A HUMOROUS PUBLICATION, TO BE ENTITLED
THE MIRROR OF MIRTH.

It is to be regretted, that the same errors which have heretofore prevented an improvement of the difficulties of that quarter, their removal west, yet continue to deflect the efforts of the Government. These causes no doubt principally to be traced to the tendency of particular individuals, and their desire to retain political influence and power. It is expected that about five hundred of these Indians will remove west this season, and the residue of the Cherokee then remaining east of the Mississippi, will be, agreeably to previous computations, about ten thousand five hundred.

The Commissioners west of the Mississippi are engaged in the execution of the duties connected with our Indian relations in that quarter. They have succeeded in arranging satisfactorily the disputed question of boundaries, between the Creeks and Cherokee, which has for some time occasioned much embarrassment. They have also formed treaties with the Creeks, the Cherokee, the Senecas and Shawanees, the Quapaws and Seminoles of Florida, by which all matters connected with these tribes have been satisfactorily adjusted. Their labours will be directed to other subjects, indicated by their instructions, and which are important to a permanent arrangement of the various questions arising out of the new state of things which will be created in that region.

These, one of the most interesting in a political plan for regulating the intercourse of the various tribes, indigenous and engaged with one another, and with the United States, and for the establishment of some general principles, by which their own internal government can be safely administered themselves, and a general superintending authority exercised by the United States, as far as may be necessary to restrain hostilities among them and incursions into our territory. Until such a system is adopted, it is evident that the condition of those Indians cannot be secure, nor will the obligation imposed upon the Government be fulfilled. The task requires an intimate knowledge of the local circumstances of the tribes, of that region of the country they inhabit, and a practical acquaintance with Indian habits, feelings and mode of life. I trust the commissioners will be able to report a plan which will fill the expectations of those who have observed and solicited the course of this matter, and which will eventually secure the progress of the Indian.—As it is probable, however, that this cannot be effected within the time limited for the duties of the Commission, I would respectfully suggest the propriety of their term of service being prolonged until the close of the next year.

There have been presented for allowance under the pension act of June 6th, 1832, thirty thousand six hundred claims. The whole of these have been examined, and either admitted, rejected, or returned to the parties for supplementary action. Twenty-three thousand four hundred and thirty eight certificates have been issued, eleven hundred and one claims have been rejected, three hundred and thirty one are in the office awaiting re-examination, thirteen hundred and fifty-one, which are incomplete in the proofs, are suspended until these are furnished, and four thousand four hundred and fifty-five are in the hands of the parties for additional evidence or authentication, or in situ between them and the office.

It is creditable to the industry and efficiency of the Pension Office, that such a business should have been performed within the period which has elapsed since the passage of the above law.

I have the honour to be
Very respectfully,
Your obt. serv't,
LEW. CASS

OF BELLES LETTRES.
A NEW AND STRIKING CHARACTER ADDED TO WALDIE'S
CIRCULATING LIBRARY.
THE Proprietor of this work, anxious to gratify his readers to as great an extent as his means will allow, respectfully announces to the public that the very liberal patronage he has received has enabled him to add a new feature to this periodical, which he believes cannot fail to prove interesting and valuable.

The JOURNAL OF BELLES LETTRES, embracing three to four pages of additional new matter, will be given every week as an accompaniment to the Circulating Library, and will contain:

1. Early reprints of the reviews and notices of new books, from the weekly and monthly periodical press of London, &c. These reviews will be carefully selected with reference both to imparting correct information respecting such new books as are reprinted in America, and to convey literary intelligence in regard to works which rarely find their way across the Atlantic. As great exertions will be used to make this department instructive and entertaining, the proprietor is confident that it will be considered an important addition, by means of which his numerous subscribers will be enabled to avoid the expense of purchasing such books as are printed on the continent, and that their taste or the reputation of their authors will be sold the edition. This part of the Journal will embrace a considerable amount of extracts from new books of travels, memoirs, biography, novels, and in fact present a bird's eye view of new publications, early & of the highest quality, by means of the facilities of many transatlantic routes.
2. The London Literary Gazette will be culled for this purpose, while the "Critical Notices," of the London Metropolitan, the Monthly, New Monthly, the Gentleman's, Blackwood's, Fair's, Edinburgh, Fraser's, and other Magazines, already regularly received by the editor, will be freely used.
3. Varieties, embracing literary anecdotes, new discoveries in science and the arts, sketches of society and manners abroad, literary and learned transactions, short notices of new books, and every species of information interesting to lovers of reading, with occasional specimens of the humorous and humorous of the London press, which are within the compass of good taste, and are now published in no other journal in America.
4. A regular list of the new books published and in progress in London and America.
5. Occasional original notices of new American publications, with extracts embracing their prominent features of excellence or defects.

No additional charge will be made for this great increase of reading matter. It will be contained on the pages of the cover of the Library, and therefore subject-subscribers who receive their numbers by mail, to no additional expense of postage.

A. WALDIE.

Several applications having been made to ascertain the manner in which the original department of notices of new books will be conducted, we take the present early opportunity of stating that at least they shall most unequivocally be UNBOUGHT. The presentation of a copy by the publisher shall not be a passport to praise, when the merits of the work do not warrant it; so that our readers may be assured of two things: First—books shall not be noticed the next day after they are received; and secondly, they shall not be reviewed before they have been read. We have no regard to puffing, and will be the less likely, therefore, to fall into the error of an unkindly weight, who, in his anxiety to be the first to blow the bellows of criticism, read the preface only of a duodecimo, and gravely entered his approbation of two chapters which, unfortunately for his critical acumen, had been omitted, while the prefatory reference to them had been, by mistake, retained! This predicament was worse than that of the London editor, who criticised some passages of Cooke's acting, and found when he rose next morning, and his paper was all over London, that the play had been postponed.

For the rest, time must develop our course and our capabilities; in cases where the usual courtesy of the trade is not extended to this journal, unlike most of our contemporaries, we shall buy what books we want, and give to such as deserve it a careful perusal.

The prospectus, and some technical difficulties always attending the first issue of a new journal, make the present number but a partial specimen of its future promise.
