light the depressed condition of the finances of the State, and cannot fail at a glance to con-vince every intelligent mind of the improvi-dence of that course of legislation, which has led to such unwelcome results.

Great as is the deficiency shewn by these statements, in the means of the Treasury, at the close of the last fiscal year, your Committee far from entertaining any hope of future amelioration, under existing laws and regulations, have been unable to discern any thing in the prospective view it was their duty to take, but accumulating embarrassments and difficulties. The heavy public debt incurred, and to be incurred for Internal Improvements, in virtue of existing enactments, amounting in all to one million severn hundred and nineteen thousand dollars, now but beginning to press upon the resources of the Treasury, must soon be felt in its full weight. The interest payable on that debt during the past year, amounted to $56,342 92; during the present season that amount will be increased to $79,193 57, and thereafter the aimual charge upon the revenues of the State, on that account alone, will be $55. 450, while no provision has yet been made for any correspondent augmentation of those rovenues. Thus, and by reference to the estimates of receipts and expenditures for the current year, herewith submitted, it will be seen, that 50,000 00 the deficiency on the 1st day of December next, upon the supposition that no additional means are provided by the present Legislature, would be increased to upwards of eighty-seven thousand dollars, with the certain prospect of suil a 65,169 57 greater deficit in subsequent years. Your Committee wish not to be understood as depreciating the policy which has prompted to the fiberal ar. propriations heretofore taide to works of Internal Improvement, neither do they intend to intimate any opinion as to the future poricy of the State in that regard-such considerations do 5,000 00 not fall within the appropriate sphere: of their duties, and they are far from being disposed to encrorch, in the slightest degree, upon those assigned to others, not less patriotic, and proba-bly more capable than themselves. But it is that unwise and improvident legislation, which authorises expenditure (for any purpose) without a just and timely regard to the means of meeting it—which makes a free use of the public credit, without, at the same time, sufficient. ly providing for its maintenance and support, to which your Committee would be understood as strongly objecting. Had our predecessors, whonever for any purpose they deemed it con-dusive to the public interest to contract a ceniderable debt, seen fit to provide safely and vertainly for the punctial payment of the interest, and the ultimate redemption of the principal debt itself, we should have been saved from our present embarrasements, and there would have been far less danger that the public confidence would faulter in the prosecution of our splendid works of Internal Improvement-enough has probably been said to show the necessity of a change of policy in this respect, and the confident hope is entertained that the lessons of ex-> y than precept, will sufficiently guard against recurrence of similar evils. Your Committee will now proceed to recommend such measures as have appeared to them, after mature and full consideration, best calcule. ted to arrest the downward tendency of affairs, and give to the Treasury that relief sourgentwhich sets apart the reverues expected from the Baltimore and Washington Rail Road, as a fund for the payment of the debt contracted for its construction, with a view to the application deposites now in the Union Bank of Maryland, sufficient magnitude to insure the reden of the debt by the time it shall have become ro-perience, operating always much more effectual.

ly required. First then, they propose a repeal of the 9th section of the act of 1832, ch. 175, in construction, with a view to the application in future years, of the regenies anticipated from that source, (and which it is estimated will be much more than equal to the object for which they are set apart,) to the ordinary purposes of the Treasury, and to substitute in lieu thereof a sinking fund, to be taken from the States' special direction new in the Union Bank of Manufact. nable, which will be in twenty four years, may be redeemed at the expiration of that period by a sinking fund of $155,000 created now.

291,797 79 The amount of that debt is $500,000 and carefully compor
