The new method of raising fruit trees by planting the scions is said to have many advantages over the old method. It is better than the grafting because it is more accounts. the grafting because it is more expeditious and requires no stocks. They are more easily planted and take but little trouble. To plant them properly, the scion should be taken any time after the first of February and each end dipped in tallow or shoemaker's wax or pitch, and buried in the ground, the buds uppermost two or three inches deep. It is said they will bear in three or four years from the planting. while the body lies in a horizontal position and bear in three or four years from the planting. [Frederick Herald.
