Dr. El'ANS' CAMOMILE AND APERIENT PILLS. ON LOW SPIRITS.

Low spirits is a certain state of the mind, accompanied by indig-rtion, wherein the greatest evils are apprehended upon the elightest grounds, and the worst consequences inagined. Anciant medical writers supposed this disease to be confined to those particular regions of the abdomen technically called hypechondris, which are situated on the right or left side of that cavity, whence comes the name hypechondrisis.

Symptoms. The common corporeal symptoms are, flatulency in the stomach or bowels, acrid cructations, continuous, spasmodic pains and often an utter inabiliation.

TO MOTHERS AND NURSES.

The pressys of the Teeth through the gums produces troublesoms and dangerous symptoms. It is known by asthers that there is great irritation in the mouth and gens during this process. The gums swell, the secreture of salves is increased, the child is seized with frogest and sudden fits of crying, watchings, starting in the sleep, and spassus of peculiar parts; the child shricks with extrame violence, and thrusts its fingers into its math. If these procursory symptoms are not speedily allwisted, spassmodic convulsions universally supervene, as soon cause the dissolution of the infant. If mothers who have their little babes afflicted with these distances of infants when thought past recovery, from being salkinly attacked with that fatal malady, convulsions. flatulency in the stomach or bowels, aerid eructations, costiveness, spasmodic pains and often an utter inability of fixing the attention upon any subject of importance or engaging in any thing that demands vigour or courage. Also languidness—the mind becomes irritable, thoughful, desponding, melauchely and dejected, accompanied by a total derangement of the nerrous system. The mental feelings and peculiar train of ideas that haunt the imagination and overwhelm the judgment, exhibit an infinite diversity. The wisest and best of men are as open to this affliction as the weak-est.

A REAL BLESSING TO MOTHERS.

Br. W. Evans' Celebrated Soothing Syrup, for Children Cutting their Teeth.

This infallible remedy has preserved hundreds of children, when thought past recovery, from convulment. As soon as the Syrup is rubbed on the guns, the child will recover. This preparation is so innocent, reflections, and so pleasant, that no child will refuse to let its guns be rubbed with it. When infants are at the age of four months, though there is no appurance of teeth, one bottle of the Syrup should be sed on the guns, to open the pores. Parents should sure be without the Syrup in the nursery where there are young children; for if a child wakes in the night with pain in the guns, the Syrup immediately gives ease by opining the pores and healing the guns, thereby perventing Convulsions, Fevers, &c.

The Proof Positive of the Efficacy of Dr. Evuns' Soothing Syrup.

To the Agent of Dr. Erans' Soothing Syrup. Dear St.—The great benefit afforded to my suffering infant by your boothing Syrup, in a terr of pretracted and punified deatitiem, must convince every feeling parent lew cas until an early application of such an invalua ky medicine is to relieve infant missery and torture. My infant, while techning, experienced such acute sufferings, that it was attacked with convulsions, and my wife and annily supposed that death would soon release the babe from anguish till we procured a bottle of your Syrup which as so n as applied to the guns a wonderful change was produced, and after a few applications the child displayed oby our relief, and by continuing in its set, I am glad to inform you, the child has completely recovered and no recurrence of that awful complaint has since occurred, too tech are emanating daily and the child enjoys perfect health. I give you my choerful pernission to make this acknowledguent public, and will gladly give any information on this circumstance.

Treatment. The principal objects of treatment are, to remove indigestion, strengthen the body, and enliven the spirits, which may be promoted by exercise, carly hours, regular meals, pleasant conversation—the bowels (if costive) should be carefully regulated by the occasional use of a mild aperient. We know nothing better adapted to obtain this end, than Dr. Win. Evans' Aperient Pills—being mild and certain in their operation. The bowels being once cleaned, his inestimable Camoraile Pills, (which are tonic, anodyne, and antispasmodic) are an infallible remedy, and without dispute have proved a great blessing to the numerous public.

Agent, JEREMIAH HUGHES,

THE BARON VON HUTCHELER HERB PILLS.

These Pills are composed of Herbs, which exert a specific action upon the heart, give an impulse or strength to the arterial system; the blood is quickened and equalized in its circulation through all the vessels, whether of the skin, the parts situated internally, or the extremities; and as all the secretions of the body are drawn from the blood, there is a consequent in croase of every secretion, and a quickened action of the absorbent and exhalent, or discharging vessels. Any morbid action which may have taken place is corrected, and obstructions are removed, the blood is purified, and the body resumes a healthful state.

These Pills, after much anxious toil and research, having been brought by the Proprietor to the present state of perfection; supersade the use of the immunerable other medicines; and are so well adapted to the frame, that the use of thom, by maintaining the body state of perfection, supersode the us of the innumeratile other medicines; and are so well adapted to the frame that the use of them, by maintaining the body in the date performance of its functions, and preserving the vital stream in a pure and healthy state, causes it to last many years longer than it otherwise would, and the mind to become so composed and tranquit, that old age when it arrises, will appear a blessing, and not (as too many who have neglected their constitutions, or had them injured by medicines ade inistered by ignorance) a source of minery and abhorease.

They are so compounded, that by attengthening and equalizing the action of the heart, liver, and other viacera, they expel the bad, acrid or morbid matter, which renders the bloods impure, out of the circulation, thro
the excretory ducts into the passage of the lowels, ro that by the brisk or slight eracuations, which may be regulated by the doses of the filerb Pails, always remembering that while the excretions from all the other vessels of the body will also be going on in the same proportion, by which means the blood invariably become parified.

Steady perseverance in the use of the Herb Pills will ING, WITH SUMMER COMPLAINT, carel by the infallible American Soothing Syrup of Dr. W. Evans. Mrs. McPherson, residing at No. 8, Misson strott, called a fax days since at the medical vars of Dr. W. Evans, 100 Chatham street, N. Y. all purchased a bottle of the Syrup for her child, who we stake in a constant of the strong pain during the process of thatition, being momentarily threatened with convulsions, its bowds too were exceedingly loose, and no fird could be retained on the stonneth. Alteret immediately on its application, the alarming symbolous entirely ceased, and by continuing the use of the syrup on the gums, the bowels in a short time became quite autaral. As a tribute of gratitude for the benefit afforded the child, the mother came of her own accord, end freely structioned publicity to the above. Pray be puticular in applying at 100 Chatham street, as there are siveral cogneticities advertised. No other place in the city has the gamuine for sales.

puticular in applying at 100 Chatham street, as there are several counterfeits advertised. It o their place in the city has the gangines for sale.

IT INPORTANT TO MOTHERS—Children marrilly suffer much uncasiness from cutting their tests. Whatever dangstons or fatal symptoms attend this process of nature, they are produced invariably from the highly irritated and inflamed condition of the parts—therefore the principal indications of cure are to abate the inflam nation, and to soften, soothe, and relax the gras. If that is effected, the infant is preserved from ribedgent fever, inflammation, spasmodic cough, tritching of tendons, croap, einker, and convulsions, displaying their fatal consequences. If mothers, nurses, or gardians have their babes tortured with painful and protracted dentition, and this notice attracts their stention, they should not be deterred from purchasing a lettle of EVANS SOOTHING SYRUP for Children Teething, the incomparable virtue of which in completely relieving the most distressing cases (when applied to the infant's gums as directed) is invaluable. The remedy has restored thousands of children when on the verge of the grave, to the embraces again of their distracted parents, attacked with that awful and mortiferous malady—Convulsions.

Von Hutcheler II of Pilia.

Those who have the care and education of females, whether the studious or the sedentary part of the community, should never be without a supply of the Herb Pills, which remove disorders in the head, invigorate the mind, strengthen the body, improve the memory, and enliven the imagination.

When the Nervous System has been too largely drawn upon or overstrained, nothing is better to correct and invigorate the drooping constitution than these Pills.

POETRY.

[From the Evening Signal.] THE FIRST LEAF OF AUTUMN. AT MES. SERA SHITH.

I see thee fall, thou quivering leaf Of faint and yellow hue, The first to feel the autumn winds, That blighting, o'er thee blow-Slow-parted from the rocking branch,
I see thee floating by, To brave, all desolate and lone, The bleak autumnal sky.

Alas! the first, that yellow leaf-How sadly falls it there, To rustle on the crisped grass, With every chilly air! It tells of those that soon must drop All wither'd, from the tree, And it hath wak'd a sadden'd chord In deathless memory.

Thou eddying leaf, away, away, There's sorrow in thy hue; Thou sound'st the knell of sunny hours Of buds and liquid dow-And then dost tell how from the heart
The blossoms of hope decay;
How each one lingers loth to part, Till all are swept away.

New York, Oct., 1839.

MISCELLANEOUS.

AN APT ILLUSTRATION. In a little essay by the Rev. E. Peabody, of New Bedford, on the subject of "Mystery, Reason, and Faith," we find the following beautiful and apt illustration:

Night comes over a ship at sea, and a passenger lingers hour after hour alone on the deck. The waers plunge and welter and glide away beneath the keel. Above, the sails tower up in the darkness almost to the sky, and their shadow falls as it were a burden on the deek below. In the clouded night no star is to be seen, and as the ship changes her course, the passenger knows not which way is east or west, or north or south. What islands, what sunken rocks may be on her course-or what that course is or where they are, he knows not. All around him is Mystery. He bows down in the submis-sion of utter ignorance.

But men of science have read the laws of the sky. And the next day this passenger beholds the captain looking at a clock, and taking note of the place of the sun, and, with the aid of a couple of books composed of rules and mathe matical tables, making calculations. And when he has completed them, he is able to point almost within a hand's breadth to the pla which, after unnumbered windings, he has arrived in the midst of the seas. Storms may have beat and currents drifted, but he knows where they are, and the precise point where, a hundred leagues over the water, lies his native shore. liere is Reason appreciating and making use o of the revelations (if we may so call them) of Night again shuls down over the waste of the waves, and the passenger beholds a single seaman stand at the wheel, and watch, hour after hour, as it vibrates beneath a lamp, a little needle, which points ever, as if it were a living finger, to the seeady pole.

This man knows nothing of the rules of navigation, nothing of the course of the sky. But reason and experience have give him Faith in the commanding officer of the ship—taith in the laws that control her course-faith in the unerring integrity of the little guide before hint .-And so, without a single doubt, he steers his ship on, according to a prescribed direction, through night and the waves. And that faith is not disappointed. With the morning sun, he beholds far away the summits of the gray and misty highlands rising like a cle zon; and, as he nears them, the hills appear, and the lightho se at the entrance of the harbor, and (sight of joy!) the spires of the churches, and the shining roofs, among which he strives to detect his own.

AN INCIDENT.

The following passage occurs in the recently published Memoirs of Mrs. Hemans.

It was about this time that a circumstance oc curred, by which Mrs. Hemans was grently atfected and impressed. A stranger one day cal-led at her house, and begged carnestly to see her. She was then just recovering from one of her frequent illnesses, and was obliged to decline the visits of all but her immediate friends. The applicant was, therefore told that she was mable to receive him-but he persisted in entreating for a few minutes audience, with such urgent importunity, that at last the point was conceded. The moment he was admitted, the gentleman (for such his manner and appearance declared him to be,) explained in words and tones of the deepest feeling, that the object of his visit was to acknowledge a debt of obligation which he could not rest satisfied without avowing; that to her he owed, in the first in stance, that faith and those hopes which were now more precious to him than life itself; for that it was by reading her poem of, "The Sceptic' he had been first awakened from the miserable delusions of infidelity, and induced to Sep. 26-4t.

earch the Scriptures. Having poured forth his thanks and benedictions in an uncontrolable guels of emotion, this strange, but interesting visitant took his departure, and leaving her overwhelmed with a mingled sense of poyful gratitude and wondering humility.

THE RESTING PLACE.

However dark and disconsolate the path of life may seem to any man, there is an hour of deep and undisturbed repose at hand, when the body may sink into a dreamless slumber. Let not the imagination be startled, if this resting place, instead of being a bed of down, shall be the bed of gravel, or the rocky pavement of the tomb. No matter where the poor remains of a man may lie, the repose is deep and undistur-bed; the sorrowful besom heaves no more; the tears are dried up in their fountains, the aching head is at rest, and the stormy waves of earthly tribulation roll unheeded over the place of graves. Let armies engage in fearful conflicts over the very Losoms of the pale nations of the dead, not one of the sleepers heed the spiritstirring trump, or respond to the rending shouts of victory.

How quiet those countless millions slumber carth! The voice in the arms of their mother earth! The voice of thunder shall not awaken them; the loud cry of the elements, the winds, the waves, nor even the giant tread of the earthquake, shall be able to cause an inquietude in the chamber of death. They shall rest and pass away; the last great battle shall be fought; and then a silver voice, at first just heard, shall rise to a tempest, and penetrate the voiceless grave. For the trumpet shall sound, and the dead shall hear His voice.

WEEPING.

The talk about a person having the power to weep on all occasions, is the height of moonshine. I'd like to see a man undertake to cry, with a pretty girl beside him—pockets ful of cash—no corns on his toes—and a plenty of ice cream in his reach. If he can do it at such a time, he had better make a business of it, and go about crying for people at sixpence a cry. [Sam Slick.

A Vermont school master lately flogged an unruly damsel attending his school, to whom he was engaged. He said, though he kissed her as a lover, it was his duty to lick her as a

DR. WM. EVANS? CELEBRATED

FEVER AND AGUE PILLS.

These pills, so admirably adapted to afford uniform relief in the different modifications of those distressing maladies, are particularly recommended to public notice. On the accession of the cold stage, when the face and imbs of the sufferer become pale, and the sensation of sold and languor is felt pervading the whole system—their administration is accompanied with astonishing success—they soon lessen the subsequent distressing shivering and violent shaking, and by continuing in their use, (as directed) will ultimately cure the most obstinate ague. These pills are of signal utility in those distressing cases, where there is a sallowness of complexion, pain in the region of the liver, tension and distress in the epigastic region. with other symptoms indicating the existence of morbid action, or chronic disease of the stomach, liver, bowels, meccentery or spleen, which consequences so generally supervene from protracted intermittents. They permanently overcome these diseases—at the same time give tone to the stomach, cleanse and strengthen the bowels and impart health; vigorr and energy to the system.

Many persons enigrate to the rich and fertile soil or the West, in the hope of attaining a future competency, but alast ere long that hope becomes blasted, when they appear with impaired and enfeebled constitutions, resulting from attacks of that direful terror of the West, Fever and Ague. If such persons had resorted to the use of the above pills, the sunken pallid countenance would have been restored to its florid heat, the inhabitants of many portions of our western country.

In all cases of Bilious and Nervous Fever, Hypochondriacism, Low Spirits, Palpitations of the Heat, Nervous Irritability, Nervous Weakness, Fluor Albus, Seminal Weakness, Indigestion, Loss of Appetite, Pains in the Side, Limbs, Heat, Stomach or Back, will invariably be removed by the use of the Fills.

On first feeling the premonitory symptoms occur, it is advisable at once to clear thorou the value and well-authenticated virtues of which medicine have been, and till are, too apparent to call for further comment. They tend to promote a healthy secretion of the Bile, and render the system capable of receiving with benefit the Invigorating and Strengthening Pills.
