clock at Cherbourg, and without stopping in the town they proceeded towards the great port, where they were expected by two American ships chartered for the purpose of carrying them away from France.

Charles X. and his family left Valogne on the 10th at nine o'clock in the morning; they arrived at one o'clock at Cherbourg, and without stopping in the town they proceeded towards the great port, where they were expected by two American ships chartered for the purpose of carrying them away from France.

Charles X. and his family left Valogne on the 10th at nine o'clock in the morning; they arrived at one o'clock at Cherbourg, and without stopping in the town they proceeded towards the great port, where they were expected by two American ships chartered for the purpose of carrying them away from France.

Charles X. and his family left Valogne on the 10th at nine o'clock in the morning; they arrived at one o'clock at Cherbourg, and without stopping in the town they proceeded towards the great port, where they were expected by two American ships chartered for the purpose of carrying them away from France.

Charles X. and his family left Valogne on the 10th at nine o'clock in the morning; they arrived at one o'clock at Cherbourg, and without stopping in the town they proceeded towards the great port, where they were expected by two American ships chartered for the purpose of carrying them away from France.

Charles X. and his family left Valogne on the 10th at nine o'clock in the morning; they arrived at one o'clock at Cherbourg, and without stopping in the town they proceeded towards the great port, where they were expected by two American ships chartered for the purpose of carrying them away from France.

Charles X. and his family left Valogne on the 10th at nine o'clock in the morning; they arrived at one o'clock at Cherbourg, and without stopping in the town they proceeded towards the great port, where they were expected by two American ships chartered for the purpose of carrying them away from France.

immediately set off for Verneuil to learn what he could do for him. He applied for instructions to M. Hocquart, the Intendant of the Kingdom, who accompanied him to the Maitre d'Hotel, after a previous conference with the Commissioners of Government, who accompanied the ex-King.

Charles X. and his family left Valogne on the 10th at nine o'clock in the morning; they arrived at one o'clock at Cherbourg, and without stopping in the town they proceeded towards the great port, where they were expected by two American ships chartered for the purpose of carrying them away from France.

Charles X. and his family left Valogne on the 10th at nine o'clock in the morning; they arrived at one o'clock at Cherbourg, and without stopping in the town they proceeded towards the great port, where they were expected by two American ships chartered for the purpose of carrying them away from France.

Charles X. and his family left Valogne on the 10th at nine o'clock in the morning; they arrived at one o'clock at Cherbourg, and without stopping in the town they proceeded towards the great port, where they were expected by two American ships chartered for the purpose of carrying them away from France.

Charles X. and his family left Valogne on the 10th at nine o'clock in the morning; they arrived at one o'clock at Cherbourg, and without stopping in the town they proceeded towards the great port, where they were expected by two American ships chartered for the purpose of carrying them away from France.

Charles X. and his family left Valogne on the 10th at nine o'clock in the morning; they arrived at one o'clock at Cherbourg, and without stopping in the town they proceeded towards the great port, where they were expected by two American ships chartered for the purpose of carrying them away from France.

Charles X. and his family left Valogne on the 10th at nine o'clock in the morning; they arrived at one o'clock at Cherbourg, and without stopping in the town they proceeded towards the great port, where they were expected by two American ships chartered for the purpose of carrying them away from France.

Charles X. and his family left Valogne on the 10th at nine o'clock in the morning; they arrived at one o'clock at Cherbourg, and without stopping in the town they proceeded towards the great port, where they were expected by two American ships chartered for the purpose of carrying them away from France.

Charles X. and his family left Valogne on the 10th at nine o'clock in the morning; they arrived at one o'clock at Cherbourg, and without stopping in the town they proceeded towards the great port, where they were expected by two American ships chartered for the purpose of carrying them away from France.

Charles X. and his family left Valogne on the 10th at nine o'clock in the morning; they arrived at one o'clock at Cherbourg, and without stopping in the town they proceeded towards the great port, where they were expected by two American ships chartered for the purpose of carrying them away from France.

Charles X. and his family left Valogne on the 10th at nine o'clock in the morning; they arrived at one o'clock at Cherbourg, and without stopping in the town they proceeded towards the great port, where they were expected by two American ships chartered for the purpose of carrying them away from France.

Charles X. and his family left Valogne on the 10th at nine o'clock in the morning; they arrived at one o'clock at Cherbourg, and without stopping in the town they proceeded towards the great port, where they were expected by two American ships chartered for the purpose of carrying them away from France.

Charles X. and his family left Valogne on the 10th at nine o'clock in the morning; they arrived at one o'clock at Cherbourg, and without stopping in the town they proceeded towards the great port, where they were expected by two American ships chartered for the purpose of carrying them away from France.

Charles X. and his family left Valogne on the 10th at nine o'clock in the morning; they arrived at one o'clock at Cherbourg, and without stopping in the town they proceeded towards the great port, where they were expected by two American ships chartered for the purpose of carrying them away from France.

Charles X. and his family left Valogne on the 10th at nine o'clock in the morning; they arrived at one o'clock at Cherbourg, and without stopping in the town they proceeded towards the great port, where they were expected by two American ships chartered for the purpose of carrying them away from France.

Charles X. and his family left Valogne on the 10th at nine o'clock in the morning; they arrived at one o'clock at Cherbourg, and without stopping in the town they proceeded towards the great port, where they were expected by two American ships chartered for the purpose of carrying them away from France.

FOREIGN.

EXPEDITION TO ALGERS. Toulon, Aug. 11.—A Nymphe corvette, Capt Perrin, arrived last night from Algiers, which she left on the 2d. A Marshal Bournisien, to re-venge himself the treason of the inhabitants of Bli-za, sent against that village three regiments of cavalry and artillery with orders to put every one to the sword, and to enforce the submission of the Sheikh and tribes who inhabited Mount Atlas.

Much coolness continues to prevail between M. Duperré and the Bourmont. He does not interfere in any thing concerning the administration of Algiers. The navy, at least, will not be liable to any reproaches respecting the dilapidations which have been committed. No officer of that service has ap-

GROUND PLAISTER.

Of a Superior Quality for Sale by DANIEL HART, AGENT FOR P. & E. Sauerwein's Plaster. A Mill has on hand and intends keeping a constant stock of the above article. He will sell on account of quantity, terms and at the Baltimore prices. He has also on hand, as usual, a general assortment of NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, THAT a subscriber has obtained from the Orphan Court of Anne Arundel county, letters testamentary in the Personal Estate of John Tydings, late of Anne Arundel county, deceased. All persons having claims against the said estate, are requested to present them, properly authenticated, and those indebted are desired to make immediate payment. W. SHARPLEY THOMPSON, Executor. Oct. 21.

NOTICE. The President and Directors of the ANNA POLS TOBACCO INSPECTION COMPANY, request the holders thereof to pay Adm. Miller on Friday the 28th November, an installment of $5.00 for each share of stock subscribed. By order, A. RANDALL, Secy. Oct. 16.

CANAL TOLLS.

The Albany Argus mentions that the amount of tolls collected on the State Canals up to the 1st ultimo, is $514,000—about $100,000 more than had been collected during the same period last year.

THE IGNIUS FATUUS.

The following has been communicated to the editor of the Salem Gazette, by a respectable shipmaster of that town:—After several days of stormy weather, on evening about 8 P. M. during a light shower, which had been preceded by a hail squall, a Jack-lantern was seen on the main-top-gallant mast head, an intelligent person was sent up to examine it. He found it formed by a circle of lights round the mast head, 8 or 10 in number, and one or two inches apart. Each flame was about two inches long, where it joined the mast head about the size of a knitting needle, and the extremity larger than the flame of a candle, and nearly as bright, of a pale blue colour, each making a noise similar to steam out of green wood, while burning; no smell was perceptible. Upon striking it with the hand the lights were extinguished, and small sparks adhered to the hand for a moment, then disappeared. In a few seconds the lights again began to burn; after several blows they entirely disappeared. The above description was written at the time, and may be taken as accurate.

THE CHOCTAW INDIANS.

We learn that on the 27th ult. the Secretary of War, General Canby, Commissioner of the Indian Bureau, succeeded in negotiating a treaty with the Choctaw tribe of Indians. By this treaty the United States will acquire ten millions of acres of land, most of it very fertile and highly valuable. It is said the Indians were delighted with the prospect before them, and are anxious to remove west of the Mississippi, as soon as arrangements can possibly be made for that purpose.

An extra from the office of the Nashville Republican, dated the 4th inst. states that the Choctaws cede the country they occupy, and within three years are to remove beyond the Mississippi. Those who choose to remain, take reservations, and after residing upon them five years are to possess them in fee. The country is to be at any time surveyed when the Government please, but no sale is to take place, previous to removal; until then no persons are to settle in the country.

About 5,000 Indians were in attendance. This treaty, and that lately concluded with the Chickasaws, will prove highly advantageous to the U. States, to the States in which the Indians now reside, and to the Indians themselves. The quantity of land acquired from the two tribes, will not fall short of seventeen millions of acres; and being well adapted to the cultivation of cotton, it is thought a great portion of it will command from five to ten dollars per acre.

It is the opinion of well informed persons that the Chickasaw and Choctaw lands will set to the government when disposed of, $0.50 millions of dollars. Of the Choctaws there are about 12,000 souls. The Chickasaws are not believed to be quite so numerous.

These treaties, as they will bring into the national treasury a larger sum than will be required to remove all the Indians now residing within our States and Territories, will, of course, be approved by the Senate and will effectually silence the opposition, in relation to what is termed "the Indian Question."

From a London Paper. HOWARD THE PHILANTHROPIST. While filling the office of Sheriff (observes Sir Samuel Romilly in a letter to Mr. Roget) Sir Samuel Romilly was shocked to observe in several instances of abuses practised in prison came under his observation.—Shocked with what he saw, he began to inquire whether the prisoners were the same in the adjacent countries or were on a better footing; and finding every where the same injustice prevailed, he resolved, though a private individual, to attempt the reform of the abuses which had become general as they were shocking to humanity. Accordingly he made a visit to every prison and house of correction in England, with invincible perseverance and courage for some of the prisoners were so infected with disease, and putrid air, that he was obliged to hold a cloth steeped in vinegar to his nostrils during the whole time he remained in them, and to change his clothes the moment they returned. After having devoted so much time to this painful employment here, he set out on a tour through a great part of Holland, Germany and Switzerland, to visit his prisoners. What a singular journey! Not to admire the wonders of art and nature—but to compare the misery of men in different countries, and to study the art of mitigating the torments of mankind. What a contrast might be drawn between the painful labor of this man, and the ostentatious sensibility which starts aside from scenes of misery, and with the mocking of a few barren tears, leaves it to seek comfort in its own distresses.—Cabinet Cyclopaedia Lives of British Lawyers.

From the Baltimore Republican of Oct. 18. PENNSYLVANIA ELECTION. PENNSYLVANIA.—The returns from this state, received yesterday by the Philadelphia and Harrisburg papers, indicate the Political