THE JOURNAL OF BELLES LETTRES.
A NEW AND STRIKING CHARACTER ADDED TO WALDIE'S CIRCULATING LIBRARY.

The Proprietor of this work, anxious to gratify his readers to as great an extent as his means will allow, respectfully announces to the public that the very liberal patronage he has received has enabled him to add a new feature to this periodical, which he believes cannot fail to prove interesting and valuable.

The Journal of BELLES LETTRES, embracing three to four pages of additional new matter will be given every week with an accompanying notice to the Circulating Library, and will contain:

1. Early reprints of the reviews and notices of new books, from the weekly and monthly periodical press of London, &c. These reviews will be carefully selected with reference both to imparting correct information respecting such new books as are reprinted in America, and to convey literary intelligence in regard to works which rarely find their way across the Atlantic. As great exertions will be used to make this department instructive and entertaining, the proprietor is confident that it will be considered an important addition by the frequent and numerous subscribers who frequently avail themselves of purchasing such books as are printed in the United States, and sell the edition. This part of the Journal will embrace a considerable amount of extracts from new books of travels, memoirs, biography, novels, and in fact present a bird's eye view of new publications, early diffused through the Union, by means of the facilities of mail transportation.

The London Literary Gazette will be culled for this purpose, while the "Critical Notices," of the London Metropolitan, the Monthly, New Monthly, the Gentleman's, Blackwood's, Edinburgh, Fraser's, and other Magazines, are regularly received by the editor.

2. Varieties, embracing literary anecdotes, new discoveries in science and the arts, sketches of society and manners abroad, literary and historical transactions, short notices of new books, and every species of information interesting to lovers of reading, with occasional specimens of the humorous departments of the London press, which are within the bounds of good taste, and are now published in no other journal in America.

3. A regular list of the new books published and in progress in London and America.

4. Occasional original notices of new American publications, with extracts embracing their prominent features of excellence or defect.

No additional charge will be made for this great increase of reading matter. It will be contained on the pages of the cover of the Library, and therefore subject subscribers who receive their numbers by mail to no additional expense of postage.

A. WALDIE.
Several applications having been made to ascertain the manner in which the original department of notices of new books will be conducted, we take the present early opportunity of stating that, in order that the most important of a copy by the publisher shall not be a passport to praise, when the merits of the work do not warrant it, so that our readers may be assured of two things: First—books shall not be noticed the next day after they are received; and, secondly, they shall not be reviewed before they have been read. We have no royal road to puffing, and will be the less likely, therefore, to fall into the error of an unlucky writer, who in his anxiety to be the first to blow the bellows of criticism, read the preface only of a doctored, and gravely entered his approbation of two chapters which, unfortunately for his critical acumen, had been omitted, while the prefatory reference to them had been, by mistake, retained. This predicament was worse than that of the London editor, who criticized some passages of Croker's acting, and found when he rose next morning, and his paper was all over London, that the play had been a success.

For the present, time must develop our course and our capabilities in cases where the usual courtesy of the trade is not extended to this journal, unlike most of our contemporaries, we shall buy what books we want, and give to such as deserve it a careful perusal.

The prospectus, and some technical difficulties always attending the first issue of a new journal, make the present number but a partial specimen of its future promise.

LAND FOR SALE.
The subscriber offers at private sale a Tract of Land, Eight Hundred Acres of Land, more or less. This land adjoins the Farm of the late Charles Carroll of Carrollton, Esq., and is bounded on one side by Severn River, and on the other by the Farm of the late Charles Carroll, constituting good landings for vessels to take wood from the shore; there are on this land an almost inexhaustible quantity of wood, principally Pine, intermixed with Oak and Hickory; it has been estimated that thirty thousand cords of wood may be cut from this land for Market, and from its proximity to the different landings upon the river, will make it a desirable property to Gentlemen engaged in the wood business, or Farmers requiring this most indispensable article. Any person who may be inclined to purchase, is invited to view the premises; and the Terms which shall be accommodated, can be known by application to me on Elk Ridge, near Elliott's Mills, or to Robert Welch, of Dan., in the city of Annapolis, who will at any time show the premises.
