The troops at Bruges had scarcely quitted the city, when the well disposed inhabitants met; and the tri-coloured flag was boisted as the Tour la Halle, in the presence of almost all the inhabitants, to the ringing of bells and general acclamations. Upon this rallying sign, all the inhabitants assumed the tri-coloured cockade. The Town Guards have been organized from among every class of the inhabitants. It is said that the troops who marched from this town for Ostend were unaole to enter, as that town was in the power of the citizens.

Prince Frederick when he escaped from Schaerbeck on the 26th, was in a miserable cart, and thus went to Vilvorde.

FRANCE.—The Paris Constitutionnel of Sept. 80 says.—The Ambassador of the King of the Netherlands had an audieuce of Philip yesterday. It is asserted that the object of this visit was to announce the intention of the powers who signed the treaty of is 15 to occupy some of the frontier towns in Belgium and France. The Ambassador afterwards waited upon Count Mole, to make the same communication. The answer was, it is said, that France had adopted in an bsolute manner the principle of non-inter-ierence; that this was already a great sacri-fice made by her, in not seconding a cause which found so much sympathy in France; out that the principle which she had adopted oust likewise be respected by all the other powers; finally, that France would not suffer the fortresses to be delivered into the hards of a third party.'

The Moniteer, however, contradicts the ac-count of this interview, affirming that the Minister of the Netherlands had not been admitted to an audience of the King of France since the 25d of September, and that the whole story of the above conversation is an invention.
