

MISCELLANY.

[The following lines are from Dido's 'London Magazine']

THE RAINBOW.
The evening was calm, and yet through the trees
Played in sunshine the rain-drops, the birds and the breeze.

A TALE FOR THE TIMES.

From the French.
A good peasant was returning to his home
One evening, after having worked all day as hard

EXTRAORDINARY INVESTIGATIONS IN LONDON.

The following most unprecedented circumstances were disclosed at a Coroner's inquest, held on Wednesday, in Dean's yard, Westminster.

From the London Chronicle.

The following most unprecedented circumstances were disclosed at a Coroner's inquest, held on Wednesday, in Dean's yard, Westminster.

dowers covered with dew, were drying themselves, and raised their heads to the sun.

The tradesmen were opening their shops, and accepting the fronts of their doors; the mechanics were going to their work, sitting in groups, the market was filling with cattle, horses, sewing baskets and carted children, milk women and soldiers, were walking about in all directions.

From the Baltimore Chronicle.

Authentic Revolutionary Anecdotes.
Mr. Eyles, the last proprietary Governor of Maryland, was very much beloved and highly esteemed by the citizens of Annapolis.

From the Philadelphia U. S. Gazette.

The LION'S VISIT TO THE MARKET.
We published yesterday an account of a Panther, who amused himself by 'keeping shop' a little while in New York, and we were pleased to observe that no evil resulted to any one from his change of business.

From the Boston Daily Atlas.

THE SUICIDE OF MR. CURTIS. FATAL CONSEQUENCES OF GAMBLING.
The paragraph we published yesterday, respecting the cause which led Mr. Curtis to the commission of self-murder at Providence, is confirmed to us from a source which places it beyond all doubt.

was taken to the hospital for dissection, when it was found that the deceased was a perfect man. This circumstance was communicated to the parish authorities, and on a representation being made by them to Lord Melbourne, directions were given them to summon a jury.

The hair of the head was light brown, and upwards of two feet long behind of a soft glossy texture, and the whole appearance of the countenance was that of a female. Dr. Clutterbuck, of New-Bridge street, Blackfriars, stated that he had established the identity of the deceased at the request of Mr. Somerville, who was desirous that the body should be buried as the person whose name it bore.

From the Philadelphia U. S. Gazette.

The editor of the Galaxy, with a fearless-ness that demands public approbation, has drawn the character of two persons, well known among us as unprincipled and abandoned wretches, and has exhibited such a scene of villainy, vice and cruelty that cannot fail to startle and alarm our citizens.

From the Philadelphia U. S. Gazette.

From the Philadelphia U. S. Gazette.
The editor of the Providence (R. I.) Microcosm retires from his editorial chair to the management of the plough;—he leaves sticking types, to sticking grass. His scissors and paste-pot now give place to the pruning knife and tar-pot.

From the Philadelphia U. S. Gazette.

From the Philadelphia U. S. Gazette.
A pretty little brunette of 14, was passing along the streets a few days since, when she was accosted by a strange man, rather stout for liquor, who inquired if her mother was black as she was.

From the Philadelphia U. S. Gazette.

From the Philadelphia U. S. Gazette.
A Scotch woman whose name was Margaret, did nothing but swear and abuse, instead of answering the minister.

From the Philadelphia U. S. Gazette.

From the Philadelphia U. S. Gazette.
A wine merchant once left a suspected assistant in his cellar, and said to him, 'Now, lest you should drink the wine while I am away, I will chalk your mouth so that I may know it.'

He informed him that on the first day of November last, he was worth a little more than five thousand dollars, and that before the middle of February, or about that time, he was insolvent to about the same sum.

The whole of this amount, viz: $10,000, he had lost in a few days, by playing a game of cards at Brighton, and that they were a splendid party, and that they were a splendid party, and that they were a splendid party.

From the Philadelphia U. S. Gazette.

From the Philadelphia U. S. Gazette.
The editor of the Galaxy, with a fearless-ness that demands public approbation, has drawn the character of two persons, well known among us as unprincipled and abandoned wretches, and has exhibited such a scene of villainy, vice and cruelty that cannot fail to startle and alarm our citizens.

From the Philadelphia U. S. Gazette.

From the Philadelphia U. S. Gazette.
A pretty little brunette of 14, was passing along the streets a few days since, when she was accosted by a strange man, rather stout for liquor, who inquired if her mother was black as she was.

From the Philadelphia U. S. Gazette.

From the Philadelphia U. S. Gazette.
A Scotch woman whose name was Margaret, did nothing but swear and abuse, instead of answering the minister.

From the Philadelphia U. S. Gazette.

From the Philadelphia U. S. Gazette.
A wine merchant once left a suspected assistant in his cellar, and said to him, 'Now, lest you should drink the wine while I am away, I will chalk your mouth so that I may know it.'

From the Philadelphia U. S. Gazette.

From the Philadelphia U. S. Gazette.
A wine merchant once left a suspected assistant in his cellar, and said to him, 'Now, lest you should drink the wine while I am away, I will chalk your mouth so that I may know it.'

The Lion, which the New York Panther, despised and despised, he had been a little rounder, he had been a little rounder, he had been a little rounder.

What is that? 'That is a Lion,' replied the other, and away he scampered, and his bright eyes were turned to the public house general.

From the Philadelphia U. S. Gazette.

From the Philadelphia U. S. Gazette.
The editor of the Galaxy, with a fearless-ness that demands public approbation, has drawn the character of two persons, well known among us as unprincipled and abandoned wretches, and has exhibited such a scene of villainy, vice and cruelty that cannot fail to startle and alarm our citizens.

From the Philadelphia U. S. Gazette.

From the Philadelphia U. S. Gazette.
A pretty little brunette of 14, was passing along the streets a few days since, when she was accosted by a strange man, rather stout for liquor, who inquired if her mother was black as she was.

From the Philadelphia U. S. Gazette.

From the Philadelphia U. S. Gazette.
A Scotch woman whose name was Margaret, did nothing but swear and abuse, instead of answering the minister.

From the Philadelphia U. S. Gazette.

From the Philadelphia U. S. Gazette.
A wine merchant once left a suspected assistant in his cellar, and said to him, 'Now, lest you should drink the wine while I am away, I will chalk your mouth so that I may know it.'

From the Philadelphia U. S. Gazette.

From the Philadelphia U. S. Gazette.
A wine merchant once left a suspected assistant in his cellar, and said to him, 'Now, lest you should drink the wine while I am away, I will chalk your mouth so that I may know it.'

The

VOL. LXXXVIII.

PRINTED AND PUBLISHED BY JONAS GREEN, Church-Street, Annapolis.

PRICE—THREE DOLLARS PER ANNUM.

THE MARYLAND HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY.

For the improvement and encouragement of Horticulture and the promotion of Horticultural Science in the State of Maryland, with a view to the accomplishment of those important objects, have determined on having an EXHIBITION OF PLANTS, &c.

PROPOSALS

For publishing by Subscription, a small volume of THE SERMONS OF THE LATE

RT. REV. JAMES KEMP, D. D.

Bishop of the P. E. Church of Md. together with the Funeral Address delivered in St. Paul's Church, containing some brief biographical notices.

SEVERAL considerations combine to recommend the publication of the proposed volume. It is desirable to preserve a memorial of all who have held a relation to the Church in this country, so interesting and important as that of its Bishops.

THE SERMONS

OF THE LATE

RT. REV. JAMES KEMP, D. D.

Bishop of the P. E. Church of Md. together with the Funeral Address delivered in St. Paul's Church, containing some brief biographical notices.

At the same time, however, that this end is to be effected, the present volume is regarded principally as a means of affording to every member of the diocese of Maryland the privilege of co-operating in the erection of a Monument to their deceased and much venerated Bishop.

THE SERMONS

OF THE LATE

RT. REV. JAMES KEMP, D. D.

Bishop of the P. E. Church of Md. together with the Funeral Address delivered in St. Paul's Church, containing some brief biographical notices.

At the same time, however, that this end is to be effected, the present volume is regarded principally as a means of affording to every member of the diocese of Maryland the privilege of co-operating in the erection of a Monument to their deceased and much venerated Bishop.

THE SERMONS

OF THE LATE

RT. REV. JAMES KEMP, D. D.

Bishop of the P. E. Church of Md. together with the Funeral Address delivered in St. Paul's Church, containing some brief biographical notices.

At the same time, however, that this end is to be effected, the present volume is regarded principally as a means of affording to every member of the diocese of Maryland the privilege of co-operating in the erection of a Monument to their deceased and much venerated Bishop.