The fourth year will commence on the first Tuesday of January, 1836, at which period it will be necessary to determine the additional amount of copies to be printed, sub-scriptions being taken only from January, of each year. The entire success of the Library is the best guarantee that can be given of its continuance. 'It was the first to sur ply books by mail at a more per centage of their former |

by mail at a mere per centage of their former costs it has outlived more than thirty pucific attempts at initiations and has bow an extensive list of patrons who are of the most solid and valuable class of citizens in every part of the Union, as well as in foreign countries.

The object of Waldie's Library, its use and purpose, is enjoyment liberal and intellectual. To all who love a mental banquet, without being compelled to depend on places of public resort, this proplection furnices a most valuable desideration, supplying polite literature of a character to enlarge and improve the mind. The time and attention of the editor, himself a reader from inclination as well as duty, are devoted to the produceas well as duty, are devoted to the procure-ment of works of an elevated standard of infamily without hesitation by the most fastidions, and become a rallying point for all its members, promoting social belief lettres read-ing and conversation. The variety thus coland conversation. The variety thus col-bered from the whole mass of published works, mostly new, embaces Biography, Novels, Voyrga and Travels, Sketches, Tales, and Select Hisbry, personal memors of extraordinary includuals, and curious ad-venture, Sc. Se. An amount equal to fifty London duodecido volumes is thus annually familished in yeekly numbers, at a cost only equal to one of the London works. The plan thus embraces the whole range of popular lit-or three field the work has now become so uni-versally diffused in every nort of the Union versally diffused in every part of the Union es to form no inconsiderable portion of the literature of the country, and with which an acquintance has become really necessary for

The Library as now conducted disseminates books to all parts of the country in from five to six weeks after their issue in London. Five dollars per affirm expended in this way will supply good reading for a whole crecie or family; for a cert call a half a day, postore weighted, a cale and many is sent every age included, a deodecimo book is sent every week, making in the course of the year more than three volumes of Roes's Cyclopedia. One volume of the Library, containing from fifteen to twenty entire works, can only and at an expense little exceeding that of history eithor separately, and constitutes a concentrated collection forming a never failing resource of amusement and instruction, and which must always be worth the price that has been paid for it. The most ample testimony has been spontaneously afforded that this work has contributed to the pleasure of thousands, who, but for the resource it/afforded, must have been left with minds unoccupied, or thrown into unprofitable and/uncongenial society. This immense supply of periodical reading has thus been welconed every where as a means of improvement, and a substitute for the small talk or i'de listlessness so apt to employ a large portion of the time of the ma-

COMPANION TO WALDIE'S LI-BRARY

The cheapest reprint from English Periodicals ever offered to the public.

TEFORE the Select Circulating Libraty had been long in existence, it was discovered that there was still something wanting-that many occurrences in the liteary world must pass unknown, as regarded our agency, without an extension of the plan. I'o establish a fuller medium of communication and supply the desideratum, the Journul of Belles Lettres was added; which we have reason to believe has afforded general satisfaction. The very liberal patronage extended to the Library induced the proprie-tor to give that gratuitously as an evidence of his acknowledgments.

More extended experience has shown o-ther desiderata which the "Companion" is intended to supply. While reading for the Library" a large mass of material accumulates on the hands of the editor, of an interesting, entertaining, and instructive description, such as would properly come unler the designation of Mugaziniana, interspersed with the Reviews from the English To publish every thing of this nature which we deem desirable would encroach too much on the columns of the "Library" designed for books, and yet to pass them by is constantly a subject of regret To concentrate, therefore, the publication of Books entire, Reviews, lists of new works, the choicest contributions to Magazines &c. &c. &c. the "Companion to Waldie's Library" will be offered to the patronage of the present subscribers and the public at large. It is believed that with the "Library," the "Journal," and the "Companion," such an acquaintance with the literature of the age may be cultivated as to leave little further to be desired. Being all published from the same office, more facility offers for subscribing, and having fewer people to deal with, mistakes are less liable to occur, and more readily corrected when they do. The short interval of two weeks between the publication of each number, it is thought too, will be an advantage over monthlies and
