seem to be at all applicable to the intimate remans of erecting and sustaining a hospital, lations existing between the members of this Maryland; and in the event of Virginia, not confederacy; certainly nothing could be more foregn to the intentions of Maryland than to assume such an attitude in relation to Virginia, one of her earliest and most glorious allies, not nearer geographically than in consunguinity and affection. Her great strength we know with joy, not envy; and in her glory we have always Telt the keen interest of participation.

Maryland had never a hostile feeling towards Virginia; cannot wish to do her violence or wrong, but on the contrary desires the remova of the only source of disagreement, in order that if possible their union may be more intimate, and established forever on the best and surest foundations.

The southern and western boundaries of Maryland have never been adjusted and defined by compact with Virginia. We hold by charter, a charter which has been-fully and solemnly recognized by the state of Virginia, but in the interpretation of that instrument the two states have not been agreed. It is right, even indes-pensable, that the interpretation should be settled, and the limits of the states ascertained, and our sister state cannot but sometime perccive that in that settlement her voice (admit-of adjustment shall not be dictated to her. A brief review of the proceedings of land would demonstrate that she has from time to time mildly reminded her sister state of her claims, and sought to refer them to the examination of Commissioners, to be appointed by the parties from among their own citizens re spectively; desiring only to provide for the appointment of an umpire by one of our disinter ested sister States, in the event of disagreement among the Commissioners. In such proposi-tions Maryland has evinced her confidence in the justice of her cause, but has suggested nothing incompatible with the dignity of Virginia. She has desired, and still deads the peaceful ascertainment of her rights, lever doubting but Virginia would deem it necessary to her true glory to do right at whatever sacrifice, just that the relative rights of herself and neighbours should be equitably ascertained, and herself accordingly without reckoning her means
