Contrary to our expectations, our Republican friends of Maryland have at length achieved one of the most glorious VICTORIES over the Hy-dra-headed "wig" faction, that it has ever been lent submission to the tyrannor's rule of "whigery" which had at length approximated so closely to despotism that the only difference discernable was in the name-and until their sufferings had become intolerable—the PEO-PLE, aye, the PEOPLE have at last thrown off the shackles with which they have so long been sound, and have most ocoriously Triumpher!

MR. STEVENSON AND MR. O'CONNELL. Our readers undoubtedly remember the two letters of General Hamilton. One to the editor of the Richmond Enquier, and the other to the editor of the New York Gazette, relative to his attempt to draw from Mr. O'Connell some exdanation relative to language which that orato had used concerning Mr. Stevenson, the Minister of the United States at the Court of St. pair pleasure to record. After years of almost si-James. Having published the two letters and now give Mr. O'Connell's letter to the editor of the London Chronicle Mr. C. it will be seen that of a share dealer. To the Editor of the Morning Chronicle:

Sir-After my departure from London you published at the lastance of Mr. Stevenson the American Ambassador, a species of almost oneportant matters from sooner making a few ob servations upon that publication; and now, as you gave it circulation, I think I may rely upon your courtesy to insert my remarks.

In the first place there had appeared in the Examiner a report of a speech of mine at the great Birmingham meeting on the first of Au gust, which contained the following paragraph:

"I believe their very Ambassador here is a slave breeder; one of those beings who rear up slaves for the purpose of traffic. Is it possible that America would send here, a man who traffics in blood, and who is a disgrace to humas nature? I ho . the assertion is untrue, but it is right to speak out."

In the next place, Mr. Stevenson, on the 9th of August, wrote to me a letter, containing part of the above paragraph; that is, he omitted the deceased, it is ordered that she give the newords which I have put in italies, and which tice required by law for creditors to exhibit manifestly show that the report could not be more accurate, as these words made it involve a that the same be published once in each week. direct contradiction. And thus, having ascertained that the report could not be correct, he, with the gravity of a diplomatist, put to me the that the report was not corn ct.

Of course I answered his question according-Of course I answered in squastion accordingly, namely that the report was not correct; but I referred expressly in reply to another report tate of William Pumphrey, late of Anne-of the speech in my possession, imagining that he would, upon such reference, call for the ac- ving claims against the said deceased, are really did say, abiding by it only as far as it was fit of the said estate. Given under my hand true, and abandoning it in any particular in which it might appear that I was mistaken.

MARY PUMPHREY, Adm's.

But as I made Mr. Stevenson no apology, he determined on making one to himself, and accordingly he wrote a second letter, and in it oresumed that I had made a disarowal of offensive expressions. Now, this was either fancy or di-plomacy, I care not which, but it was as gratuitous a presumption upon his part, as the reality would have been unnecessary upon

However, as my speech did contain an important passage respecting the horrid traffic, which it is asserted (I hope most untruly) Mr. Steven-son participates in. I will state the paragraph as it was accurately reported in the Emaccipation newspaper. I do this the rather to afford Mr. Stevenson, who seems so anxious about offensive words, an opportunity of disavowing, if he pleases, a thing most offensive in the sight of man and in the presence of God."

The real parrgraph is this: elt is asserted that their very Ambassado here is a slave breeder; one of those beings who no small comfort that by such abolition they enhanced the price of the slaves then in American ca, by stopping the competition in the home market of the supply of newly imported slaves. Why, otherwise, was not the home trade stopped as well as the foreign? The reply is ob-ble, a most hideous most criminal and most rebreeding negroes exclusive mentioned to me of a human ceding farm in Who can depict the moare," says a modern writer, etreated with as much contemptuous indiffe-rence as those of the cows and ewes whose calves and lames are sent to the English mar-et."

That it is which stains the character of the American slaveholder, and leaves the breeder of slaves the most detestable of human beings; especially when that-slaveholder is a Republic an, boasting of freedom, shouting out for liber. ty, and declaring, as the charter of his liberal institutions, these are self evident truths, "that all men are created equal-that they are endored by their Creator with certain inalienable rightsthat amongst these rights are LIFE, LIBERTY, and the pursuit of Happiness."

My sole object in my speech at Birmingham and my present object is, to rouse the attention of England and of Europe to all that is cruel, riminal, and in every sense of the word, infamous, in the system of negro slavery in North America. My deliberate conviction is, that until that system is abolished, no American slaveholder ought to be received on a footing of e-quality by any of the civilized inhabitants of Europe. I have the honour to be, Sir, your obedient servant,
