lken goods.

Resolved, I hat a National Silk Joen ought to be established under the auspinothe Executive Committee, and all the fir over and above the support of said participated to be devoted to the advancement ought to be devoted to the advancement the silk cause in the United States.

Under the latter resolution, J. S. Skivar postmaster, of Baltimore, was invited to be come the editor of the work, and has trained to be come the editor of the work, and has trained to be seen to be sented to do so—so far as may be consister with the strict performance of his public ties.

In the course of the discussions which to place in the Convention, all the difficultie which have been encountered, and who may yet be apprehended, in the presents of the silk culture, as a great branch of A merican industry, were fully considered; as the result was an universal conviction that now, in the words of the resolution, & may be grown in the United States, notes ly for domestic purposes, but as a valuable article of commercial export. The size bleness of our soil and climate to the grant and health of the worm, and the trees was supply its food; the capabilities, the habit and the genius of our people for conducting the business through its whole process, and the price of American labour as companthat of silk-producing countries, a became satisfied. The fact is, that our u restrained freedom in the entertainment and discussion of various and discordant doc trines, religious and political, has imparted to us, as to our English ancestry, an omni verous appetite for knowledge, and a capaci ty to learn in a few years what cannot bear quired in ages, where all is dull conformit and routine of thought and of action! The and routine of thought and of action! The has it happened in manufactures as in ohe things; American ingenuity, unrestrained by prejudice or law, has trium; hed over difficulties apparently insurmountable! How log. may it be asked, after our first cotton spin-dle was put in motion before Yankee Lov-

and enjoy, in our own any, the boon with indolence and want of concert may process-tinate, but which nothing short of Turkish apathy can finally defeat.

Let all then who may feel any concerns cultivators, manufacturers, or venders of sith, or as patriots willing to offer suitable occupation and bread to the unemployed and the helpless, come forward in support of a work to be faithfully and honestly devoted to these objects of private happiness, and of national dle was put in motion before Yankee Low-ells' were sold at a profit in China? So will be with silk. The only question is as to how long it shall take us? With a monthly journal to concentrate and diffuse every ray of floating light on the subject, it was the opinion of the Convention that we may relied nion of the Convention that we may realize and enjoy, in our own day, the boon which nuependence,

'hough Silk, and every thing connected
'hough Silk, and all improvements is with its production; and all improvements is machinery for its preparation and manufac-ture, will constitute the chief design and aim of the journal, for the sake of agreeable and useful variety, a considerable portion of its pages will be dedicated to the justly popular and kindred subjects of agriculture, horticulture, and rural and domestic economy— Hence, the adjunctive title Rural Econo-

The Journal of the American Silk Society will be published monthly, in pamphlet form, each number will contain thirty-two pages, printed on new type and handsome paper, with a printed coloured cover.

All persons friendly to the objects of the Journal will please collect at once and transmit the names and subscription money of d those who may feel disposed to patronize it.

TERMS.
Two Dollars a year, or six copies for TenDollars, always to be paid before the work issent. All subscriptions to begin with the first number of the year, and in no case will the work be sent to any subscriber longer than it shall have been paid for.

All Editors of papers who may desire to see Silk added to the list of American Staples; and who will have the kindness to insert this prospectus, will be entitled to a co-

PRINTING Neatly executed at this OFFIGE.

ONSESSET TRALLE A T the friendly solicitations of a number of the Voters of Anne-Arundel County, the subscriber is induced to offer his ser-vices as a Candidate for SHERIFF of said County, and will endeavour so to discharge the daties, if honoured with their confidence, as to give satisfaction.

JOHN S. SELBY.

The Starpland Chatette.

ANNAPOLIS, THURSDAY, JUNE 6, 1829.

VOL. XCIV. Printed and Published by

JONAS GREEN, At the Brick Building on the Public Circle.

Price-Three Dollars per annum. HIGHLY IMPORTANT.

If I Nervous diseases, liver complaint, dyspepsia, iord sissues, piles, consumption, coughs, colds, silord sissues, piles, consumption, coughs, colds, pain in the cheat and side, ulcers, fenting of blood, pain in the cheat and side, ulcers, fenting of blood, pain in the cheat, and all cases of hy withers, mercurial diseases, and all cases of hy withers, mercurial diseases, and all cases of hy with the cheat, the cheat is a simple constant of the cheat in the cheat is a simple constant. chodracism, low spirits, pervons weakness, fluor albus, semina-rous ritability, nervous weakness, fluor albus, semina-real seminary of the seminary schea, hiccup, sea sickness, night mare, rheumatism, schea, hiccup, sea sickness, night mare, rheumatism, schea, hiccup, sea sickness, night mare, rheumatism, sahaa, tic douloureur, cramp, spasmodic affections, sah these who are victims to that most excruciating distort, Gest, will find relief from their sufferings by distort, Gest, will find relief from their sufferings by disorder, Gost, with that a course of Dr. Whi. Evans' medicine.

Also, nausea, vemiting, pains in the side, limbs, head, stomach or back, dismoses or confusion of sight, noises in the inside, alternate flushes of heat and chillness, tremors, watchings, agitation, anxiety, bad dreams,

Principal Office, 100 Chatham st. New York.

THE FOLLOWING INTERESTING & ASTONISHING
FACTS, are amongs: the numerous CURES performed by the use of Dr.

Wm. Evans' Medicines.

PRINCIPAL OPFICE, 100 Chatham Street, New York, where the Doctor may be consulted personally, or by letter, (post paid) from any pert of the United States, de. Persons requiring inedicins and advice, must enclose a Bank Note, or Order.

CERTIFICATES.

IT MORE CONCLUSIVE PROOFS of the extraordinary efficacy of Dr. WM. EVANS' celebrated CANOMILE and APERIENT ANTI-BILIOUS PILLS, in alleviating afflicted mankind.—Mr. Robert Cameron, 101 Bowery. Disease, Chronic Dysentery, es Bloody Flux. Symptoms, unusual flatulency in the bwels. severe griping, frequent inclination to go to zool, tenesmus, loss of appetite, nameca, vounting, frequenty fettid matter, mixed with blood, great debility, sense of burning heat, with an intolerable bearing down of the parts. Mr. Cameron is enjoying pertect health, and returned his sincere thanks for the extraordinary lensfit he had received.

STANDING.—Mr. Robert Monroc, Schuylkill, afficted with the above distressing malady. Symptoms: Great languor, flatulency, disturbed rest, nervous head-sche, difficulty of breathing, tightness und stricture across the breast, dizincess, nervous irritability and rest-lessness, could not lie in a horizontal position without the sensation of impending suffocation, palpitation of the heart, distressing cough, costiveness, pain of the romach, drowsiness, great debility and deficiency of the nervous energy. Mr. R. Monroe gave up every thought of recovery, and dire despair sai on the countenance of every person interested in his existence or happiness, till by accident he noticed in a public paper some cures effected by Dr. Wm. Erans' Medicine in his complaint, which induced him to purchase a package of the Pills, which resulted in completely removing rerr symptom of his disease. He wishes to say his motive for this declaration is, that those afflicted with the same or any symptoms similar to those from which le is happily restore?, may likewise receive the same inestimable benefit.

TEARS' STANDING -Mrs. Hannak P. TEARS' STANDING.—Mrs. Hannah Browne, wife of Joseph Browne, North Sixth $4. near Second street, Williamsburg, afflicted for the last ten ye. 73 with L. 77 Complaint, restored to health through the treatment of Dr. Wss. Evans. Symptoms: Habitual constipation of the bowels, total loss of appetite, exerteiating pain of the epigastric region, great depression of spirits, lar for and other symptoms of extreme debility, disturbed sleep, inordinate flow of the meases, pain in the right ride, could not lie on her left side without an aggravation of the pain, urine high coloured, with other symptons indicating great derangement of the functions of the liver.

the liver.

Mrs. Browne was attended by three of the first physicians, but received but little relief from their medicine, till Mr. Browne procured some of Dr. Wm. Evans' invaluable preparations, which effectually relievant invaluable preparations, which effectually relievants in the processing symptoms, with others, which it is not essential to intimate.

JUSEPH BROWNE. JOSEPH BROWNE.

City and County of New York, ss.

Joseph Browne, Williamsburgh Long Island, being Joseph Browne, Williamsburgh Long Island, being Joseph Word, did depose and say that the facts as set forth in the within statement, to which he has subject and time and time and time.

forth in the within statement, to which the scribed his name, are just and true.

JOSEPH BROWNE,

Husband of the said Hannah Browne.

Sworn before me, this 4th day of January, 1837.

PETER PINCKNEY, Com. of Deeds.

A CASE OF TIC DOLOREUX.

A CASE OF TIC DOLOREUX.

Mrs. J. E. Johnson, wife of Capt. Joseph Johnson, of Lynn, Mass. was severely afflicted for ten years with Tic Doloreux, violent pain in her head, and vonsiting, with a burning heat in the stomach, and unable to leave her room. She could find no relief from the advice of her room by south and the model of 100 Chntham street, and from that time she began to amend, and feels satisfied if she continue the medicine a few days longer, will be perfectly cured. Reference can be had as to the truth of the above, by calling at Mrs. Johnson's daughter's Store, 3.53 Grand st. N. Y.

PARALYTIC RHEUMATISM .-A perfect cure effected by the treatment of Dr. W. E. reas. Mr. John Gibson, of North Fourth street, Williamsburgh, afflicted with the above complaint for three years and nine months; during which time he had to use crutches. His chief symptoms were excruciating pain in all his joints, but especially in the hip, shoulder, knees and ankles; an aggravation of the pain towards night; and for the most part all times from the external heat, an obvious thickening of the fascia and ligaments, with a complete loss of muscular power—life of those afflicted in a similar manner, Mr Gibson conceives it meet to say that the pairs have entirely ceased, and that his joints have completely received their natural tone, and he feels able to resume his ordinary business.

By Mrs. Anne F. Kenny, No. 115 Lewis street, between Stanton and Heoston sta., afflicted for ten years with the following distressing symptoms: Acid eructation, faily spasmodic pains in the head, loss of appetite, palpination of her heart, giddiness and dimpose of sight, could not lie on her right side, disturbed vaxt, utter inability of engaging in any thing that demanded vigour or courage, sometimes a visionary idea of ar aggravation of her disease, a whimsical aversion to particular persons and places, groundless apprehensions of personal da. and poverty, an irksomeness and weariness of life, scontented, disquietude on avery slight occasions, she conceived she could neither die nor lire;

she wept, lamented, desponded, and thought she led a most miserable life, never was any one so bad, with frequent mental hallucinations.

uent mental hallucinations.

Mr. Kenny had the advice of soveral eminent physical mental medicines, but Mr. Kenny had the advice of several eminent physicians, and had recourse to numerous medicines, but could not obtain even temporary alleviation of her distressing state, till her husband persuaded het to make trial of my mode of treatment.

She is now quite relieved, and finds herself not only espable of attending to her domestic affairs, but avows that she enjoys as good health at present as she did at any period of her existence.

J. Kenny, husband of the sforesaid Anne Kenny.
Sworn before me, this 14th day of December, 1836.

Peter Pinckney, Com. of Deeds.

by Dr. Wm. Evans, of 100 Chatham st. N. Y.—Mr. W. W. of 160 Eldridge street, was labouring under a disease, which was by many physicians considered incurable, and could find no relief from any source whatever, until he made application to Dr. Evans, and placed himself under his successful course of treatment, from which he began to find immediate relief, and in a few weeks was perfectly cured.

The Allecter from Mr. Sheldon P. Gilbert, to Dr. Wm. Evans, proprietor of the celebrated Cammile Pills:

Dear Sir—Had the immortal Cowper known the medical qualities of the Cammile Pilnt, he as well as thousands since (besides myself) would have experienced its wonderful effects on the nervous system. The public utility of Cowper was blighted in the bud, through the natural effect of his nervous debility upon the mental powers, which made it necessary for him to seek relationships. the natural effect of his nervous debility upon the men-tal powers, which made it necessary for him to seek re-lief beneath the rural shade, but the calm retreat gave his physical nature no repose. If some one then had known the secret of concentrating the medical virtues of Camomile, the discoverer would have been immor-talized with poetic zeal as the benefactor of suffering man.

The above lines were prompted from the effect have experienced from Dr. Wm. Evans Camomile Pills
Yours, with esteem, Shelden P. Gilbert. Shelden P. Gilbert.

Durham, Green Co., N Y.

Dr. Wm. Evans' Medicines.—DYSPEPSIA, TEN YEARS' STANDING.—Mr. J. McKenzie, 116 Stanton street, was afflicted with the above complaint for 10 years, which incapacitated him at intervals, for the period of six years, in attending to his business, restored to perfect health under the salutary treatment of Dr.

cine.

On Extraordinary and Remarkable Cure.—Mrs. Mery Dillon. Williamsburgh. corner of Fourth and North streets, completely restored to health by the treatment of Dr. W. Evans, 100 Chatham st. The symptoms of this distressing case were as follows: Total loss of appetite, palpitation of the heart, twitching of the tet dons, with a general spasmodic affection of the muscles, difficulty of breathing, giddiness, langour, lassitude, great depression of spirits, with a fear of some impencing evil, a sensation of fluttering at the prior the six mach, irregular transient pains in different parts, gr., temaciation, with other symstoms of extreme debility.

The above case was pronounced hopeless by three of the most eminent physicians, and the dissolution of the patient daily awaited by her friends, which may be authenticated by the physicians who were in attendance. She has given her cheerful permission to publish the above facts, and will also gladly give any information respecting the benefit sile has received, to any inquiring mind.

T DYSPEPSIA AND HYPOCHON DRIACISM.—Interesting Case.—Mr. William Salmon, Green street, above Third, Philadelphia, afflicted for several years with the following distressing symptoms. Sickness at the stomach, headach, dizziness, mon, Green street, above Third, Frankerpina, for several years with the following distressing symptoms. Sickness at the stomach, headacine, dizziness, palpitation of the heart, impaired appetite, sometimes acid and putrescent eructations, coidness and weakness of the extremities, emaciation and general debility, disturted rert, a sense of pressure and weight at the stomach after eating, nightmare, great mental despondency, severe flying pains in the chest, back and sides, continuents, a dislike for society, or conversation, involuntary sighing and weeping, languor and lassitude upon the least exercise.

Mr. Salmon had applied to the most eminent physical street him to health; however as his affliction had recued him to a very deplorable cendition, and having the considered it beyond the power of medicine to restore him to health; however as his affliction had recued him to a very deplorable cendition, and having the considered in the series of his to make trial of been recommended by a relative of his to make trial of been recommended by a relative of his to make trial of been recommended by a relative of his to make trial of been recommended by a relative of his to make trial of been recommended by a relative of his to make trial of been recommended by a relative of his to make trial of been recommended by a relative of his neath and he is indebted for his restoration to life, health and he is indebted for his restoration to life, health and he is indebted for his restoration to life, health and he is indebted for his restoration to life, health and he is indebted for his restoration to life, health and he is indebted for his restoration to life, health and he is indebted for his restoration to life, health and he is indebted for his restoration to life, health and he is indebted for his restoration to life, health and he is indebted for his restoration to life, health and he is indebted for his restoration to life, health and he is indebted for his restoration to life, health and he is indebted for his restor

Chatham street.—M: Daniel Spanning, of Shrewsburg, Eden Town, New Jersey, was severely afflicted with Piles for more than 20 years II ad had recourse to medicines of almost every description, also the advice of several eminent physicians, but never found the slightest resiff from any source whatsoever, until he called on Dr. Evans, of 100 Chatham street, N. Y. and procured some medicine from him, from which he found immediate relief, and subsequently a perfect cure.

CUTE RMEUMATISM, with an affection of the Lungs—cured under the treatment of Dr. Wm. Evans, 100 Chatham street, New York. Mr. Benjamin S. Jarvis, 13 Centre street, Newark, N. J. afflicted for four vis, 13 Centre street. 100 Chatham sirect. Newark, N. J. afflicted for lour vis. 13 Centre street, Newark, N. J. afflicted for lour years with severe pains in all his joints, which were always increased on the slightest motion; the tongue always increased a steady whiteness; loss of appetite, dizziness preserved a steady whiteness; loss of appetite, dizziness in his head, the lowest commonly very costive, the unine high coloured, and often profuse sweating, unattended by relief. The above symptoms were also statement.

City of New York, ss.

Besjamin S. Jarvis being duly sworn, doth depose
Besjamin S. Jarvis being duly sworn, doth depose

Besjamin S. Jarvis being dany sworn, and say, that the facts stated in the above certificate subscribed by him, are in all respects true.

BENJ. S. JARVIS.

Sworn before me, this 25th of November. 1835.

WM. SAUL, Notary Public, 96 Nassan st.

The above medicine for sale by

J. HUGHES,

Druggist, Annapolis. G. W. WILSON, Also, by Upper Murlbro'.

January 17.

POETRY.

THE LOVE OF GOD. The love of God expells all fear, Calms the sad breast, and dries the taar, Drives every doubt and fear away, And brings the mind to perfect day. Yet from this love we often stray, In paths of sin we lose our way; With aching heart we blindly roam, Till love and mercy bring us home. Our blest Redeemer, ever near, Warns us in accents mild and dear, To seek that wisdom from above That guides to paths of peace and love But we are prone to wander far, Neglect and leave our guiding star, Which leads us ever on the road, To seek and find the love of God. That when we gain this glorious prize, It teaches us from earth to rise, And seek our home in heaven above, Where dwells the boundlers God of love

MISCELLANEOUS.

From the Attakapas Aarocate. FEROCITY OF ANIMALS.

A friend of ours, lately returned from a tour of that section of country, in the vicinity of Grand River, informs us that the number of panthers in that neighborhood at this time, is beyond precedent.

riod of six years, in attending to his business, restored to perfect health under the salutary treatment of Dr.

Mr. Evans.

The symptoms were—A sense of distension and oppression after eating, distressing pain in the pit of the stomach, nausea, impaired appetite, giddiness, palpitation of the heart, great debility and emaciation, depression of spirits, disturbed rest, sometimes a bilious voniting, and pain in the right side, an extreme degree of langour and fai...tness; any endearcur to pursue his business cusing in mediate exhaustion and weariness.

Mr. McKenzie is daily attending his business, and none of the above symptoms have recurred since he used the medicine. He is now a strong and healthy man. He reserted to myriads of remedies, but they were all ineffectual. He is willing to give any information to the afficient respecting the inestimable benefit rendered to him by the use of Dr. Wm. Evans' medicine. He gave us accounts of three different attacks ing his teeth and claws into the back part of his at one blow killed the animal, by breaking his

The second instance was of a more ludicrous nature. It seems that a yankee scion had trans-planted himself temporarily in that vicinity, and being of the usual enterprising disposition, did not rest long before he concluded to lay the forest under contribution for deer meat. dingly, he sallied forth one day, on his shoulder the ducking gun, with which he had often perambuiated the shores of Massachusetts Bay, and favored by fortune, soon laid prostrate an enormous buck, so large, that one half of the animal was all that he could possibly bear home at a time. He made a second trip to bring in the rest, which he found, but in doing this, was unfortunate enough to lese himself. Night coming on, he chose for a resting place a spot in the centre of an old piece of dry cane, where he kindled a fire, and carefully disposed of his deer meat. Under these circumstances, Jonathan sat crouching before the flames, his gun reclining against a fallen cypress of large dimensions close by, and his mind intent on considering as to the applicability of the timber out of which wooden ware is turned, to the conhausted, when he was disturbed by an almost simultaneous crackling of a number of cane stalks close by. "I should'nt wonder," said the exotic, laying off his large straw hat to listen. elf that wan't somebody on a rail road survey; beech boilers would do pre-eminent for locomotives. No heft at all to carry; and not subject in the slightest to rust. Halloo! stranger, you would'nt like to trade?"—A sudd n intrusion of who tried the hollow of the cypress log, and on quitting his asylum after some time, found no restige of his deer, and his straw hat in ribbons. "Well, I do declare, nineteen feet between the extremities and a fraction over. I rather think, as there's no deer meat, that it might be as well for me to take a sapling." Which he according. ly did, and at the last accounts was on his way to New England.

The last occurrence was on the plantation of Mr. Carr, who was sitting in his house one evening, when an unusual noise was heard in the direction of his hog sty. cause, he caught up his gun and went to reconnoitre. On the way to the enclosure he discovered that the gun was unloaded. Nevertheless he continued, and falling in with a large panther, struck it over the nose with so much force, that the stock of his gun separated from tended with considerable difficulty of breathing, with a small continuous system.

The above symptoms were entirely removed, and a perfect cure effected by Dr. Wm. Evens.

BENJ. S. JARVIS.

The above Yerk, as.

BENJ. S. JARVIS.

The barrel, and the beast ran off in the wood. Returning to his house and loading his gun, (which was not materially damaged) he ngain (which was not materially damaged) he ngain commences. I have said that Mr. Lorton's fament out, accompanied by his wife with a tomation of the day at which our story were outled by Dr. Wm. Evens.

BENJ. S. JARVIS. panther had made his retreat behind a bunch of palmetto, which it was necessary to cut down before he could get an opportunity to shoot the nimal. This he cid, and was in the act of resuming his gun, when the beast sprang on him and bit him severely in the head. The panther letting go elsewhere, suddenly made an attempt to fix his teeth in Mr. C.'s throat, which last he frustrated by grasping the animal by the lower jaw with his hand, which was bitten through mmediately. At this crisis the panther was atacked by two new foes, Mrs C. with her tomahawk and a small dog, which had followed them from the house, whereupon he made a second retreat into the bushes, carrying the dog with him; Mr. Carr, having been very dangerously wounded, returned home and sent for a neighbor named Mr. Ives, whose powers in such encoun ters was noted, and who, dressing himself in very strong clothing as some protection, heavily armed, and accompanied by a very savage dog, repaired to the panther, which was easily overed from the cries of the first dog which was with him still. Whilst in the act of searching for the panther, he again surprised his new combatant, and without giving him to fire, sprang on and ove:threw him simultaneously, and had fastened his teeth in the back of Captain Ives' neck, when the dog attacked him, diverted his attention until Captain Ives drew his bowie knife, and plunging it into the heart of the panther, put an end to his exploits.

Our informant states that he saw the hide of this savage beast, which measured near nin feet from nose to the end of the tail.

TRUTH STRANGER THAN FICTION. The family of Mr. Lorton were assembled in the parlour of their mansion in G-Grief was depicted in every counterance-every heart seemed to be too full for utterance, and every eye was turned towards the door, as if expecting some person's entrance. A deep silence had pervaded the assemblage for many minutes, which was at length broken by the eldest daughter, Sarah, who, drawing a deep sigh, said unconsciously, "Must be die?" but she spoke so loud that the rest overheard her, and the father turning towards her, with a look of meek resignation, replied, "God's will be done. I have expended my last available cent to have a consultation of physicians, and their fiat has gone forth-He cannot be spared to us-Edwards must die."

Mr. Lorton was a gentleman in moderate cirumstances, with a numerous but affectionate family to support. Upon Edward, who had at evinced a strong thirst after know. an early age evinced a strong thirst after know-ledge, Mr. L. had expended every attention, and every advantage was offered him that his limited means would allow; and Edward had gladdened his parents' hearts by his rapid progress in evety branch he undertook. At the age of eighteen, he graduated at — College, where he bore off the first honour, and soon after he entered as private tutor in the family of Mr. Willis, in Waverley Place. He had charge of Mr. W.'s boye, two youths of eight and eleven years of age, and this situation he had held for many months, when taken down by the sickness which now confined him, and which it was feared was to end his brilliant career. Edward sent to Mr. W. an apology for his non attendance, and promised, as he hoped, to resume his duties in a few days. The few days passed, and as he did not come, Mr. W. who was of a feeling heart, called to see him, and was shocked to perceive the alteration which those few days had caused. He was pale and wan, his features were haggard, and a handkerchief, which lay beside him on the bed, spotted with blood, shewed too truly Edward's unhappy situation—he was evidently in a decline. When Mr. W. carried this me. that it grew to sufficient size, and in the proba-ble event of the Russian Iron mines being ex-of it deploted his untimely fate, for all deemed his recovery impossible. ever, who said nothing; but her cheek paled, and her frame trembled with emotion, as sin heard her father speak. Emma his only, his beloved daughter, felt it to her heart's core; she had seen the young victim doomed to such an untimely end; unconsciously she had given, unsought, her heart to his sterling, modest worth, and it was not until the idea of his death crossa ferocious looking beast cut short the Yankee, ed her, that she knew the depth of her affection for him. Edward too, coming, as he did into frequent contact with Emma, could not long remain insensible to her charms, and her noble nind; and although by looks, actions or words, he had never given the least reason to Emma to believe he loved her, there was a feeling within her that told her all he felt. On the occasion just mentioned, when each member of the family had expressed their regret at the melancholy tidings, she timidly approached her father, and putting her fair arms round his neck, asked in a voice trembling with emotion, if she might see Edward once before he died-he was so kind, se good. Mr. W. alone divined the feelings that prompted this request, and estimating as he did Edward's worth, he felt proud that his daughter, with wealth, rank and station at her command, had chosen true merit as the price of her affections, tars, the greatest that man can sustain, and in

son. Mr. W. and his daughter, and Edward's old pupils, were coming to take their last look of one who had won all their hearts. A rap at the door aroused them from the silence into which all had fallen, and Mr. L. and his children were ushered in. After a few brief words, they were shown to Edward's chamber. He lay upon the bed, a skeleton of his former self, worn to the hone, and apparently beyond the reach of skill. The family, as well as Mr. L.'s, stood around, gazing upon him with mois-tened eyes. Emma silently approached the sufferer's couch, and gazing one moment at the ghastly countenance of him she loved, love or vercame all her feelings, and, rushing forward, she seized his bony hand, and exclaimed in accents that went to his very heart,—Edward, dear Edward, live for your own Emma." Tho sufferer opened his eyes at the well-beloved voice, and indistinctly uttering, "Dear-dearest Emms," closed them again in a swcon. Seeing the effects of this rashness, Sarah hurried her from the room, and taking her to her own chamber, these two affectionate hearts unberthened their own sorrows. When they had got a little calmed, Emma said, "The Doctors say he cannot live!"

"They do," added Sarah. Would you fear to try a simple, harmless nedicine which I have brought with me, and the virtues of which I know?"

"No-no-for Heaven's sake give it me quick -while there is life there is hope."

"Give it, then, according to the directions," said Emma, placing a box in her hands, and with an affectionate embrace they parted.

Days and weeks rolled on, but Edward was not dead. The physician who had attended him gave out promise of hopes, and took to himself the credit of the recovery. He little knew that all his medicines were thrown away as soon as received by the attentive Sarah, and that she was secretly, but steadily and surely effecting that cure, which the highest medical skill had pronounced impossible. Time were on, and in three months from the visit of Mr. W.'s family to the death bed of Edward Lorton, he was pursuing his daily avocation in teaching that gentleman's sons. None were more pleased at his recovery than Emma, and Edward who knew her real feelings, and felt his own inferiority, conceived it his duty to avoid her as much as possible. Emma noticed this change, and attributing it to the right cause, she only loved him the more for his magnanimity. One day, as Edward was about leaving the house, Mr. W. called him into the library, and without one word of preface, but flzing his eyes sternly upon him, he said, "Edward Lorton, do you love my daughter Emma?"

Edward blushed, and stammered, but could say nothing; and Mr. W. added, "Have you e. ver told her of your love!"

"Never! By my hopes of happiness, never!" in tones that carried conviction with them.

Mr. W. was satisfied, and taking Edward's hand, he said, "You are worthy of her-take her, and my blessing be upon you."

Six months from that time the marriage was celebrated, and Edward upon the eve of that happy occasion, approached his sister Sarah. who had acted as bridesmaid, and tendering her beautiful watch and chain, begged her acceptance of them, not only as a mark of his love, but of his gratitude for her unremitting attentions during his sickness, and he added that it was to her alone he was indebted for his present happiness.

She laughingly refused them on that score, and said, "I was only the nurse—Emma was the physician. "How?" exclaimed Edward in amazement,

"Why, she prescribed, and I administered

"Tell me, Emma," said he, turning to his blushing bride, "what does she mean?" "Mean?" replied the charming bride,-"Come, and I will tell you," and with that she took him to an escrutoire in one corner of the room, and taking a slip of paper, she wrote these words: "You owe your life to Evans' Camomile and Aperient Pills, which I purchased at 100 Chatham street, and which have been secretly administered to you by your sister Sarah. Thank, therefore, the Providence which directed him to make their virtues known, and if any thing is due to me, why pay me hereafter." He clasped her to his heart, and with a silent blessing upon the preserver of his life, they returned to the expectant company.

BROUGHAM'S PORTRAIT OF FRANK. LIN.

The following admirable sketch of the American philosopher, is from a new work by Lord Brougham, recently published in London, entitled-"Statesmen in the time of George III." It has not yet been published in this country.

One of the most remarkable men certainly of our times as a politician, or of any age as a philosopher, was Franklin, who also stands as lone in combining together these two charac-