The Tomato.—A writer, under the signature of Medicus, in a New York paper, is putting in a word in time for the Tomatoes, so that farmers and gardeners may have a plentiful supply for the next season. From its ascertained whole- someness, he says, the demand for it was double last year of what it ever was before, and he anticipates a similar increase during the coming season. A gentleman near New York cleared, he says, eighteen hundred dollars last summer on a small farm by rearing the tomato.

From the Savannah Georgian Extra, March 20. FROM FLORIDA—IMPORTANT! The Steam Packet Etiwan, Captain Sassaard, arrived yesterday afternoon, from Jacksonville, brought us a ship from the office of the Jack- sonville Courier, which contains the following intelligence from Gen. Gaines's army. For the want of provisions, they have been obliged to retire to Fort Drane, where the gallant Gaines yielded the command to the no less gallant Clinch, and set out for the West. We are of opinion, that Gen. Gaines has left the forces at Fort Drane, not because, as others think, the war is at an end, but because his orders compelled him so to do; and, as General Clinch is an experienced officer, he did not feel authorized to violate those orders, one of the first duties of the soldier being to render cheer- ful obedience to his superiors. Besides, the brave Scott, entrusted with the chief command in Florida, was, we presume, known to be ap- proaching Fort Drane. What necessity, then, for Gaines to remain, when such reasons urged his withdrawal.

We are more inclined to look upon the ad- vances of Osceola as a deep stratagem laid by the wily savage, than any serious disposition for peace. His character, the character of his fol- lowers, as evinced on the blood stained fields of Florida, forbid the idea that the revengeful sa- vage—the violator of treaties—the murderer of Charley Omatha—of the gray-headed Thompson, and the companion of the destroyer of Dale and his martyred associates, can, from any desire to spare the blood of our countrymen, pause in that career of carnage, to pursue which he has bathed his hands in innocent blood, trod upon the prostrate bodies of the noble and the brave, and nurtured, for a propitious moment whereto to gratify them, the revengeful feelings of the savage breast. We trust no faith may henceforth be placed in the faith of Osceola.— Unlike the Sun in his noonday brightness, he blesses neither his own or the people of other climes. Unlike the same brilliant luminary in his morning brightness, he throws no smile of promise over a favoured world, but rescuubling him only, when veiled by the clouds of heaven, or declining in blood beneath the western hori- zon, he throws to our acceptance a doom of gloom or a night of sorrow. May it be the for- tune of our gallant army to view him as the setting sun, but not increasing in his blood-stained colour as he sinks from their sight. But may his disk when viewed, be shorn of those rays which distinguish the sun even in his evening journey.

From the Jacksonville Courier, March 17. GENERAL GAINES AND OSCEOLA HAD AN INTERVIEW.

The news from the camp of General Gaines continues to be of great importance. In our last we stated Gen. Clinch with the Alachua militia, had joined him. We were then unable to state correctly the particulars. The follow- ing extract of a letter to the Editor, will show the force which accompanied the provisions.

The force which went to the relief of Gen. Gaines under the command of Gen. Clinch, consisted of four companies of mounted volunteers from Alachua county, commanded by Captains Williams, Carter, and Lieut. Dell, one company from Hamilton county, under Captain Martin, the Richmond Blues, about 70 friendly Indians, and some regulars; in all about seven hundred men. Verbal reports state that the In- dians are getting short of lead.

With this force Gen. Clinch went to the relief of Gen. Gaines. The night before his ar- rival, Osceola sent a negro to the camp of Gen. Gaines requesting an interview, and promising to stop killing white men if he would stop kill- ing Indians. This proposition was agreed to, and Osceola was told to come next day with a white flag, when they would have a talk with him. The next day, in company with another chief, he came to within about one hundred yards of the fort, waving his white flag around three times, and sat down on a log. Three officers from the camp went to meet him.

Osceola informed them that Gen. Clinch was on his way to join them with a large number of horsemen. He expressed his willingness that hostilities should cease, and to give up his arms. The officers required him to sign articles of a agreement, by which he bound himself to proceed immediately to Tampa Bay, and there embark for the Mississippi. Some say that Osceola ob- jected to this mode of removing and wished to go by land; others that he would not go at all, but wished to live on the other side of the With- lacoochee and to have that for the boundary line between them and the whites. Their discus- sion was interrupted by the arrival of General Clinch. During the course of it, Osceola in- quired how they were off for provisions. They told him they had plenty. He said he knew they had not, and if they would come over the river, he would give them two beaves and a bot- tle of brandy.

As Gen. Clinch approached, the friendly In- dians, discovering the hostile Indians about three hundred yards from the Camp of Gen. Gaines, raised the whoop which was immedi- ately followed by one from the hostile Indians. The men immediately formed and fired a platoon. The Indians fled and were closely pur- sued. A number then came from Gen. Gaines ordering them to stop, and informing them that Osceola was treating with them. At first those in pursuit could not be restrained; but the cry of "treaty," "treaty," soon checked them. General Clinch then formed and proceeded to Camp. The following extract of a letter, written after their arrival, contains some interesting particu- lars:

Had 1 Quarters, Camp Izard, Florida, } On the Outhlacoochee, March 8, at night. } "We arrived at this post on the evening of the 6th, and found Gen. Gaines's army in a state of starvation, eating horses, dogs, &c. Less than a gill of corn was issued for a day's rations. We brought but a small quantity of provisions with us, and I believe there are but few men in Camp who are not hungry at this time. We found plenty fresh Indians sign two miles above this on the river, and some of us wanted to pursue it, but the General directed otherwise. When we came in sight of the camp, the spy guard reported Indians (500 in battle array. The war whoop commenced, all who heard it expected, and, I believe, were pre- pared, ready, and willing for it. I was at the head of Captains Martin and Carter's compa- nies, the left flank, when we discovered a considerable body of Indians on our left. We crossed a little, faced to the left, and gave them a fire—two only returned it (and one of the balls struck near me, they instantly fled into the ham- buck); it is said we killed one and wounded two; to-day the spot has been visited, and a considerable quantity of hides, some rice, &c., were found.—so I guess they left in a hurry. They have had Gen. Gaines completely sur- rounded for several days previous to our arrival; they had fought him all the day before without much execution on either side.

Hearing the attack of Gen. Clinch, the officers in conversation with Osceola advised him to retire into the hammock, while they went to the camp.

On reaching the camp, Gen. Clinch found its inmates in great distress. They were literally in a state of starvation. They had killed and eaten several horses and dogs. One soldier having stolen a dog and killed it, sold one of the quarters for five dollars. For this act of steal- ing, or selling, or all together, he received a se- vere flogging. One man gave six dollars for a piece of horses' entrails about a foot long. Five dollars were given for a biscuit and the same for a quart of corn. We forbear to mention many other acts, showing what hunger will compel one to do, which are related of these patriotic men, thus surrounded and suffering in a savage wilderness. Yet there was perfect subordina- tion, and every man was prompt in the discharge of his duty. The Alachua volunteers cheer- fully distributed their biscuits and corn, reserving none for themselves. It was affecting to wit- ness the greediness and thankfulness with which they received a whole or a half biscuit from their deliverers.

The evening of the day on which their inter- view was interrupted by the arrival of General Clinch, Osceola sent word to Gen. Gaines, that if he would send away the horsemen (Alachua militia) they would come and surrender their arms. We know not whether Gen. Gaines or otherwise, the horsemen were not sent away. After waiting three days to hear more of Osceola, and not having provisions to remain longer, Gen. Gaines returned to Fort Drane, at which place Osceola was to have met him, Monday or Tuesday last. After receiving this Fort, he transferred the command to Gen. Clinch, and left for New Orleans by the way of Tallahassee. During some of the engagements he received a wound; the ball passing through his lip, knock- ed out two of his teeth, but his force being nearly spent, it did him no further injury.

This movement of Osceola in requesting an interview, when Gen. Gaines had been entirely surrounded by his followers for several days, is inexplicable, and seems to have taken all by surprise. Whether it was an artifice devised on learning of the approach of a reinforcement, to give time to make a safe retreat; or a stratagem by which, after introducing five hundred Indians within the breastwork under the pre- text of surrendering their arms, he intended to make an attack with his main force, and taking advantage of the confusion, to massacre the whole before Gen. Clinch could render them any assistance, or, as he says, he is really tired of smothering white men, Gen. Clinch's arrival sooner than was anticipated, prevents us from determining and the time alone can now de- cide.

Though Osceola has courage and cunning, to plan and execute at most any bloody movement, we sincerely hope he has seen the hopelessness and folly of further resistance, and that the In- dians will now surrender their arms, and pre- pare to abide by the stipulations of the treaty for their removal. Should this be the case, Gen. Gaines will receive a Nation's thanks, and a val- iant General's fame.

To the manner in which he has conducted his part of the campaign, much credit is due. His alacrity in bringing to the theatre of ac- tion so large a force, his march from Tampa Bay, and the burial of the unfortunate Major Dade and his companions, entitle him to the gratitude of the citizens of Florida, at whose cry of distress he so promptly came, and of the afflicted relatives and friends of the unfortun- ate men, whose bodies were strewn over the plain, and upon which the vultures were batten- ing.

OBITUARY. Died, on Thursday morning the 24th instant, Mrs. HESTER F. RINGOLD, wife of Dr. John Ringold of this city, and daughter of the late Judge Henry Ringold, of Anne Arundel county. The voice of panegyric need not be raised, to proclaim the worth of her whom all deplore.— Called, early in life, by the omnipotent voice of the Almighty to believe on his beloved Son, and devote her life to his service, she joyfully obeyed the mandate; and the united testimony of all who knew her, is borne to the cheerfulness, alac- rity and zeal with which she followed the example of her Lord and Master. The princi- ples of religion inhaled in early youth, support- ed her under the duties and sorrows of more ad- vanced life, and comforted and cheered her on the bed of death. Well may we exclaim on recording the death of such a woman, how un- searchable and "past finding out" are the ways of Providence. Cut off in the prime of life, and in the midst of usefulness to her family, so- ciety and the Church, poor short-sighted man can see no reason for such a bereavement. But "God's thoughts are not our thoughts, neither are his ways out ways." It seemed good to Him to take her for nobler services on high.— Let this reflection hush every murmur.
