THREE years have now elapsed since the proprietor of Waldie's Select Circulating Library laid before the public his original prospectus for a valuable library, the great ABRAUAMS, at the South East corner of King's Own, teatures of which were cheapness, and the facility of a rapid-transportation by mail.

The most ample success has attended the enterprise, and the effects upon the reading community, it is believed, have been while-without being compelled to depend on p of public resort, this publication furnishes a most valuable desideratum, supplying polite literature of a character to enlarge and improve the mind. The time and attention of the editor, himself a reader from inclination as well as duty, are devoted to the procure-ment of works of an elevated standard of intellect which may be admitted into every dious, and become a rallying point for all its members, promoting social belies lettres reading and conversation. The variety thus collected from the whole mass of published works, mostly new embraces Biography, Novels, Voyages of Travels, Sketches, Tales, and Select Hatory, personal memoirs of extraordinary individuals, and curious ad-Landon duodecime volumes is thus annually equal to one of the London works. The plan thus embraces the whole range of popular lit-erature, and the work has now become so universally diffused in every part of the Union as to form no inconsiderable portion of the literature of the country, and with which an acquaintance has become feally necessary for those who mix in society,

T was one of the great objects of "Wal. die's Literary," "to make good reading cneaper, and to bring literature to every man's door." That object has been accomplished; we have given to books wings, and they have flown to the uttermost parts of our vast continent, carrying society to the secla ded, occupation to the literary, information to all. We now propose still further to reduce prices, and render the access to a literary banquet more than twofold accessible; we gave and shall continue to give in the quarto library a volume weekly for two cents a day; we now propose to give a volume in the same period for less than four centra week, and to add as a piquant seasoning to the dish a few columns of shorter literary events of the day. We know by experience and calculation that we can go still in the matter of reduction, and we feel that there is still verge enough for us to aim at offering to an increasing literary appetite that mental food which it craves.

The Select Circulating Library, now as ever so great a favourite, will continue to make its weekly visits, and to be issued in a form for binding and preservation, and its price and form will remain the same But we shall, in the first week of January 1837, issue a huge sheet of the size of the largest newspayers of America, but on very superior paper, also filled with books of the newest and most entertaining, though in their several departments of Novels, Tales, Voyage, Travels, &c., select in their character, join-ed with reading such as usually should fill a weekly newspaper. By this method we hope to accomplish a great good; to enliven and enlighten the family circle, and to give to it, at an expense which shall be no consideraform would alarm the pockets of the prudent, and to do it in a manner that the most sceptical shall acknowledge "the power of con centration can no farther go."
