NORTHEASTERN BOUNDARY. We have been permitted to publish the fol-lowing note from Major General Sir John Ham ver to Governor FAIRFIELD, in which the rea diness of the former to give effect to the infor mai agreement entered into between Mr. Pox and Mr. Forstth is distinctly avowed, and in a commendable spirit:

"GOVERNMENT HOUSE. "FREDERICETON, N. B. March 7, 1839. "Major General Sir John Harvey present his compliments to Governor Fairfield, and with reference to a communication which he has just received from her Majesty's Minister at Wash. ington, transmitting a 'memorandum' under the joint signatures of Mr. Forsyth, Secretary of State, and Mr. Fox, containing terms of ac-commodation, recommended by the Secretary of State and her Majesty's Minister Plenipotentiary, to Governor Pairfield and himself respectively, hegs to say, that he will be happy to enter into such amicable communication lovernor Fairfield upon the subject as may conduce to the attainment of the very desirable and important object thereby proposed to be effected.

Sir John Harvey has answered Mr. Fox's ommunication by expressing his entire readi ness to give effect to the proposed agreeme so fur as may be dependent upon him. "His Excellency Gov. FAIRFIELD." &c.

The Globe adds -- No decision upon the ect of this note by the authorities of the State of Maine had been made when the last advices of the Government left Augusta. We enter tain the most confident hope, however, that the amicable dispositions of Sir John Harvey will reciprocated by them, and that whatever difficulties may arise in the arrange-ment of the details for the exercise of a neces mry police over the disputed territory, they wil ance, and a desire to maintain the peaceful relations of the two countries."

LATEST.

The latest intelligence from Augusta is in letter of the 13th inst. to the editor of the Bos ton Atlas, the contents of which are in sub-

"This district presents the incalculable advantage of enabling an army moving in it to nct upon a single line against an enemy com-pelled to move upon two; and in addition, threatens points, not of minor, but of vital importance. The British government have strained every nerve to prove a right to its possession, and now that the question is decided, so far as the difference is of any value, in our favour, acquiesce with a bad grace in the decision of the impire. Its value is by them far better appreciated than by us, who seem to look upon the matter as if it merely touched the property of a certain number of square miles, of a territory by no means fertile, and did not include a nilitary position capable of securing the tranquility of ten times its own extent. The ralus of a military road from New Brunswick to Quebec has been insisted upon, in the arguments of the British agents; but they have ver whispered the actual truth, that they dread. ed its possession by us far more than they feared, that should a war again occur, the very find hos ile step would be the seizure of this debate able ground, which, resting upon the two strong holds of the British government, would never again return into our possession. It ought, therefore, to be at once occupied in such a manner, that its total loss need not be feared. For this purpose, a fortress capable of sustaining a siege until it could be relieved, should be erected upon the upper valley of the St. Johns, and connected with the settled country by a military road, and a chain of fortified posts.'
