It is undecessary, and to convey literary intelligence in regard to works which rarely find their way across the Atlantic. As great exertions will be used to make this department instructive and entertaining, the proprietor is confident that it will be considered an important addition, by means of which his numerous subscribers will frequently avoid the expense of purchasing such books as are printed on the calculation that their titles or the reputation of their authors will sell the edition. This part of the Journal will embrace a considerable amount of extracts from new books of travels, memoirs, biography. from new books of travels, memoirs, biography, novels, and in fact present a bird's eve view of new publications, early diffused through the Union, by means of the facilities of mail trans-

No additional charge will be made for this great increase of reading matter. It will be contained on the pages of the cover of the Library, and therefore subject subscribers who receive their numbers by mail to no additional expense of pastage.

Several applications having been made to secretain the manner in which the original department of notices of new books will be con ducted, we take the present early opportunity of stating that, at least they shall most une quivocally be—UNBOUGHT. The presentation of a copy by the publisher shall not be a passport to praise, when the merits of the work do not warrant it; so that our readers may be appropriately the publisher shall not be a passed of two things. First—books shall not assured of two things: First-books shall not be noticed the next day after they are received; and, secondly, they shall not be reviewed be-fore they have been read. We have no royal road to puffing, and will be the less likely, therefore, to fall into the error of an unlucky wight, who, in his anxiety to be the first to blow the bellows of criticism, read the preface only of a duodecimo, and gravely entered his ap-probation of two chapters which, unfortunately for his critical acumen, had been omitted, white the prefatory reference to them had been, by mistake, retained! This predicarant was worse than that of the London editor, who criticised some passages of Cooke's acting, and found when he rose next morning, and his paper was all over London, that the play had been posiponed.

For the rest, time must develope our course and our capabilities; in cases where the usual journal, unlike most of our cotemporaries, we shall buy what books we want, and give to such as deserve it a careful perusal. The prospectus, and some technical difficulways attending the first issue of a new journal, make the present number but a partial cimen of its future promise.
