Executive Department, Annapolis, February 5th, 1831.

Gentlemen of the Senate, and of the House of Delegates, We herewith lay before you a communication from the president of the United States, accompanied by a report of the secretary of war, in answer to the application, which, at your request, we made, for the appointment of one or more of the United States engineers, to make a survey of the coas between cape Charles and Lewis town.

We very much regret the view taken by the president and secretary of war, of the important improvement contemplated by your resolutions, which has led them, so explicit ly, to decline a compliance with your wish.

With the highest consideration,

We have the honour to remain Your Obd't. Serv D.INIEL MARTIN.

By Senate,

Gentlemen of the House of Delegates,

The senate have considered a resolution passed by your honourable body in favour of Gassaway Pindell, administrator of Nicholas Pindell, and rejected the same. In so doing, they have been influenced by a sense of the impropriety of allowing laterest on such a claim, and of devolving the labour of its examination on the treasurer. They would respectfully suggest, that the executive should be authorised to ascertain the amount of the claim contemplated by the resolutions with these views it is returned with an assurance that any other resolution on this subject which may pass your that any other resolution on this subject which may pass your house, will be respectfully considered by the senate.

Gentlemen of the House of Delegates,
The senate returns, and respectfully equests the reconsideration, by your honourable bedy, of the bill making certain changes in the constitution in relation to the removal of proceedings in the constitution in relation to the removal object ceedings in criminal cases.

The evil which the bill is intended to roundly, is great and oppressive, to the people in many sections of the state, and is daily increasing. At present the power of comoval, in mis-

Also the bill, entitled. An act as continue in force the acts of assembly, which would expire with the present assion.

Also the bill, entitled, A supplement to the act, entitled, and act empowering and directing the commissioners of Cecil county, to build two fire-proof offices for the use of the clerks of the county and register of wills, for the safe keeping of the records appertaining to their respective offices, in the town of Elkton.

Also a bill, entitled, A additional supplement to the act, and the consequence of their nonattendance, an exemption from condigus punishment, necessarily follows.

An act authorising the levy court of Cecil county at their discretion to levy a sum of money to build a bridge ever the Octorara creek in said county at the Octorara creek in said county ment to crime. The inconvenience too, to the counties, to which cases are removed, is under this system a great grievance. Courts and juries are kept in session at expense and inconvenience longer than necessary, with a view to their trial. The evils are undoubtedly great, and in the opinion of the senate, imperiously require a remedy. The bill under consideration applies the remedy without the slightest danger to the citizen. In all capital cases, where excitement would verally endorsed swill pass." Ordered to be engrossed.

Also the bill, entitled, As made to lay out and open a road in Baltimore and Frederick counties, endorsed swill pass and it might, possibly, with more safety to the community, be left with a court of justice—but still the senate is unwilling, read the bill ordered to be engrossed.

Also the bill, entitled, and by special order the second time, and assented to be first, and by special order the second time, and assented to be only the bill with the accused. This perhaps is wrong, and it might, possibly, with more safety to the community, be left with a court of justice—but still the senate is unwilling, read to the bill, entitled, and by special order the second time, and assented to be only the bill with the accused. This perhaps is wrong, and it might, possibly, with more safety to the community, be left with a court of justice—but still the senate is unwilling, the bill ordered to be engrossed.

Also the bill, entitled, As and to lay out and open a road to the bill, entitled, the power of removal is to the citizen. In all captate cases, where excitement would to the citizen. In all captate cases, where excitement would to the citizen. In all captate cases, where excitement would to the citizent. In all captate cases, where excitement would to the citizent. In all captate cases, where excitement would to the citizent. In all captate cases, where excitement would to the citizent. In all captate cases, where excitement would to the citizent. In all captate cases, where excitement would to the citizent. In all captate cases, where excitent and the citizent. In all captate cases, where excited to the citizent. In all captate cases, where excited to the citizent. In all captate cases, where even, it is not taken away—in them a removal may be had in the discretion of the court. And surely the judges to whom higher and more solemn duties are confided, may be trusted with the performance of this lesser duty. Can it be supposed to be made to the court of the supposed. to be unsafe to trust the decision of the question of removal, in a case of minor importance, to that tribunal, to which you have committed the solemn question of life or death? the high question whether a man shall live or die? Would not his liberty and his reputation be safe with that tribunal? Can it be supposed that the judges of a whole district would combine, and in defiance of public opinion—in violation of the law of the land—in disregard of their earlies of office, and of their own characters. own characters-refuse a removal of his cause, to any party, who justly and properly asked it at their hands?

The senate does not perceive in the bill the slightest dan ger, but on the contrary, a just and mild remedy for a great and onerous grievance.

The senate again then, and most respectfully, yet carnestly, solicits the reconsideration of the bill, under a hope that your honourable body may be induced to pass it. By order.

By the House of Delegates,

February 11th, 1831.

Gentlemen of the Senate,

We again invite your attention to the subject of the va-cancy, which, on the third of March next, will occur in the representation of this state, in the senate of the United

However clearly the constitution of the United States may seem to have provided, that "if vacancies happen by resignation, or otherwise, during the reseas of this legislature resignation, or otherwise, during the recess of the legislature of any state, the executive thereof may fill such vacancies by temporary appointments," we find in the history of the extra session of the sensio, held on the fourth of March eighteen hundred and twenty-fire, great reason to apprehend, that after the term of service of our present senator, General Chambers, shall havefexpired, a temporary appointment by our state executive may, by the precedent then set, be determined to be invalid, and the state left unrepresented and the legislature shall be convened anew.

ticut, which may be found in the senate journal of Thundred Twenty four and five page two hundred eighty one, two and three

The appointment was made on the eighth day of February preceding because to give to Connecticut a representation in the senate at the seasion then called, it was necessary that it should be made; in anticipation of the vacancy.

The legislature of Connecticut was not then, nor until long afterwards, in session.

This would seem to have been a case entirely within the provision of the constitution above recited, and strictly analagous to that which will be presented, should this legis lature now omit to fill the vacancy, and the executive make a temporary appointment. It cannot be pretended that any state law does or can exist, here or elsewhere, effectual to control or after the provisions of the federal yet we find the majority of the senate refusing to admit Mr. Lanman to his seat, and in the roll of that majority, we find the powerful names of Messra. Berrien, Branch, Eaton, Lloyd, Van Buren, and Jackson. We are utterly at a loss to account for such a decision, unless it was predicated upon the idea that the "happening of vacancies" was to be under stood as meaning vacancies by death, resignation or other casualty, not to be forescen and provided for by the legisla-

We are, however, forcibly admonished by that decision that it is our duty to make provision in time for a case now clearly foreseen, and not leave the state unrepresented in the senate, or her representation assailable by new construction of the constitution. We, therefore, again earnestly invit your honourable body to appoint some convenient day in this session, to elect, agreeably to law, a senator to represent this state in congress after the third of March next
