

seen by the Indians, who received the great medicine in triumph, dashed away over the vast plains towards their snow-clad mountains with a speed that outstripped the sight of the eye, and disappeared like shadows in the distant horizon. Upon the strength of possession of this great medicine, which was distributed among the tribe, they became extremely arrogant and presumptuous—quarrelled with all their neighbours, and got many a joyful drubbing. But they never lost their confidence in the great medicine, and the milkyulous whisks still continued to be cherished as the most valuable of all their possessions.

On arriving at St. Louis, on her way like a man of honor, she turned the little Otter, and after some time spent in vainly attempting to persuade the warriors, returned to Paris with Pierre Pagan, who, being a young man, is not so much attached to the old man's superstitions.

FOURTEEN.

The little Otter was a very fine specimen of the species, having been bred in the country of the great medicine. It was a very young one, and had not yet reached its full maturity. It was a very fine specimen of the species, having been bred in the country of the great medicine. It was a very young one, and had not yet reached its full maturity.

FOURTEEN.

The little Otter was a very fine specimen of the species, having been bred in the country of the great medicine. It was a very young one, and had not yet reached its full maturity. It was a very fine specimen of the species, having been bred in the country of the great medicine. It was a very young one, and had not yet reached its full maturity.

FOURTEEN.

The little Otter was a very fine specimen of the species, having been bred in the country of the great medicine. It was a very young one, and had not yet reached its full maturity. It was a very fine specimen of the species, having been bred in the country of the great medicine. It was a very young one, and had not yet reached its full maturity.

FOURTEEN.

The little Otter was a very fine specimen of the species, having been bred in the country of the great medicine. It was a very young one, and had not yet reached its full maturity. It was a very fine specimen of the species, having been bred in the country of the great medicine. It was a very young one, and had not yet reached its full maturity.

FOURTEEN.

The little Otter was a very fine specimen of the species, having been bred in the country of the great medicine. It was a very young one, and had not yet reached its full maturity. It was a very fine specimen of the species, having been bred in the country of the great medicine. It was a very young one, and had not yet reached its full maturity.

the Vistula, at Plock or Dobruza, and enter Warsaw, in the absence of the troops. There is still uncertainty as to the operations of Gielgud and Chlapowski. If the Prussian accounts are to be believed, they were defeated.

The cholera has made its appearance in St. Petersburg, though it is said hitherto to have assumed a mild form. The death of the Grand Duke Constantine has taken place at Wittepski. Rumour as usual in Russia, is busy in accounting for his death.

BELGIUM.

Prince Leopold is now King of the Belgians. After a day's discussion, a division took place when the members for the Prince were—

Against him, 125
Majority, 50
A deputation composed of M. Lebeau, Minister of Foreign Affairs, Count de Smet de Nancré, Baron Joseph de Meunier, and M. de Smet de Nancré, were sent to the King to inform him of the result of the vote.

VIENNA.

The Austrian government has issued a decree of amnesty for all political offenders who have been convicted since the 1st of January 1848. The amnesty extends to all political offenders who have been convicted since the 1st of January 1848.

PARIS.

The Chamber of Deputies has passed a law which gives the Government the right to suspend the publication of newspapers in case of a public emergency. The law gives the Government the right to suspend the publication of newspapers in case of a public emergency.

PARIS.

The Chamber of Deputies has passed a law which gives the Government the right to suspend the publication of newspapers in case of a public emergency. The law gives the Government the right to suspend the publication of newspapers in case of a public emergency.

PARIS.

The Chamber of Deputies has passed a law which gives the Government the right to suspend the publication of newspapers in case of a public emergency. The law gives the Government the right to suspend the publication of newspapers in case of a public emergency.

PARIS.

The Chamber of Deputies has passed a law which gives the Government the right to suspend the publication of newspapers in case of a public emergency. The law gives the Government the right to suspend the publication of newspapers in case of a public emergency.

with their horses and arms, and killed 20, without losing a man himself. The State Gazette adds, "After the departure of General Chrzanowski from Lublin, Radziger returned to that city, and caused his victory on the Wieprz to be proclaimed with sound of trumpet, together with the capture of the rebel Mala, hereditary owner of Lubartow; he added that he had besides taken 500 prisoners, which is not true. He then followed Gen. Chrzanowski, who however, had crossed the river at Colomb, and broke down the bridge behind him in sight of the Russians."

FROM THE DUTCH HAMBURG PAPERS.

Berlin, July 5.—A letter from the Russian head-quarters, at Paltusk, dated 24th June, says: that though the late military events are not decisive, they are nevertheless very favourable. The letter gives an account of the advantages gained by General Radziger over Jankowski, which, though not a decisive victory, must check the plans of the enemy against Lublin. General Radziger took 200 prisoners and 10 officers, prisoners, including a whole Camp of Jankowski, and an Alib-Camp of Szarynecki and the Quarter-master. Also a park of artillery, with a number of mule-bags. Plock had been occupied by a party sent to scour the country. News had been received at the Russian head-quarters respecting General Gielgud, but no troops were yet appointed to him.

The Warsaw Courier of the 24th June, gives an account of the late military events, and says: "The Russian head-quarters, at Paltusk, dated 24th June, says: that though the late military events are not decisive, they are nevertheless very favourable. The letter gives an account of the advantages gained by General Radziger over Jankowski, which, though not a decisive victory, must check the plans of the enemy against Lublin."

VIENNA.

The Austrian government has issued a decree of amnesty for all political offenders who have been convicted since the 1st of January 1848. The amnesty extends to all political offenders who have been convicted since the 1st of January 1848.

PARIS.

The Chamber of Deputies has passed a law which gives the Government the right to suspend the publication of newspapers in case of a public emergency. The law gives the Government the right to suspend the publication of newspapers in case of a public emergency.

PARIS.

The Chamber of Deputies has passed a law which gives the Government the right to suspend the publication of newspapers in case of a public emergency. The law gives the Government the right to suspend the publication of newspapers in case of a public emergency.

PARIS.

The Chamber of Deputies has passed a law which gives the Government the right to suspend the publication of newspapers in case of a public emergency. The law gives the Government the right to suspend the publication of newspapers in case of a public emergency.

PARIS.

The Chamber of Deputies has passed a law which gives the Government the right to suspend the publication of newspapers in case of a public emergency. The law gives the Government the right to suspend the publication of newspapers in case of a public emergency.

with their horses and arms, and killed 20, without losing a man himself. The State Gazette adds, "After the departure of General Chrzanowski from Lublin, Radziger returned to that city, and caused his victory on the Wieprz to be proclaimed with sound of trumpet, together with the capture of the rebel Mala, hereditary owner of Lubartow; he added that he had besides taken 500 prisoners, which is not true. He then followed Gen. Chrzanowski, who however, had crossed the river at Colomb, and broke down the bridge behind him in sight of the Russians."

FROM THE DUTCH HAMBURG PAPERS.

Berlin, July 5.—A letter from the Russian head-quarters, at Paltusk, dated 24th June, says: that though the late military events are not decisive, they are nevertheless very favourable. The letter gives an account of the advantages gained by General Radziger over Jankowski, which, though not a decisive victory, must check the plans of the enemy against Lublin. General Radziger took 200 prisoners and 10 officers, prisoners, including a whole Camp of Jankowski, and an Alib-Camp of Szarynecki and the Quarter-master. Also a park of artillery, with a number of mule-bags. Plock had been occupied by a party sent to scour the country. News had been received at the Russian head-quarters respecting General Gielgud, but no troops were yet appointed to him.

The Warsaw Courier of the 24th June, gives an account of the late military events, and says: "The Russian head-quarters, at Paltusk, dated 24th June, says: that though the late military events are not decisive, they are nevertheless very favourable. The letter gives an account of the advantages gained by General Radziger over Jankowski, which, though not a decisive victory, must check the plans of the enemy against Lublin."

VIENNA.

The Austrian government has issued a decree of amnesty for all political offenders who have been convicted since the 1st of January 1848. The amnesty extends to all political offenders who have been convicted since the 1st of January 1848.

PARIS.

The Chamber of Deputies has passed a law which gives the Government the right to suspend the publication of newspapers in case of a public emergency. The law gives the Government the right to suspend the publication of newspapers in case of a public emergency.

PARIS.

The Chamber of Deputies has passed a law which gives the Government the right to suspend the publication of newspapers in case of a public emergency. The law gives the Government the right to suspend the publication of newspapers in case of a public emergency.

PARIS.

The Chamber of Deputies has passed a law which gives the Government the right to suspend the publication of newspapers in case of a public emergency. The law gives the Government the right to suspend the publication of newspapers in case of a public emergency.

PARIS.

The Chamber of Deputies has passed a law which gives the Government the right to suspend the publication of newspapers in case of a public emergency. The law gives the Government the right to suspend the publication of newspapers in case of a public emergency.

with their horses and arms, and killed 20, without losing a man himself. The State Gazette adds, "After the departure of General Chrzanowski from Lublin, Radziger returned to that city, and caused his victory on the Wieprz to be proclaimed with sound of trumpet, together with the capture of the rebel Mala, hereditary owner of Lubartow; he added that he had besides taken 500 prisoners, which is not true. He then followed Gen. Chrzanowski, who however, had crossed the river at Colomb, and broke down the bridge behind him in sight of the Russians."

FROM THE DUTCH HAMBURG PAPERS.

Berlin, July 5.—A letter from the Russian head-quarters, at Paltusk, dated 24th June, says: that though the late military events are not decisive, they are nevertheless very favourable. The letter gives an account of the advantages gained by General Radziger over Jankowski, which, though not a decisive victory, must check the plans of the enemy against Lublin. General Radziger took 200 prisoners and 10 officers, prisoners, including a whole Camp of Jankowski, and an Alib-Camp of Szarynecki and the Quarter-master. Also a park of artillery, with a number of mule-bags. Plock had been occupied by a party sent to scour the country. News had been received at the Russian head-quarters respecting General Gielgud, but no troops were yet appointed to him.

The Warsaw Courier of the 24th June, gives an account of the late military events, and says: "The Russian head-quarters, at Paltusk, dated 24th June, says: that though the late military events are not decisive, they are nevertheless very favourable. The letter gives an account of the advantages gained by General Radziger over Jankowski, which, though not a decisive victory, must check the plans of the enemy against Lublin."

VIENNA.

The Austrian government has issued a decree of amnesty for all political offenders who have been convicted since the 1st of January 1848. The amnesty extends to all political offenders who have been convicted since the 1st of January 1848.

PARIS.

The Chamber of Deputies has passed a law which gives the Government the right to suspend the publication of newspapers in case of a public emergency. The law gives the Government the right to suspend the publication of newspapers in case of a public emergency.

PARIS.

The Chamber of Deputies has passed a law which gives the Government the right to suspend the publication of newspapers in case of a public emergency. The law gives the Government the right to suspend the publication of newspapers in case of a public emergency.

PARIS.

The Chamber of Deputies has passed a law which gives the Government the right to suspend the publication of newspapers in case of a public emergency. The law gives the Government the right to suspend the publication of newspapers in case of a public emergency.

PARIS.

The Chamber of Deputies has passed a law which gives the Government the right to suspend the publication of newspapers in case of a public emergency. The law gives the Government the right to suspend the publication of newspapers in case of a public emergency.

with their horses and arms, and killed 20, without losing a man himself. The State Gazette adds, "After the departure of General Chrzanowski from Lublin, Radziger returned to that city, and caused his victory on the Wieprz to be proclaimed with sound of trumpet, together with the capture of the rebel Mala, hereditary owner of Lubartow; he added that he had besides taken 500 prisoners, which is not true. He then followed Gen. Chrzanowski, who however, had crossed the river at Colomb, and broke down the bridge behind him in sight of the Russians."

FROM THE DUTCH HAMBURG PAPERS.

Berlin, July 5.—A letter from the Russian head-quarters, at Paltusk, dated 24th June, says: that though the late military events are not decisive, they are nevertheless very favourable. The letter gives an account of the advantages gained by General Radziger over Jankowski, which, though not a decisive victory, must check the plans of the enemy against Lublin. General Radziger took 200 prisoners and 10 officers, prisoners, including a whole Camp of Jankowski, and an Alib-Camp of Szarynecki and the Quarter-master. Also a park of artillery, with a number of mule-bags. Plock had been occupied by a party sent to scour the country. News had been received at the Russian head-quarters respecting General Gielgud, but no troops were yet appointed to him.

The Warsaw Courier of the 24th June, gives an account of the late military events, and says: "The Russian head-quarters, at Paltusk, dated 24th June, says: that though the late military events are not decisive, they are nevertheless very favourable. The letter gives an account of the advantages gained by General Radziger over Jankowski, which, though not a decisive victory, must check the plans of the enemy against Lublin."

VIENNA.

The Austrian government has issued a decree of amnesty for all political offenders who have been convicted since the 1st of January 1848. The amnesty extends to all political offenders who have been convicted since the 1st of January 1848.

PARIS.

The Chamber of Deputies has passed a law which gives the Government the right to suspend the publication of newspapers in case of a public emergency. The law gives the Government the right to suspend the publication of newspapers in case of a public emergency.

PARIS.

The Chamber of Deputies has passed a law which gives the Government the right to suspend the publication of newspapers in case of a public emergency. The law gives the Government the right to suspend the publication of newspapers in case of a public emergency.

PARIS.

The Chamber of Deputies has passed a law which gives the Government the right to suspend the publication of newspapers in case of a public emergency. The law gives the Government the right to suspend the publication of newspapers in case of a public emergency.

PARIS.

The Chamber of Deputies has passed a law which gives the Government the right to suspend the publication of newspapers in case of a public emergency. The law gives the Government the right to suspend the publication of newspapers in case of a public emergency.