ERRORARARARA OBITUARY.

Died at her residence in German township, o Sabbath morning, the 12th ult. Mrs. BARBARY FRANKS, in the 99th year of her age.

The deceased was born in Germany, A. D 1741, and came to America in 1775, in company with her father, Conrod Brandebury and family, who were in indigent circumstances. She was stances of that failure before he himself should state the reasons for the resumption of the Gue-ernment by the former Ministers. It represents the first per land, he had reserved for this plice and this occasion the explanation of the creumstances under which he had relinquished ted to Western Pennsylvania, and settled on to other covering save the arch blue sky, adorned in the evening with the twinkling stars, which place, by care and industry afterwards became their asylum. Few women ever crossed the Alleghany mountains with a more firm constitution, for, till the day of her death there never was an emetic entered her lips nor a lan-cet her veins. She was the mother of four sons the first command, went out into the land and married wives and husbands, and became the parents of sixty four children. And as dutiful children will follow the example of their parents, there was added to them 303 children; these in part, following the same order, she livration, making in all, a posterity of 460. She was enrolled a member of the German Preshyterian Church, and continued such upwards of 60 years. She was an affectionate mother—a good neighbor—kind and benevolent to all, till SAM'L. BROWN, Jun'r. ature gradually gave way, and we trust she gently reposes in rest.

ON LOW SPIRITS.

ON LOW SPIRITS.

Low spirits is a certain state of the mind, accessmented by indig stion, wherein the greatest will are apprehended upon the slightest growinds, and the west consequences imagined. Ancient medical writers supposed this disease to be confined to those particular ragions of the abdomen technically called hypochendria, which are situated on the right or left side of that eavily, whence somes the name hypochendriagis.

Symptoms. The common corporeal symptoms are, fistulency in the stomach or bowels, earch eventations, costiveness, spasmodic pains and often an utter inability of fixing the attention upon any subject of importance or ougaging in any thing that demands vigour or courage. Also languidness—the mind becomes irritable, thoughtful, deeponding, melancholy and dejected, accompanied by a total derangement of the nervous system. The insoult foelings and pseuliar train of ideas that haunt the imagination and overwhelm the judgment, exhibit an infanie diversity. The wisest and best of men are as open to this affliction as the weakest.

Causes. A sedentary life of any kind, especially es.

Some physicians have recommended a free use of nercury, but it should not be resorted to; in many ca. es it greatly aggravates the symptoms.

TAKE NOTICE.—Mr. Elias Shafer, of the town of Westerlo, county of Albany, was for above 27 years troubled with a nervous and bilious affection, which for 7 years rendered him unable to attend to business, and during the last three years of his illness was confined to the house. His symptoms were dizziness, pain in the head and side, palpitation of the heart, want of appetite, &c. After expending during his confinement, nearly three hundred dollars, without obtaining any permanent relief, he by accident noticed an advertisement of Baron Von Hutcheler Herb Pills, and was consequently induced to make a trial of them. After using them about a fortnight, he was able to walk out; in four months he could attend to business, and considered his disease entirely removed.
