THE CROSS.

BY REV. J. B. WELCH.

If I must needs glory, I will glory in the cross of Christ—SABY PARK.

The cross—the cross—on Calvary's height,
It lifts its brow, serene and calm,
Adorned with beams of heavenly light,
And from his blessed foot, still roll
Rich streams to heal the sin-streak'd soul!
The cross—the cross—around its head
Four thousand years their glories bring,
They gather where the Saviour led—
Where suffered Heaven's immortal King!
The bleeding cross—there incense rose,
There the Redeemer blessed his foes!
The cross—the cross—which prophets saw,
Through distant Time's dark clouds appear—
Where glimmers earth and heaven to cheer,
God's tidings rang along the skies—
"The Saviour for lost sinners dies!"
The cross—the cross—Jehovah's might
Awoke upon its burning brow,
And lo! the realms of death and night,
His glorious cross—victorious sign,
All conquering power—all glory thine!

EXTRACTS FROM LANDER'S JOURNAL OF AN EXPEDITION TO AFRICA.

Boussa, June 18.—This morning we visited the far famed Niger or Quorra, which flows by the city, about a mile from our residence, and were greatly disappointed in the appearance of this celebrated river. Black, rugged rocks rose abruptly from the centre of the stream, causing strong ripples and eddies on its surface. It is said, that a few miles above Boussa, the river is divided into three branches, by two small fertile islands, and that it flows hence in one continued stream to Fouta. The Niger here, in its widest part, is not more than a stone's throw across at present. The rock on which we sat overlooks the spot where Mr. Park and his associates met their unhappy fate; we could not help meditating on that circumstance, and on the number of valuable lives which have been sacrificed in attempting to explore this river, and secretly implored the Almighty that we might be the humble means of setting at rest forever the great question of its source and termination.

Boussa, June 22.—Our hostess is an agreeable and good-natured woman, but she is excessively vain of her person; so much so indeed, that she employs several hours in the day in dressing her hair, which hangs down below the face in three plaited queues, one of them from the forehead, and one from each side of the head; after which she affixes ornaments on different parts of her body, stains her lips and teeth a shining red colour with hannah (a species of myrtle) and when all this is done she admires herself in a broken looking-glass which we have given her.— This is the most whimsical and diverting part of the ceremony: she approaches the glass and retreats from it again, smiles when she sees that she looks pretty, and distorts her features and throws her body into all manner of contorted attitudes, to ascertain which is the most engaging.

About mid-day we embarked down Kagogie, and proceeded some distance down the stream, for the purpose of getting into the branch of the Niger, where there is deep water. This object was soon attained, and we found it flowing from north to south, through a rich and charming country, which seemed to improve in appearance the further we advanced. We were propelled at a good rate up a channel, which, from a half mile in breadth, gradually widened to rather better than a mile. Beautiful spreading and spiry trees adorned the country on each side of the river like a park; corn, nearly ripe, waved over the water's edge; large open villages appeared every half hour; and herds of spotted cattle were observed grazing and enjoying the cool of the shade. The appearance of the river, for several miles, was not less enchanting than its borders; it was as smooth as a lake; canoes, laden with sheep and goats, were paddled by women down its almost imperceptible current; and a variety of aquatic birds were sporting over its glassy surface, which was ornamented by a number of pretty islands.

The river gradually widened to two miles, and continued so as far as the eye can reach. It looked like an artificial canal, the banks having the appearance of a dwarf wall, with vegetation beyond. In most places the water was shallow, but in others it was deep enough to float frigates. During the first two hours of the day, the scenery was as interesting and picturesque as can be imagined.— The banks were literally covered with hamlets and villages; fine trees bending under the weight of their dark and impenetrable foliage, every where relieved the eye from the glare of the sun's rays, and contrasted with the lively verdure of the little hills and plains, produced the most pleasing effect. Afterwards, however, there was a decided change; the banks, which before consisted of dark

REWARD.

RAN AWAY from the subscriber, on the 12th instant, a Negro man,
BEN,
He is about 35 years of age, about 5 feet 3 or 4 inches high, tolerable bright mulatto, rather slender built, slow of speech, speaks low, and has a down look when spoken to, he has a small grey fore hair, about the size of a dollar, which is conspicuous.
He was purchased of the estate of the late Chancellor Johnson, in 1825, and as he was his carriage driver, and has also been mine, has travelled pretty generally throughout the State, and has a general acquaintance in and about Annapolis and Baltimore. He will no doubt make his best way through one of those places out of the State his object being to be Pennsylvania. It is probable that he has been furnished with a false pass, or several have obtained them from an individual in this neighbourhood within the last year.
His clothing being various, cannot be correctly described, but will be found in part to be a dark roundabout, a mixed roundabout, and pantaloons to match, also possibly a Cassin coat, with a half worn top hat for hat.
The above reward will be given if taken 40 miles or more from my residence, and 50 dollars elsewhere, so that I get him again.
