We published, on Tuesday, a detailed sccount of the outrages committed, by a law-less set of ruffians at the Island of Sumatre, upon the crew and cargo of the ship Friendship, Captain Endicott, of Salem, Mass. These piratical villains were Malays, who attacked the ship when peaceably taking in a cargo of merchandize; and when the master, and a considerable number of the seamen, were on shore, pursuing their regular business. After taking possession of the ship they killed the mate and two men, and bally wounded several others; and then plandered her of every thing they could by their hads aport. Among their booty, were included more than twelve thousand dollars in money.

alled The Captains of the other American resels at that Island, have united in a representaapositions, indignities, and violence, which the our countrymes are subjected to, from the out it to time, and they call importunately upon in the government of their country, to send a sufficient mayal force to that region, to shord our countrymen trading there protection against robbeties, frauds, and insetts.
We hope the government will field to their request, and dispatch one or indic, (we trust more than one,) of our armed ships into those eas, and let these savage pictroons know by experience, that we are able not only to treexperience, that we are able find only to re-tect our scafaring countrymen, when take ed in their lawful pursuit, but to chashes such freebonters, when they attempt to plan-der and murder them. We have ships c-nough at our naval strions, and efficies anough ashore, and but of employment, to fit out such an expedition; and if men are wan-ling, we presume they can easily be obtained. out such an expedition; and if men are wanting, we presume they can easily be obtained. Two or three of our large ships, would see in oring the Malays to better manners, than to mander our scannen, and plunder our merchant vessels in port. And it would seen, by the certificates of the officers of trading vessels which we have published, that this is a subject about which the Malays are altogether increanched. They have been accessioned from mealt, and defined our countrymen, that they consider themselves sate in continuing the practice fully believing that we are not able the protect our incredantmen, or to punish those who ill treat them.

In our judgment, this is as pressing a case, and calls as foully for redress, as that of the Mediterranean, the Pacific, or the South American coast. These Malays are as desperate villains, as any class or race of pirales the tever inferted any seas, not excepting the Algeriues, and their associates, upon the African coast in the Mediterranean. The property exposed to their depolations is large in amount, and the lives exposed to their murdeous attacks, are numerous and valuable. On every ground the government are called upon to grant the necessary profection and securitys and we are not able to imagine any substantial reason for withholding it.
