DEATH OF COL. GRAYSON.
The New York Star contains a particular account of the circumstances attending the death of Colonel F. W. Grayson, who, it will be recollected, put an end to his existence some time since, at Bean's Station, in Kentucky. It is from the pen of Col. Todd, its associate commissioner.
"Mr. Grayson arrived at Bean's Station on the 8th of July from Knoxville, appeared very restless and impatient. Came down to dinner, but ate nothing; requested a cup of tea to be sent to his room. In the evening he came down and appeared composed. He retired to rest at the usual hour. The next morning the boy went into his room with a towel and water to wash with. He directed the servant to clean his boots, which was done, and when the boy took them up, he told him he had no further use for him, the boy immediately left the room, and in eight or ten minutes afterwards the report of a pistol was heard, though it was thought by the inmates of the house below to have been a gun fired off out of doors. The hour or so that followed, the girl carried it to his room. She found him dead. A phial of laudanum about half full was found on the table. It is supposed that he drank too much of it, which, with the excitement, &c. led to 'accomplish his object.' The boy told her he found him lying on the top of the bed, and looked out of his eyes as if he were very sleepy. There were two beds in the room, and it is thought that he was sitting on the one which he occupied, with his body inclined towards where he shot himself; the other was directly opposite, and it was found half way under it. No blood was found on the bedding, though a piece of the skull bone was found lying there! The rain was thrown about the room, though very little blood. The pistol must have been placed a little below the right temple, all the upper part of that side of his head was blown entirely off. The following lines were addressed to the landlord, and left on the table in such a position that the eye could discover them immediately on entering the room:
Mr. Mays—I pray you pardon the frightful scene I have made in your house.
You will, ere long, learn that I have not been wholly an unworthy man.
I have to request you to write to Colonel James Love, formerly a resident of Harrodsburg, Ky., who, I think, is there at this time, though intending to remove with his family in the fall, for Texas, informing him what has happened here, and of my wish that he would be good enough to come to this point and take charge of my baggage, examine and do with it what he will see is proper. In the meanwhile, I hope the best of me will be taken of it.
You will find money in my pocket book to defray all my necessary expenses.
I beseech you again to pardon the trouble given you.
Signed, P. W. GRAYSON, of Texas.
The following is a copy that he left for his friends:
To my friends—I go to my grave for the relief the world can never afford me.
The friend that pursued me for a long time previous to 1830, and then let me rest, (twice when I went to Texas,) has started on me again with redoubled fury. To save myself from the horrors of a mad house, I go into my grave. Farewell! To you and the few friends of my particular affections, I yield the last pulsations of my heart. P. W. G.
I have no doubt that the following lines I last he ever wrote. They were written with a pencil on about a page and a half blank paper contained in his will, folded up with the above letter and some other papers, and endorsed "important papers, &c." I copied them myself from the will, although the letter was dated "Galveston Island, 10th June, 1833," yet as a pencil was found lying on the table, and it appeared as if it had lately been employed, I am pretty certain they are the last lines he ever wrote, and contain the last troubled ideas of the closing scene. I give them to you "verbatim," understood, &c. as he left them.
"It is necessary to my poor shattered frame for me now to confess, that at least ten years of my life I have been a partially deranged man.
I have always kept this a profound secret, from an indescribable horror I have ever felt the idea of divulging it. A useful skepticism was at the bottom of all. The period my suffering in this way was from 1829 to 1830. In this mood, so disqualifying and adverse to mental exertion of any kind, I literally wrote a sort of Essay upon the Influence of Law, &c. Went to the printer, and published it off hand, without examining

A NEW AND CHEAP PERIODICAL.
Attention is requested from our readers to the following prospectus of a new, and even a cheaper book periodical, which will be issued from this office in the first week of next January. It will not be so convenient a form for binding as the present, with which it will in no way interfere, but it will make books cheap beyond all precedent. It will contain the works of the day, which are sought after, but are comparatively dear, and which cannot penetrate the interior in any moderate sale as by mail, in which volumes of books are prohibited. A fifty cent American reprint will be furnished entire for four to six cents; a Marryat novel for twelve cents, and others in proportion.
As but very few copies will be printed but what are actually subscribed for, those who wish the Omnibus, must make their remittances at once.
Books at Newspaper Postage.
WALDIE'S LITERARY OMNIBUS.
NOVEL AND IMPORTANT LITERARY ENTERPRISE!!
NOVELS, TALES, BIOGRAPHY, VOYAGES, TRAVELS, REVIEWS, AND THE NEWS OF THE DAY.
It was one of the great objects of "Waldie's Literary," to make good reading cheaper, and to bring literature to every man's door. That object has been accomplished; we have given to books wings, and they have flown to the uttermost parts of our vast continent, carrying society to the secluded, occupation to the literary, information to all. We now propose still further to reduce prices, and render the access to a literary banquet more than twofold accessible; we gave and shall continue to give in the quarto library a volume weekly for two cents a day; we now propose to give a volume in the same period for less than four cents a week, and to add as a piquant reasoning to the dish a few columns of shorter literary matters, and a summary of the news and events of the day. We know by experience and calculation that we can go still farther in the matter of reduction, and we feel that there is still verge enough for us to aim at offering to an increasing literary appetite that mental food which it craves.
The Select Circulating Library, now as ever so great a facility, will continue to make its weekly visits, and to be issued in a form for binding and preservation, and its price and form will remain the same. But we shall, in the first week of January 1837, issue a huge sheet of the size of the largest newspapers of America, but on very superior paper, also filled with books of the newest and most entertaining, though in their several departments of Novels, Tales, Voyages, Travels, &c., select in their character, joined with reading such as usually should fill a weekly newspaper. By this method we hope to accomplish a great good; to enlighten and enliven the family circle, and to give to it, at an expense which shall be no consideration to any, a mass of reading that in book form would alarm the pockets of the prudent, and to do it in a manner that the most sceptical shall acknowledge "the power of concentration can no farther go." No book which appears in Waldie's Quarto Library will be an entirely distinct periodical.
TERMS
Waldie's Literary Omnibus will be issued every Friday morning, printed on paper of a quality superior to any other weekly sheet, and of the largest size. It will contain:
1st. Books, the newest and the best that can be procured, equal every week to a London duodecimo volume, embracing Novels, Travels, Memoirs, &c., and only chargeable with newspaper postage.
2d. Literary Reviews, Tales, Sketches, notices of books, and information from "the world of letters," of every description.
3d. The news of the week concentrated to a small compass, but in a sufficient amount to embrace a knowledge of the principal events, political and miscellaneous, of Europe and America.
The price will be two dollars to clubs of five subscribers where the paper is forwarded to one address. To clubs of two individuals, five dollars; single mail subscribers, three dollars. The discount on uncurrent money will be charged to the remitter; the low price and superior paper absolutely prohibit paying a discount.
On no condition will a copy ever be sent until the payment is received in advance.
As the arrangements for the prosecution of this great literary undertaking are all made, and the proprietor has redeemed all his pledges to a generous public for many years, no fear of the non-fulfillment of the contract can be felt. The Omnibus will be regularly issued, and will contain in a year reading matter equal in amount to two volumes of Rees's Cyclopedic, for the small sum mentioned above.
