The cheapest reprint from English Periodicals ever offered to the public.

DEFORE the Select Circulating Libradiscovered that there was still something wanting-that many occurrences in the liteeary world must piss unknown, as regarded our agency, without an extension of the plan. To establish a futler medium of communication and supply the desideration, the Journul of Belles Lettres was added; which we have reason to believe has afforded general satisfaction. The very liberal patronage extended to the Library induced the proprietor to give that gratuitously as an evidence of his acknowledgments.

More extended experience has shown of ther desiderala which the "Companion" is intended to supply. While reading for the a large mass of material accu-'Library" mulates on the hands of the editor, of an interesting, entertaining, and instructive de scription, such as would properly come under the designation of Magaziniana, inter spersed with the Reviews from the English Quarterlies. To publish every thing of this nature which we deem desirable would encroach too much on the columns of the "Li beary" designed for books, and yet to pass them by is constantly a subject of regret. l'o concentrate, therefore, the pub ication of Books entire, Reviews, lists of new works the choicest contributions to Magazines. &c. &c. &c. the "Communion to Waldie's Library" will be offered to the patronage of the present subscribers and the public at large. It is believed that with the "Library," the "Journal," and the "Companion," such an acquaintance with the literature of the age may be cultivated as to leave little fur ther to be desired. Being all published from the same office, more facility offers for subscribing, and having fewer people to deal with, mistakes are less liable to occur, and more readily corrected when they do. short interval of two weeks between the publication of each number, it is thought too. quarterlies. 4. As the work) will not be commenced, unless a sufficient patronage be obtained, no payment is required at present, only the name, sent free of postage. Those wishing to support the publication will be pleased therefore to announce their intention as early as possible, as it is intended to commend the work on the first of January next. . On the issuing of the second number payment will be expected, as its appearance will e vince a sufficiency of patronage.

The proprietor of the "Select Circulating Library," fully aware from experience of the advantages to the public of the rapic diffusion of cheap and select literature, has heen induced to add the important feature to the work, and of course leaves it optional with the present subscribers and others to take it or not.

It is confidently believed, that, with the attention on the part of the Editor, who has already at hand the material for such a work, all the realty valuable matter of the English literary and amusing publications may be comprised in this form at a rate of subscription and postage, so trifling as scarcely to tall-ceased.
