

Fourth Year of Waldie's Lib
BOOKS BY MAIL
PROSPECTUS OF TWO NEW VOLUMES FOR 1836.

THREE years have now elapsed since the proprietor of Waldie's Select Catalogue of Books, by mail, first published his prospectus for a valuable library, the features of which were cheapness, a facility of a rapid transportation by the most ample success has attended enterprise, and the effects upon the community, it is believed, have been some.

The fourth year will commence on Tuesday of January, 1836, at which it will be necessary to determine the amount of copies to be printed, the entire success of the year is the best guarantee that can be given, it was the first to supply by mail at a mere percentage of their cost; it has outlived more than thirty attempts at imitation; and has now a list of patrons who are of the most and valuable class of citizens in every part of the Union, as well as in foreign countries.

The object of Waldie's Library, and purpose, is enjoyment, liberal and intellectual. To all who love a mental improvement, this publication furnishes the most valuable desideratum, supplying literature of a character to enlarge the mind, to improve the taste, and to instruct the editor, himself a reader from such as well as duty, are devoted to the present of works of an elevated standard; and which may be admitted into families without hesitation by the most discerning, and become a rallying point for members, promoting social belles lettres and conversation. The variety of subjects selected from the whole mass of our works, mostly new, embraces Novels, Tales, and Select History, personal or extraordinary individuals, and current events, &c. &c. An amount equal to London duodecimo volumes is thus furnished in weekly numbers, at a cost equal to one of the London works. It thus embraces the whole range of popular literature, and the work has now become generally diffused in every part of the country, and has become a really necessary to those who mix in society.

The Library is now conducted in a neat book to all parts of the country, five to six weeks after their issue in the five dollars per annum expended in it will supply good reading for a whole or a part of a year, and a half a day's age included, a duodecimo book is sent weekly, making in the course of the year three volumes of Reed's Cyclopaedia volume of the Library, containing from twenty to thirty articles, can be bound separately, and constitutes a complete collection forming a never failing resource amusement and instruction, and which always be worth the price that has been for it. The most ample testimony has spontaneously afforded that this work contributed to the pleasure of thousands but for the resource it afforded, must have been left with minds unoccupied, or to an unprofitable and unenjoyable state. This immense supply of periodical works has thus been welcomed every where means of improvement, and a substitute for the small talk or idle listlessness so commonly employ a large portion of the time of the day.

Waldie's Library is published every day, accompanied by a cover of four pages, entitled, The Journal of Belles Lettres, containing reviews of new books, intelligence of all kinds, tales, lists of books, &c. thus combining the advantages of a Library, and the amusement of a magazine; the whole for $5 00 per annum, or clubs of five individuals obtain copies for $20 00, a reduction which pays postage. Payment always in advance.

Waldie's Port Folio and Companion to the Library.

This periodical contains half as much as the Library, at half its price; and are furnished to clubs of five for $6 00. contents consist of a reprint of the best from the London Magazines and Reviews, especially the Edinburgh and Quarterly. Its object is popular instruction and amusement, combined in such a manner as to enlist the feelings of every member of a social circle. It enjoys an extensive circulation; price to single subscribers not taking Library, $2 50, postage paid.

A very limited number of copies of Library and Port Folio, at the rate of subscription price, may be had for a year. The Library has been published for years and the Port Folio ones, an individual may now form a club by himself, and by paying for the next three years, and the Port Folio for 1835 and 1836, the whole can be had for $20 00. For this amount of matter procured which public approbation stamped as truly valuable and unique kind. This privilege must, however, be brief continuance.

Complaint having been made that a house occupied by Mr. Wayson, was a resort for Negroes, who annoyed the neighbourhood by their drunken and riotous conduct, the City Officers, accompanied by several citizens, proceeded to Wayson's on Saturday night last, for the purpose of suppressing any disorderly behaviour on the part of the negroes; they had possession of one of them in the yard, when Wayson approached, and after some words between him and a young man by the name of Gambrell, the former stabbed Gambrell so severely, as to cause his death on Monday morning. Wayson being in the hands of justice, and amenable to the law, we forbear any comment thereon. Mr. Gambrell was a sober and industrious young man, and has left a widow, and several children.

INTELLIGENCE FROM MARYLAND LIBERIA.

The Rev. Mr. Eister, Agent of the Maryland State Colonization Society, has politely furnished us with extracts from several letters from persons residing at Cape Palmas, which will be the more acceptable on account of the long interval since the last intelligence from the Colony. Doctor Savage, Missionary of the Protestant Episcopal Church, writes on the 12th May: "My health is good. With the exception of not possessing as much strength as in America, I am as well as ever, with exercise and ordinary prudence. I am as free from sickness or ill feeling of any kind as when in America, and as to happiness I never enjoyed the same degree in the same time. I am sensible that I am in the path of duty. Such is my conviction, with out a doubt to overshadow the feeling; you will believe me, then, when I say I am happy. As to the prospects of our Mission I can say they are flattering. Work goes on slowly, very slowly; but we shall have comfortable accommodations for our associates when they arrive. Mr. Holmes, Agent of the Maryland State Colonization Society, has accomplished much for the comfort of the new emigrants and the best interests of the Colony at large. He certainly has done wonders, and well deserves the decided approbation of the Board at home. The "new long house," for the reception of emigrants, does much credit both to his head and heart."

The Rev. John Lighton Wilson writes under date of the 18th March:—"Our press is in operation, and we will send you some specimens of our printing. We have been urged to print a new paper, but must wait the decision of our Committee. Our boarding school now shows the Portuguese at Lisbon, and the Spaniards embraces nearly forty children, ten of whom are native girls. Besides these we have four days John Bull, has no contemptible notion of ship schools in operation in the neighbouring settle-building. She might afterwards touch at Gibraltar, and have in all more than one hundred ratar, Barcelona, Port Mahon, Malta, Sicily, learners. Doctor Savage and Mr. James (our Naples, Alexandria; and, returning, call at some printer) had less fever than usually falls to the of the ports of the Barbary Powers. Then let lot of foreigners. Our work as Missionaries is her proceed to the East Indies, not forgetting to hard, but pleasant. It is fraught with trials, tarry away at the Cape of Good Hope. Let but every trial brings along a corresponding heratonish the civilized inhabitants, and uncivilization. Mr. Snetter will forward to you rednatives of the islands in those regions, and keep some ore which he has found to abound about in motion until she reaches the great seaport of the Cape, for trial. Some who have seen it the 'Celestial Empire,' and enable the Chinese suppose it to be gold ore, but he has not the to contrast the beauty, strength, and magnitude means of testing it and will send it to you, so of the American barbarians with the ill con that if it should prove valuable the Society may structured, uncouth-looking, indifferent war junk, avail themselves of it, the land where it abounds which constitute the marine force of this remarkable nation. Let her visit Manila, and af being as yet unappropriated."

The Maryland Colonization Journal, received towards the western coast of the A-yesterday, has the following additional letter, merican content; stop at Callao, appear off received by the Portia via New York, from the Valparaiso, and double Cape Horn on her re- Coast of Africa.

HARPER, Cape Palmas, April 30, 1837.
Moses SHEPARD, Esq.
Dear Sir:—You will be pleased to hear from enter roads of Pernambuco; and then, hey! for the liberty to forward these hasty lines.

We are progressing as fast as improvements general outline to the above would be of greater generally do in Africa, and could a little more service to our navy and the commerce of our country, than to suffer a specimen of ship-build should be able to make more rapid strides. But if any of which we have great reason to be proud those among us who are so anxious to see our to lie a useless hulk at war quay? colonists prosper, can only set the example, and leave it to time and their own good sense to prompt them to action.

We all feel truly grateful, that after having done so much for our people in America and Africa, your exertions are daily put forth in their behalf.

The scine you were so kind as to send us, is now being knit; and I suppose, it would have been done long ago, if labour had not been in the greatest demand on account of the many buildings now erecting by the missionaries.

We have lately introduced working cattle and the plough, and should the colonists give more attention to their farms, the happiest results may be expected. Coffee seed from Monrovia has been lately distributed.

My wife and two boys are in good health; and she begs to be remembered with kind affection to the long tried friends of her family.

With many kind wishes after the health of your family and self.
I remain, dear sir, your obedient serv't,
JOHN B. RUSSELL, A. M. D. C. S.
P. S.—Our Board of Managers have kindly promised to send us out some jacks, mules and horses in the next expedition vessel; should the subject escape their memory you will be adding another favour by urging it. I have lately received a beautiful little mare from the Tshadda, one of the branches of the Niger, via Fernando Po.

Remarks.—We are happy to state that the brig Baltimore was chartered with direct reference to touching at the Cape de Verdes, for the work animals above spoken of, and cannot doubt that they are on the farms at work long since. No letters were received by the Portia as yet; but we are looking daily for the return of the Niobe by which full despatches are expected.

SHIP PENNSYLVANIA.

The subject of this proposition is made by the Editor of the Boston Mercantile Journal. We second his motion. Readers! You who are in favour of the motion, say AYE! Those who are of the contrary opinion, say NO! If the question were put in this form to the body of the People, we believe it would be carried without a division, and almost unanimously.—Nat. Int.
The Ship PENNSYLVANIA is launched, and we hope she will not be suffered to remain inactive, rotting at our dock yards. The ship, if she is so fine a specimen of naval architecture as has been represented, and we have no occasion to doubt it, should be sent abroad. She should visit many ports in countries where our merchants are in the habit of trading, and her tremendous battery would be more effectual in causing the stars and stripes to be respected, and to secure to our American citizens honourable and courteous treatment, than could be effected by the most able and diplomatic correspondence.
We hope that a year will not elapse before this noble ship, completely equipped and manned, will leave the American shores, under the command of a gallant officer, and bend her way through the world of waters to Britain's fast anchored isle. Let her visit Portsmouth, and show herself in the North Sea and Cattegat, and stop at Gottenburgh, to exchange salutes with the Swedes, and afterwards at Esinore reciprocate civilities with the Danish Cronberg Castle. We should also be much pleased to have her visit Cronstadt, the famous seaport of the Czar Nicholas, and we doubt not that the Russian despot would give her a hearty welcome to the waters that wash the shores of his empire, but her draught of water is so great that she would not be able to pass the 'ground's' at Copenhagen without a vast deal of trouble.
On her return, she might look in at Cherbourg, in France, and passing through the channel, make her compliments to the Mousieurs at Brest; and on her way to the Mediterranean,

To become a politician one must have a limber back, a well oiled tongue, and an india rubber conscience. So says the Portlander.

[Nonsense—a "politician" has just as much conscience as (and no more than) any body else. A politician is one who takes an interest in the public weal, and who, in ninety-nine instances out of a hundred, honestly believes that his own views are right, and those of his political opponents wrong.—When politicians become scarce, the liberties of the country will be in danger. They set, on both sides, as checks on each other. In a country like ours, every man ought to be a politician, and if any man does not wish to join our side, let him join the other.—Let him be any thing but a neutral.]—Abney Daily Ad.

OBITUARY.

Deceased this life on Monday morning at 3 o'clock, HENRY BASSFORD, Son, in the fifth year of his age. It may be truly said that a good man has fallen in Israel. His lot was cast in the humble paths of life, and although misfortunes shortly pressed him in his later days, yet he never for a moment deserted his faith in the redeeming blood of Jesus Christ; but in sickness and health, in pain and distress, he placed his hope on high, as the sheet-anchor of contentment here, and of everlasting happiness hereafter. It was a source of unmingled pleasure to witness with what calm philosophy and unflinching faith he contemplated his approaching dissolution. He spoke of the unspeakable comforts of religion—thanked his God for his gracious love in all things, but especially for his conversion to early life. He expressed his firm and unshaken belief in the resurrection of the body and the forgiveness of sins. He was perfectly resigned, and willing to obey his Master's call at any moment, and did the world farewell. Thus died Henry Bassford, an honest man and faithful christian; full of faith, full of hope—in charity with all mankind—proving his victory over death, and sealing with his latest breath the evidence of Jesus Christ's love for sinners and erring mortals. This noble tribute to departed worth is offered in sincerity and truth by one who loved him while living, and mourns him dead.
