> The facts connected with the perpetration of this nefarious deed are shrouded in mystev. and the hand that dealt blows unknown. Hoover and Pryor occupied the same bed, and the probability is, that the room was entered and the wounds inflicted while they were assleep, as little or no blood was discoverable any where in the room save on the bed. As yet no facts have been developed tending to rage. An investigation is in progress, which we ardently trust, may result in the detection of the assassin. Hoover, should be sufficiently recover, will probably be able to assist in clearing up the mystery. At present, he is not in a situation to afford any clue whereby to unravel the mystery. Three hundred dollars were found in his pocket. It is probable, therefore, that money was int the object had in view by the murderer or murderers. Some private grudge, it is likely, has led to the commission of the crime.

Pryor was a young man about 19 years of age, and was on the eve of entering the Navy of the United States, having sometime ince obtained a Midshipman's warrant.
