I am very respectfully.

Your obedient servant, WM. GRASON.

[The Attorney General to Governor Grason.] CAMBRIDGE, Nov. 6. 1839.

His Excellency, The Governor of Maryland,-On Friday last I received your letter of the 29th October, in which you refer me to two acts of Assembly: the one passed at the sessions of 1836, ch. 239, and the other at the session of 1839, ch. 315; and propound the following 1. Does the act of 1837, ch. 315, apply to any other suspension of specie payments by the banks, besides that which existed at the time of its passage! 2. Does the 5th section apply to the re-issue of paper, of a less denomination than five dollars, after it has been returned to the bank which first issued it?

3. Does the 5.h section prohibit any bank from paying out such paper of other banks or Savings Institutions?

4. Does the 6th section authorise the Governor to direct the Attorney General to proceed ngainst Savings Institutions, as well as banks, which shall issue such paper for circulation?

5. Has the Frederick County Bank, under its charter as renewed by the act of 1886, ch. 239, or under any other act of Assembly, the right to issue one dollar hills, as poles of any descrip-tion of a less denomination than five dollars? My addital opinion is named a relation to such acts of Assembly as may require the Exe-culive interference.

I have carufully examined the acts referred o, in conjunction with several others in relation to the banks and Savings Institutions, and have maturely considered the several squestions spro pounded by your letter.

As to the first question:- It is my opinio that the act of 1837, ch. $15, does not apply to evidence will be given, by the abundance of ma- passage, and that no other suspension was then contemplated. The object of the act was to provide a remedy for the then existing derang ed state of affairs, by enforcing an early re sumption of specie, payment, and by prescribing certain terms and conditions, on a compliance with which the several banks and Savings Institutions might be released from all the penal tics incurred by the suspension of specie pay ients, or the issues of bank notes or certificate of deposites not authorised by the provisions of their respective charters,-I am unable to giv it any other rational construction.

As to the 2d question:-It is my opinion that the 5th section does not apply to the re-issue of any note or other paper, of less denomination than five dollars, after it has been acturned to the bulk which tirst issued it.

3d. question. The 5th section does not pro hibit any bank from paying out such paper of other banks or Savings Institution:—It is apple cable to issues by banks only, and not to Savings Institutions. It prohibts any bank, from and after the 1st May, 1838, to issue any bank note, certificate of deposite, or any other paper intended to be used as a circulating medic a less denomination than five fellars. To issue, means in its technical and literal sense, tomake, by the signing and countersigning of the proper officers of the bank; whereby such bank would be bound for the payment. Savings Institutions are forbid by their charters to issue or make any bill, note, or other device in the ature or character of a bank note.

4th question. The 6th section does not tuhorise or require the Governor to sirect the Attorney General rto proceed against Savings Institutions, who shall or may have issued such 5th question. The Frederick County Bank. nder its original charter, had a right to issue one dollar bills, but after the acceptance of the act of 1836, ch. 239, section 7, this bank had no right or authority to issue any bank note or notes of a less denomination than thre dellars. and any violation of this law is cognizable by the Judicial Department and not by the Execu-

[Governor Grason to the Attorney General.] Annapolis, November 13, 1839.

DEAR SIR,—I infer from your answer to my fetter of the 29th of October, that you are of opinion that the provisions of the act of 1837, chapter 315, were all temporary and only applicable to the suspension which then existed.— Being in some doubt however, whether I have understood you correctly, I wish to receive fur-ther information on the following points:

Is it your opinion that the fifth section is still Banks resumed specie payments?

If it is still in force, has the Governor suthority, under the 6th section, to direct the Attorney General to proceed against any Bank, which h issued notes or other paper for circulation, of a less denomination than five dollars, since the

Yours, very respectfully, WM. GRASON.

[The Attorney General to Governor Grason.]

CAMBRIDGE, Nov. 18th, 1839. His Excellency,

The Governor of Maryland:

By your letter of the 13th instant, you express a wish to receive further or more explicit information on the following points:

1st. Is the fifth section of the act of 1837, chap. 315, still in force, or did it cease to operate when the Banks resumed specie payments? 2nd. If it is still in force, has the Governor under the 6th section, authority to direct the Attorney General to proceed against any Bank which has issued notes or other paper, for circulation, of a less denomination than five dollars, since the first of May, 1838?

After an attentive examination of the acts of 1812, chap. 134; 1820, chap. 150; and 1818, ch. 177, and comparing them with the act of 1837, chap. 315, I cannot entertain a doubt, and am clearly of opinion that the said fifth section of the act of 1837, ceased to operate after the first day of May, 1836, and when the Banks had resumed specie payments—that it was a virtual or ion of the act of 1820, ch.,150, from its passage until the first of May, 1838. and during that time that the Banks might with impunity, issue notes or other paper for circulan, of a less denomination than five dollarsthat, after the first of May, 1838, the set of 1820, chap. 150, was, and still is, in full opera-tion and effect, and that any Bank which issued notes of the above description, is subject to the the said fifth section is still in force, that it m be construed and taken in connexion with the set of 1820, chap. 150; and without such con struction, it could not be enforced; that the Governor has not authority, nor is he required by the 6th section, to girect the Attorney General to proceed against any Bank which has issued notes or other paper for circulation, of a less de-May, 1838; but if any Bank has ressed such notes since that time, it is a viol tien-of the act of 1824, chap, 150, and can only be pusished at ded against according to the provisions of that act.

177: by this act, the refusal by any Bank to pay which a scire facias is anthorised to be issuedif it ewere issued for any other-cause, it would be bad on general demurrer, and could not be Bank to pay specie for its notes, is prima facia evidence of insolvency, although not conclusive, and for this cause a scire facias is authorised, but nominations than five dollars, which may and has been done by the most solvent specie paying
