Mr. Lee, chairman of the committee on internal improvenent, delivered the following report:

The committee on internal improvement have had under consideration the report of sundry commissioners appointed inder resolution number seventy-two, of the last session, directing a survey and estimate of the cost of removing the impediments in Chester river, from Sutton's point, to the own of Millington," and beg leave to report in favour thereof. The sum of twelve hundred and forty-five dollars seem from this report to be the whole estimate of cost, to which he committee think an addition of the sum of two hundred and sixty-five would cover all the additional expenses of agents, to superintend the execution of this work. Your committee therefore recommend, that the sum of fifteen hundred dollars be appropriated for the execution of this desirable object, the same to be placed under the direction of the governor and council, and herewith submit a resolution to effect its objects.

Together with the memorial of the president and directors of the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal Company, dated January 31st, 1831, praying a confirma-tion of these acts, and a counter memorial of William M.

Steuart, on behalf of Amos Binney and others. teuart, on behalf of Amos Binney and others.

The prayers of the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal Company. as now presented, with the exception of the privilege grant ed by the last recited act of Virginia, seem to your commit-tee to be at variance with the interests of individuals who are already in the possession of rights that such grants would either destroy or greatly impair a power; which your com-mittee believe the legislature of Maryland never intended to confer, and an interference directly opposed to the policy hitherto pursued by that legislature. The powers, privileges and rights of incorporated companies, are usually so expressed as to be easy of interpretation, whenever such in-stitutions are created; but as doubts have recently been suggested elsewhere, we deem it due to all who may be inter ested, to be explicit. This is distinctly a charter to improve a navigation, and we cannot perceive in either this charter, or that of the old Potomac Company, the benefits of which nure to this company, other intentions on the part of the egislatures which granted them; except the provision made or the benefit of proprietors of water powers in section 13, of the Potomac company, passed 1784.

The legislature of Maryland at no time intended to author se the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal Company to draw off he waters of the Potomac river, or of its tributaries, for the surpose of creating water power for mills or manufactories. The use of those streams was permitted for the purpose of creating an improved navigation, and a right was given to ise or dispose of surplus or waste water, but no more; except as provided for in the 13th section alluded to. committee would deem it impolitic, if it were not otherwise wrong, to encourage the making of establishments, which subject the company to the temptation of endeavourng, by an unfair and an unequal system, as by charging a ower rate of tolls on the raw than the manufactured article o draw custom to their works, to the injury of other previusly existing manufacturing establishments.

Upon the subject of converting a company established for navigation, it to the proprietors of streets, by authorising them to sell or let land for warehouses in towns, already accommedated with many unoccupied warehouses, and per-fectly competent to furnish as many more as may be required by the most extended commerce. Your committee deem such a proposition not only impolitic, but decidedly inconsistent with, and injurious to those who may already enjoy the grounds adjoining to the canal and basins, that may be constructed for the purposes of the company. Under the ower conferred upon the company to obtain by condemnaion, lands necessary for a canal, it is evident, if this privilege were granted, that a canal company, could possess itself of all the most valuable property near its line, or at its terminai, and by agents build up towns, and even if steam were used in lieu of water, become also manufacturers by agency. Surely this prayer is equally inadmissible, and your committee cannot but believe, that upon more mature reflection he president and directors asking will so consider it. . . ?s here has been no experience within the state of the value of boats instead of bridges, your committee advise the house o decline this grant now.

If the object of the company in seeking a confirmation of the Virginia act of February 13th, 1830, he, as that act de-clares it shall be, to commence the western section now, our committee would recommend that confirmation, if they were not informed by the last report of the company, that he operations essential to the eastern section cannot be completed in consequence of a controversy between that company and that of the Baltimore and Ohio Rail Road, the adustment of which, seems to be utterly uncertain; for the opinion of your committee upon the consequent delay and loss of interest to the state resulting from this litigation, we refer you to the general report we had the honour to submit to the house on the instant; and as the company mit to the house on the instant, and as the company would appear to have on hand enough to occupy their attention this year, your committee recommend that no legislation be had this session upon that question, and that this report be adopted as the expression of the house of delegates pon all the prayers submitted to your committee. Resolved by the General Assembly of Maryland, That the harter granted to the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal Company, was not intended to interfere with private property, ex cept for the purpose of perfecting the navigation. conferring upon that company, the right to sell or dispose of the surplus water of their canal, where wastes or sluices were absolutely essential to the security of their canal, it was only intended to give to the said company the availment of waste or surplus water, as unavoidably gained admission; and that so far as the present compony are let into the rights and possessions of the Potomac Company, they are bound to take those rights, subject to the obligations and restrictions imposed upon that company.

Which resolution was read the first, and by special order the second time, and assented to.

The speaker laid before the house a report from the clerk of Anne-Arundel county court, relative to the several sums of money paid by him into the western shore treasury withyear ending on the 30th November; which was read and referred to the committee on ways and means.

On motion by Mr. Teackle, the report of the committee on ways and means on the statements of sundry county clerks, the clerk of Baltimore city court, the state tobacco inspectors, and the registers of the land office for the wes tern and eastern shores, was taken up for consideration and ead the second time.

When on motion by Mr. Tilghman, said report was re committed. Mr. Dairymple submitted the following message; which was read, assented to, and sent to the senate:
