We are a therefore, that these men should have that ly, fearlessly, and patriotically avowed the conditional approval of the National and rican character of that portion of the m of the Executive which treats of our P

In thus briefly reviewing the character of recent message when considered as an are or explanation to France, we have endeave to look at it as it is most reasonable to an the French ministry will when brought b the French ministry which oregan be them for consideration; and such certain! the aspect in which it should be considered we aim to airlye at just conclusions. We sh cast aside all prejudices or feelings in the cition, and look at the facts as they are, not a would wish them to be; and when thes exe ed by an intelligent reader, we think they r agree with us in the conclusion, that the ngree with a specific or explanatory in the r sage of '35 which was not in that of '31, sage of '35 which was not in that of the reputations sincerely do we rejoice for the reputations sincerely that such is the fact. If of our country that such is the fact. of our country that such is the fact. If I French can find any thing in it to assuage the wounded honour they have our congratular upon the success of their discovery, and hope they will promptly pay us what they mit to be honestly due; but for the honour of country, we trust the world at large will ne for a moment imagine that the American p ple in the person of their Executive, has b humbled before the footstool of Louis Phill

Our next inquiry is whether the demand ma for the indemnity by our Charge without fi ther explanation, has been complied with; a if not, the consequence of a refusal! The P. sident informs Congress that he has authorize Mr. Barton to make the final demand for: money, and if not paid with explanations return home; and he adds, that he expected have received the answer of the French Me try before the meeting of Congress. There no doubt-or at least we have none-that final instructions referred to, which directed ? Barton to demand payment of the money without further explanation, and return hon refused, were conveyed to him by the par ship Formosa, which sailed hence on the 10 September.

She arrived at Havre on the 14th Oct. a our last accounts from Paris are by the way condon to the 26th, on which day, it is state ooth in private letters and public newspap hat the demand had been made by Mr. Bart. nd that it had been met by a refusal. here must be some truth in this, we infer from he fact that the period at which it is stated the emand was made, agrees with the time at white he instructions by the Formosa must have eached Mr Barton, and with that when he we y probably did make it. This rumour is i art, therefore, no doubt true; and a part of : ing thus verified, there is reason to believe nat the demand has been actually made and me cted.

On the reasonable supposition then, that the rench ministers would not and could not, in the face of the law, pay the indemnity "without rther explanation," there can be little doubt at Mr. Barton will arrive here in the Silvie de risse, the Havre packet of the 8th November. n his arrival, or the arrival of despatches from m, the President has declared his intention of nding a special message to Congress Can we abt what its tenor will be? Is it reasonable to ppose that under such circums ances, he will stain from recommending a total non-interurse with France and a prohibition of all ench goods? And if he should recommend ch a course, where is the man or set of non Congress, who will not respond to it?

Such a result we may reasonably anticipate being due to our national character; and we ve to the judgments of our readers to deterne in what spirit it will be met by France. may retrace her steps, acknowledge the folof her demand, and pay us the amount of the emnity; or she may pretend to discern in the eminity; or she may pretend to discern in the ent message an ample spology for that of and act accordingly. We care not which ree she adopts, so that she only pays her just to bot in the meantime we advise all conced, to be prepared for the worst, and determined, to be the coord to stand by the Government in resisting my energodynant group the it in resisting any encroachment upon the t source it may!
