NOVEL CASE.

parties having feiled to attend, it was agreed that the matter should be decided by the presiding Justice, Edward Dubois, Esq. after hearing their respective statements and the testimony of their witnesses. The case being novel and without precedent in this city, drew together many auditors, curious to learn the issue of It appeared from disclosures made on the trial, that sometime last week the plaintiff, Richard Kirby, formerly a resident of the Swamp, in this county, sold his wife to the defendant, George Dunn, of this city, for five dollars. Nobody professed to know the motive that influenced Kirby to make the sale: it may have been the love of money, or the want of money; or it may have been solely to relieve himself from the burthens of matrimony; but certain it is that he did sell his wife for the before mentioned sum, and that too without so much as stipulating at the time, that it should be paid in gold or silver, and not depreciated Bank paper. Scarcely, however, was the bar-gain concluded, before Dunn, who is a married man, repented of having made it, and began to hum the old song, which runs

"Sic a wife as Willie had,
"I wad na gie a button for her;"

But it was too late, there was no backing out; he had consented to take her, and the husband had determined that he should have her. The plaintiff proferred Dunn a bill of sale, and de-

AN AMERICAN REBECCA.

The noble courage displayed by Scott's Re-becca, in his novel of Ivanhoe, when she stood upon the tower, from which she declared she would precipitate herself if followed by the villain who desired to rob her of her honor, has been more than shaded by the sacrifice of a young girl, near Harford, Connecticut.

The facts are given us by a gentleman, and are as follows—The son of a respectable paper maker one day, a few weeks ago, finding young girl, alluded to, at the dinner hour in the young girl, alluded to, at the dinner hour in the upper toom of the paper mill, entered and locking the door, seized the girl, and endeavored to accomplish his Tarquinian purpose, when the girl sprung from his grasp, and approached the edge of the scuttle which opened into two chambers be neath, a distance of thirty feet. The cowardly miscreant was about advancing to secure the heroine again, when she exclaimed—
"Dare sir, to advance one step toward me, and provided the grant of the provided the grant of th my death be on your head. I free myself by jumping down these falls." The villain approached by a step—the girl dashed hereself forward, falling through the two stories and Such devetion should be immortalized—such at instance of self sacrifice should be hailed with the highest admiration.
