A CASE OF TIC DOLOREUX.

Mrs. J. E. Johnson, wife of Capt. Joseph Johnson, of Lynn, Mass. was severely afflicted for ten years with Tie Doloreux, violent pain in her head, and vomiting, with a burning heat in the stomach, and unable to leave her room. She could find no relief from the advice of everal physicians, nor from medicines of any kind, unfl after she had commenced using Dr. Evans' medicine, of 100 Chuthaun street, and from that time she began to amend, and feels satisfied if she continue the medicine a few days longer, will be perfectly cured. Reference can be had as to the truth of the above, by calling at Mrs. Johnson's daughter's Store, 389 Grand st. N. Y. A CASE OF TIC DOLOREUX.

PARALYTIC RHEUMATISM. A perfect cure effected by the treatment of Dr. W. E. was. Mr. John Gibson, of North Fourth street, Williamsburgh, afflicted with the above complaint for three years and nine months; during which time he had to use crutches. His chief symptoms were excruciating pain in all his joints, but especially in the hip, shoulder, knees and ankles; an aggravation of the pain teatremal heat, an obvious thickening of the fascia and ligaments, with a complete loss of muscular power.— Yer the henefit of those afflicted in a similar manner, Mr. Gibson conceives it meet to say that the pains have catively ceased, and that his joints have completely recovered their natural tone, and he feels able to resume his ordinary business.

IT Mrs. Anne F. Kenny, No. 113 Lowis street, between Stanton and Houston star, afflicted for ten years with the following distressing symptoms: Acid cructation, daily spasmedic pains in the head, loss of appetite, palpitation of her heart, giddiness and dismess of sight, could not lie on her right side, disturbed vest, utter inability of engaging in any thing that demanded vigout of course, sometimes a visionary idea of an aggravation of her disease, a whimsical aversion to particular persons and places, groundless apprehensions of personal danger and poverty, an irksomeness and weariness of life, discontented, disquistude on every slight occasion, ahe conceived she could neither die not live; she wept, lamented, desponded, and thought she led a most miserable life, never was any one so bad, with frequent mental hallucinations.

Mr. Kenny had the advice of several eminent physicians, and had recourse to numerous medicines, but evuld not obtain even temporary alleviation of her distressing state, till her husband persuaded best to make trial of my mode of treatment.

Bhe is now quite relieved, and finds herself not only capable of attending to her domestic affairs, but avows that she enjoys as good health at present as she did at any period of her existence.

Wm. Evans, proprietor of the centrator.

Pille:

Dear Sir—Had the immortal Cowper known the medical qualities of the Camomile Plant, he as well as thousands since (besides myself.) would have experienced its wonderful effects on the nerrous system. The public utility of Cowper was blighted in the bod, thro the natural effect of his nervous debility upon the meatal powers, which made it necessary for him to seek relief beneath the rural shade, but the calm retreat gave his physical nature no repose. If some one then had known the secret of concentrating the medical virtues of Camomile, the discoverer would have been immortalized with poetic zeal as the benefactor of suffering man.

DYSPEPSIA AND HYPOCHONDRIACISM.—Interesting Case.—Mr. William Salmon, Green street, above Third, Philadelphia, afflicted for several years with the following distressing symptoms. Sickness at the stomach, headache, dizziness, palpitation of the heart, impaired appetite, sometimes acid and putressent cructations, coldness and weakness of the extremities, emaciation and general debility, disturbed rest, a sense of pressure and weight at the stomach after eating, nightmare, great mental despondency, severe flying pains in the chest, back and aides, continues, a dislike for society, or conversation, involuntary sighing and weeping, languor and lassitude upon the least exercise.

Mr. Salmon had applied to the most eminent physicians, who considered it beyond the power of medicine to restore him to health; however as his affliction had reduced him to a very deplorable condition, and having been recommended by a relative of his to make trial of Dr. Wm. Evans' medicine, he with difficulty repaired to the office and procured a package, to which, he says, he is indebted for his restoration to life, health and friends. He is now enjoying all the blessings of health. Persons desirous of further information, will be satisfied in every particular as to this astonishing cure, at Dr. Wm, Evans' Medical Office, 100 Chatham et. N. Y.

CUTE RMEUMATISM, with an affection of the Lungs—cured under the treatment of Dr. Wm. Evans, 100 Chatham street, New York. Mr. Benjamin S. Jarvis, 13 Centre street, Newark, N. J. afflicted for four years with severe pains in all his joints, which were always increased on the elightest motion; the tongue preserved a steady whiteness; loss of appetite, dizzinces in his head, the bowels commonly very costive, the urine high coloured, and often profuse sweating, mattended by relief. The above symptoms were also attended with considerable difficulty of breathing, with a sense of tightness across the chest, likewise a great want of due energy in the nervous system.

POWER OF A SWORD FISH. We yesterday had the pleasure of inspecting piece of wood, cut out of one of the fore planks of a vessel, the Priscilla, from Pernambuco, now in this port, through which was stuck about eighteen inches of the sword fish. How it came there needs not to be explained. The force with which it must have been driven in affords a striking exemplification of the power and ferocity of the fish. The spot in which the vessel was struck was about half way between the commencement of the coppering and Penetrating the copper, the sword had made its way first through the outer plank of Scotch larch, three inches and a half in thickness, then traversing an open space of ten or twelve inches, it had encountered another plank of oak, and about four inches in thickness, which was also pierced, the point of the sword coming clean through to the other side. What renders this feat the more surprising is that the Priscilla is a quito new vessel, this having been her first royage. Capt. Taylor, her commander, states that when near the Azores, as he was walking the quarter deck at night a shock was felt which brought all hands from below under the impression that the ship had touched upon a rock.

This was no doubt the time when the occurrence took place. A great number of whales had been seen playing about the vessel the day before, and it is probable that the sword-fish, which is a deadly enemy to the whale, had mistaken the Priscilla for one of the objects to which it was in chase; in other words, it had thought her every like a whale." On the pas eage home the ressel was observed to leak a great deal, on which account after discharging her cargo, she was hauled into the Graver Dock, and, having yesterday undergone an examination, the discovery was made as to what had happened. The plank had been split as well as pierced, so that, though the sword remained in the aperture it had made, it was not sufficient entirely to keep out the water.

SINGULAR EFFECTS OF DRUNKEN NESS.

Capt. Marryatt gives the following account of a scene which was enacted by himself and a man who appeared to have been a good deal worse for liquor," at the table of a public house in Upper Canada:

"He sat down opposite to me at the same table. It appeared as if his vision was inverted by the quantity of liquor which he had taken; every thing close to him on the table he con-sidered to be out of his reach, whilst every thing at a distance he attempted to lay hold of. He sat up as erect as he could, balancing himself so as not to appear corned, and fixing his eyes upon me, said, "Sir, I'll trouble you for come fried ham."

"Now, the ham was in the next dish to him, and altogether cut of my reach; I told him so. "Sir," said he again, "as a gentleman I ask you to give me some of that fried ham." Amused with the curious demand I rose from my chair, went round to him and helped him. "Shall I fifty to seventy-five loads of the best stable dang, are possible, and I not wishing to rise again. "No, sir," said he, "I can help myself to them." He made a dash at them, but did not reach them; then made another, and another, till he lost his balance, and lay down upon his large many farmers among us who are still nurminutes he again fixed his eyes upon me. "Sir I'll trouble you for the pickles." They werd actually under his nose, and I pointed them out to him. "I believe, sir, I asked you for the pickles," repeated he, after a time. "Well, there they are," realied L wishing to see what he would do., "Sir are you a gentleman-1 nak you as a gentleman for them 'ere pickles." It ble to resist this appeal, so I rose was impossible to resist this appeal, so I rose and helped him. I was now convinced that his vision was somehow or other inverted, and to prove it, when he asked mo for the sult, which was within his reach, I removed it further off. "Thank ye, Sir," said he sprawling over the ta-ble after. The circumstance, absurd as it was, was really a subject for the inefistigation of Dr.

KELP.

This submarine vegetable, the Fucus Giganteus of Solander, is found in vast abundance on the rocky coast of Patagonia. According to Capt. Cook's statement it was sometimes seen sixty fathoms in length. This is certainly surpassing in size any of the "Cape Ann m ings" ever seen in Massachusetts Bay. Capt. Cook's account of the prodigious size and great abundance of the vegetable is corroborated by Mr. Darwin, who attended the exploring expedition composed of the English ships Adventure and Bengle, in the southern latitudes between the years 1826 and 1836. It flourishes in the midst of those breakers on the Magellanic coast, which no single rock, however hard, could long resist.

According to Mr. Darwin, it is an important link in the chain of organized being-and the number of living creatures of all orders, whose existence intimately depends upon this kelp, is truly wonderful. Almost every leaf, except those which float on the surface, is so thickly encrusted with coralines us to be of a white colour. Amongst it are found exquisitely delicate structures, some inhabited by simple hydra, like polipi, others by more organized kinds, and beautiful compound Ascidim. On the flat surfaces of the leaves, various patelliform shells, trochi, uncovered moluses, and some hivalfes are attached. Innumerable crustacea frequent every part of the plant. Mr. Barwin says, "on shaking the great entangled roots, a pile of small fish, shells, cattle fish, crabs of all orders, sea eggs, star fish, beautiful holothutim, planarim, and crawling nercedous animals, of a multitude of forms, all fell out together. Often as I rocurred to a branch of the kelp, I never failed to discover animals of new and curious structure." Again Mr. Darwin says, "around the leaves of this plant, innumerable species of fish live, which no where else would find food cr shelter-with their destruction the many cormorants, divers and other fishing birds, otters, seals and porpoises would perish also—and lastly, the Fuegian savage, the miserable lord of this miserable land, would redouble his cannibal feast, des crease in numbers, and perhaps cease to exist."

HOW TO IMPROVE A POOR FARM.

Richard A. Leonard, of Middletown, N. J. has furnished us an interesting account of im-proving a worn-out farm, and of the sale of its products the last year; and we regret that from the great accumulation of matter on hand, we cannot give his letter in detail. We are obliged to content ourselves with a brief abstract of material facts.

Leonard came into possession of 90 acres of cultivated but exhausted land, in May, 1833 .-In that year the sale of its products amounted to $550 83; in 1634, the sales amounted to 8718 05; in 1839, to $1,125 04; and in 1836, notwithstanding the unfavourable season, and the failure of most of his staple crops, to $1,-176 13—thus more than doubling its products, by judicious management, in three years. His expense during the last year for labour, dung, and freight, amounted to 8254 72, thus leaving him a nett profit of $912 41, or more than ten dollars per acre per annum. We will quote Mr. Leonard's statement of the means he a-

"My farm," says he, "was in so low a condition that it would not produce mere than ten bushels of rye, or twenty of corn per acre; and as I had no other income but what I could make upon this poor farm, I set about farming in earnest. I found it was vain to attempt improvement without manure; so I contrived to get a-bout four hundred loads a year, three hundred of which I made in the following manner. I have marl, though of a very inferior quality. I cart about one hundred loads of this into my born yard, and by yarding my cattle upon it through the season, contrived to increase it to two hundred loads. I also cart about fifty loads to my hog pen, on which I keep my hogs the year round. In this way I got one hundred loads more, which is excellent for potatoes, corn, &c. and as my farm is situate near the bay, I obtain from New York, annually, from reach them; then made another, and another, till he lost his balance, and lay down upon his are many farmers among us who are still purplates this time be gained the polatoes, helped himself and commenced eating. After a few king both eads arest. I might say something
