COMPANION TO WALDIE'S LI-BRARY.

The cheapest reprint from English Periodicals ever offered to the public.

DEFONE the Select Circulating Libra-10 ry had been long in existence, it was discovered that there was still semething wanting-that many occurrences in the literary world must pass unknown, as regarded our agency, without an extension of the plan l'o establish a fuller medium of communica tion and supply the desideratum, nal of Beiles Lettres was added; which we have reson to elieve has afforded go era The very liberal pationage exsatisfacti :n. nded to the Library induced the proprie tor to gi a that gratuitously as an evidence knowledgments.

More extended experience has shown of ther de iderata which the "Companion" is intended to supply. While reading for the ·Library" a large mass of material accumulate- on the hands of the editor, of an merest g, entertaining, and instructive de scription, such as would properly come un-ler the designation of Magaziniana, interpersed with the Reviews from the English Quarterlies. To publish every thing of this nature which we deem desirable would en creach too much on the columns of the "Liorary" designed for books, and yet to pass hem by is constantly a subject of regret. l'a concentrate, therefore, the publication of Books entire, Reviews, lists of new works, he choicest contributions to Magazines. &c. &c. &c. the "Companion to Waldie's Library" will be offered to the patronage of the present subscribers and the public at large. It is believed that with the "Library," the "Journal," and the "Companion," such in acquaintance with the literature of the age may be cultivated as to leave little further to be desired. Being all published from the same office, more facility offers for subscribing, and having fewer people to deal with, mistakes are less liable to occur, and more readily corrected then they do. The short interval of two wear tween the publication of each number, is thought too, will be an advantage over monthlies and as possible, as it is intended to commence the work on the first of January next. On the issuing of the second number payment pril, in the year eighteen hundred and thirtywill be expected, as its appearance will e-attention on the part of the Editor, who has already at hand the material for such a work, all the realty valuable matter of the English literary and amusing publications may be comprised in this form at a rate of subscription and postage, so trifling as scarcely to he felt. It will form the cheapest reprint of reviews and magazines ever attempted in any country; a comparison with others it were uncless here to enter upon, the 'Libra ry' itself being the best test by which to judge of the difference between an octavo and a quarto page. It will be the study of the Editor to embody a record of the day, adapted to the wants of this country, which can have no competitor for value or cheapness; how far he is likely to do this he must leave at present to the accision of his readers Clubs of five individuals, who subscribe to the 'Library' and 'Companion' both, will obtain the two for six dollars, the postage (a very important consideration) to the most distant post office, on the two, will be one dollar and ninety five cents, divided into seventy eight payments, and half that sum for 100 miles or a less distance from Philadelphia, while the same matter, in the usual American reprints of reviews and magaazines in octavo form would be eighteen dollars, and the postage as three to one. We make this assertion advisedly.
