Training Notes March - April 2009 Volume 36, Number 2

ARE YOUR OFFICERS LEGAL ?

From the Office of the Executive Director

There are several fundamental elements for an arrest. These elements, grounded in common law (Bouldin v. State, 276 Md. 511, 515-516, 350 A.2<sup>d</sup> 130, 133 (1976)), and supplemented in various State and local statutes, constitute the legality of the officer's arrest. The authority to deprive an individual of his/her freedom of movement, remove them from their domicile, search their person and immediate surroundings for weapons or evidence of a crime, question them as to their connection to a criminal act, and other similar activities all flow from the legality of the underlying arrest.

The Police Training Act, codified in the Annotated Code of Maryland (Public Safety Article, Section 3-215), expanded the requirements for the legal authority of a police officer (as defined in the statute) to make an arrest to include certification by the Police Training Commission. That is, unless a police officer who is subject to the authority of the Police Training Commission is certified at the time he makes an arrest, the arrest may be deemed illegal. If that is the case, all limitation of the arrestee's freedom of movement is without legal basis, and all evidence collected or statements made subsequent to the invalid arrest are subject to exclusion.

Correctional officers and other persons who are subject to the Correctional Training Commission's authority do not make arrests. Nevertheless, the provisions of the Correctional Training Act in the Annotated Code of Maryland (Correctional Services Article, Section 8-209) prohibit an individual from performing the duties of a correctional officer (as defined by the statute) unless they are certified by the Correctional Training Commission. Any action of a correctional officer who is not certified is performed without legal authority.

It is absolutely essential that public safety administrators have procedures in place to ensure that the certification of every officer, subject to the regulations of the Police Training Commission or the Correctional Training Commission, is current.

Provisional Certifications are issued by this Agency for law enforcement officers upon meeting all of the criteria for certification as established by the Police Training Commission. Full Certification is awarded upon satisfactory completion of either an approved entrance level training program and field training or a Comparative Compliance training program. Police certifications are valid for three years or until such time as the officer leaves his/her current department, whichever occurs first. Each certified officer receives a new certification card annually, based on successful completion of annual training requirements. The card reflects the current certification expiration date and compliance with training standards. Police officials should inspect every officer who is subject to the authority of the Police Training Commission to ensure they possess a current certification card. Any officer who does not have a current certification card may not be certified by the Police Training Commission.

CORRECTIONS CONNECTION

The corrections community has done an excellent job in training their trainers on the subject of Gangs, and there are now approximately 200 MPCTC certified Gang trainers from correctional agencies across the State. These individuals will be providing Gang training for both Academy and in-service classes, and we look forward to them working with one another to provide training throughout Maryland.

The first quarterly statewide Training Director/Coordinator meeting for 2009 was held in Sykesville at PCTC on March 5. Please see your agency Training Director or Coordinator for highlights.

We are forging relationships with new partners in the law enforcement/training community to provide you with some of the most current and innovative training and correctional trends available. Keep your eye on www.mdle.net for these upcoming trainings that may be of interest to correctional staff:

• Presented by Freeman Phillips LLC, subject matter experts with extensive military backgrounds in Special operations, Conventional Army Leadership, Tactical Operations, and Strategic Planning--This one day course is designed for the newly-promoted supervisor and focuses on such topics as mentoring, assessing climate, followership, peer evaluations, dynamic teams, and more. It also includes an in-depth discussion about non-tactical considerations for the new leader. This course is a great addition to and complements the mandated First Line Supervisor Training Program.

• Creating Vigilant, Prepared, and Resilient Communities training--This is geared specifically to Corrections and is sponsored by Homeland Security at no cost.

• Correctional Defensive Tactics Instructor Training--This course will provide candidates with the necessary skills to teach defensive tactics at the academy and in-service levels. The course will address all the objectives as detailed by MPCTC and will concentrate on such practical skills as: combatives, self-defense techniques, ground fighting, weapon defense, and retention (edged weapon, handguns and long guns). Candidates who successfully complete the course will receive a Defensive Tactics Instructor certification. This training is a very intense, hands-on, and physically demanding course.

• Gang Instructor/Train-the-Trainer-- Presented by MPCTC, this all-new Gang Instructor T4T session incorporates the new training requirements and objectives as required by the Commissions on January 2009.

• Public Safety Hiring and Background Investigations--This block of instruction will provide insight into the current state of public safety hiring and background investigations and its impact both locally and nationally. By using successful private sector hiring strategies as a benchmark, we will identify several issues and factors that influence our hiring efforts in a shrinking qualified labor pool.

• Street Survival--The Calibre Press Street Survival Seminar is the most dynamic, intense, and visually stimulating training experience available. Dedicated to teaching the strategies and skills you need to STAY SAFE and achieve peak performance, Street Survival training uses real-life video footage, survivor stories, and the most current research in an exciting, fast-paced environment.

• VANCELL Demonstration-- We will have a demonstration of the VANCELL by the Bob Barker Company, a prisoner transport system that allows for the transport and segregation of different types of inmates (males, females, and juveniles), all in the same vehicle. We will have a fully functioning vehicle on site for hands-on inspection.

**This product is not endorsed by the MD Police and Correctional Training Commissions, and this demonstration is for informational purposes only.*

Please check on www.mdle.net for information on any of the above classes. For additional information or suggestions, please call Jane Sachs, Correctional Administrator, at 410-875-3568 or Mark Radcliff, Correctional Coordinator, at 410-875-3509.

ARE YOUR OFFICERS LEGAL?

Provisional Certifications are issued by this Agency for correctional officers, institutional staff, Division of Parole and Probation agents and monitors, and certain employees of the Department of Juvenile Services upon fulfillment of all of the certification criteria as established by the Correctional Training Commission. Full Certification is awarded upon satisfactory completion of an approved entrance level training program and field training. Correctional Certifications are valid for one year or until such time as the officer leaves his/her current agency, whichever occurs first. Each certified officer receives a new certification card annually, based on successful completion of annual training requirements. Correctional officials should inspect every employee who is subject to the authority of the Correctional Training Commission to ensure they possess a current certification card. Any officer who does not have a current certification card may not be certified by the Correctional Training Commission.

The staff of the Police and Correctional Training Commissions, particularly the members of the Certification Unit, are here to assist you. They are highly regarded and are helpful and responsive to issues concerning the certification of law enforcement and correctional officers. Please do not hesitate to contact us regarding any certification issue you may have. The consequences of deploying officers who do not have the legal authority to perform their duties could be devastating.

by: Theresa Satterfield, Administrator

LEADERSHIP CHALLENGE XVIII

The January session on the Environment with the Core Competency Strategic Thinking was held at the Chesapeake Bay Foundation's Merrill Center in Annapolis. The session included a tour of the facility and speakers who provided information on the state of Maryland's environment. The February session on Maryland Government and the Core Competency Vision and Mission, also in Annapolis, provided insight into Maryland's legislative process. The March session will explore the Maryland Criminal Justice System with the Core Competency of Self-awareness and April's session will examine the MD Maritime Industry with the Core Competency of Ethics and Values.

EXECUTIVE SEMINARS

Several new and repeat one-day leadership/managerial courses have been added. These programs are receiving high marks. The Executive Development Institute's program schedule is in Training Notes, and the schedule is updated as necessary. There is a nominal fee and space is limited. Notices are mailed to the Executive Officer of each agency and to the Academy Directors approximately 6-8 weeks in advance of the program. These programs are open to all staff, uniformed and non-uniformed alike, who want to be better leaders and managers. The 2009 Calendar of Executive Seminars is available. Several new topic areas have been added. Check www.mdle.net for details.

MID-MANAGEMENT PROGRAMS - CORRECTIONS

A program will be scheduled once per year.

WORKLOAD ANALYSIS AND RESOURCE ALLOCATION

The next program is scheduled for Nov 24 -25, 2009.

LEADERSHIP SCHOOL

Multiple classes are scheduled. See the Institute's Program listings for specific dates. Classes are filling fast.

WOMEN LEADERS IN PUBLIC SAFETY SERIES

Several additional topics have been added. See the Institute's Program listings.

CORRECTIONS FOR THE 21st CENTURY

Additional programs are being scheduled and more information will be forthcoming. This is the final funding year. However, staff is planning to continue the program even after grant funds expire.

CAREER TRACK CERTIFICATE PROGRAM

The program is up and running. Questions and additional information can be obtained from EDI staff, at www.mdle.net, or by calling the Career Track Hotline at 410-875-3917.

NORTHWESTERN SCHOOL OF POLICE STAFF AND COMMAND

Tentative plans are under way to host another program in 2010. Plan ahead!

PROVIDING AND MANAGING TRAINING ON A TIGHT BUDGET

by Sgt. Sam Hannigan, Towson University Police Department

Being a member of a police department on a university campus offers many advantages, one of which is the availability of the training resources within the university. Several years ago, our department was suffering from a severe manpower shortage, and I was looking for ways to continue to offer training while still allowing for as much time on the street for patrol officers and supervisors. The university offers many courses online for its students, and I contacted the campus Office of Technology to inquire about the use of their online program by our personnel. Unfortunately, at that time, the system was only set up for those doing regular course work. Discussion was generated about future possibilities, and they promised to explore ways that university faculty and staff might use the program for in-house staff training. One year later, they contacted me and explained that they had established online "communities" for individual groups on campus to be involved in non-standard course work; our police department community was one of the first to begin utilizing this educational format. Towson University, like many other colleges and universities across the country, uses Blackboard. Since users can enter the system via any computer with internet access, officers can log on from the computers in their patrol cars and view short roll call training presentations while out on the streets (preferably while parked).

Our police department is able to use Blackboard to view PowerPoint presentations, streaming video, word documents, and other types of educational materials. The advantage it offers over the typical access to websites is that Blackboard allows the instructor to check on student progress through the use of various controls. One of the most helpful system features is the "Reviewed" button that the student activates after opening and viewing the assignment material. This provides the instructor with a documented date and time that the student reviewed those items and takes the place of

MARYLAND COMMUNITY CRIME PREVENTION INSTITUTE
MCCPI UPDATE

by Patricia L. Sill, Administrator

---

UPCOMING COMMERCIAL AND RESIDENTIAL CRIME PREVENTION TRAINING PROGRAMS

MCCPI will conduct a four-day Residential Crime Prevention Training Program on March 9-12, 2009 at PSETC and another on April 6-9, 2009 at the Castle in the Sand Hotel in Ocean City, Maryland. The programs are free of charge and have been approved for 25 hours of in-service credits.

Another Residential program is being planned for September-October 2009, date and location to be determined. Also, a five-day Commercial Program is being planned for June 2009.

Throughout the year MCCPI will also offer Specialized Residential or Commercial Crime Prevention Training, upon request, to departments with 15 or more students. This is usually a two-day training program and must be requested on an individual basis by contacting the MCCPI office. A two-day Commercial Program will take place in Charles County on April 28-29, 2009.

For more information on these programs, call Leo French at 410-875-3427.

CURRENT TRENDS CRIME PREVENTION TRAINING PROGRAM

In partnership with the Cumberland Police Department, MCCPI will be offering a training for crime prevention practitioners entitled "Current Trends IV: More than Locks and Lights." This is being planned for late spring-early summer. Agenda topics include Domestic Violence; Prescription and Over-the-Counter Drug Abuse; Gang Update; Homeland Security; Financial Exploitation; and Prison Gang Update. The program has been approved for 12 hours of in-service credits.

Similar programs are also planned for Queen Anne's and Harford Counties.

For further information, contact Bruce Lohr at the MCCPI Office at 410-875-3422.

MARYLAND CRIME PREVENTION ASSOCIATION

The Maryland Crime Prevention Association (MCPA) is a collaboration of crime prevention practitioners throughout the state. Members include police, sheriffs, correctional and security professionals, business people, and community leaders. Its mission is to facilitate the promotion and advancement of crime prevention information and activities in Maryland. The Association is committed to effective and efficient crime prevention programming throughout the state.

Throughout the year, the MCPA will be offering various training programs. For information on membership, training programs available, etc., visit their website at www.mdcrimeprevention.org.

MARYLAND STATE TRIAD NETWORK

"Triad" is a grassroots concept of partnerships that brings together police departments, sheriffs' offices, criminal justice practitioners, senior volunteer groups, and senior service providers for the sole purpose of identifying ways to reduce the criminal victimization of the elderly.

The Maryland State Triad Network meets quarterly at the Heritage Office Complex in Annapolis, and meetings are open to the public. Meetings feature a guest speaker as well as an opportunity for attendee information exchange. Network meetings for 2009 are set for March 18, June 17, September 16, and December 16.

If you would like to know more about the efforts of Triad, contact the MCCPI Office at 410-875-3425.

TRAINING FOR SENIORS

In partnership with the organizations mentioned above, MCPA and the Maryland Triad/S.A.L.T. (Seniors and Law Enforcement Together) Network, MCCPI will be offering one-day trainings throughout the State geared to the senior population. These trainings will include Gang Awareness, Personal Safety, and Financial Exploitation. The first training is scheduled for May 7, 2009 at Loyola College Timonium Campus, 2034 Greenspring Drive in Timonium, MD. Attendance is limited to 50.

Contact Bruce Lohr at 410-875-3422 for more information.

WANTED! GOVERNOR'S CRIME PREVENTION AWARDS NOMINATIONS

Announcements concerning the 2009 Governor's Crime Prevention Awards Program are set to go out in the spring. We encourage all agencies to nominate individuals and programs they feel meet the criteria for the Governor's Award. The six nomination categories include the following: Law Enforcement Agencies; Law Enforcement Officers; Community Groups, Organizations, and Individual Citizens; Proactive Crime Prevention Programs in Maryland; Achievers' Award (for the performance of residential and or commercial security surveys); and Outstanding Comprehensive Community-Based Anti-Crime Strategies in Maryland.

To receive an informational brochure on the awards program, contact the MCCPI Office at 410-875-3425.

FOCUS ON PAST GOVERNOR'S CRIME PREVENTION AWARDS RECIPIENTS

Each year the State of Maryland honors law enforcement agencies, officers, citizens, and programs for their contributions to the furtherance of crime prevention programming in Maryland. MCCPI would like to take the opportunity to highlight some of these efforts in Training Notes. In this issue we are featuring St. Mary's County Drug Abuse Resistance Education "Camp D.A.R.E.," which was nominated for the award by the Maryland D.A.R.E. Officers' Association.

Embracing the success of their new school-based D.A.R.E. Program and wanting to provide a summer activity for County youth, the St. Mary's County Sheriff's Office, in early spring 2007, began planning for a week-long "Camp D.A.R.E." The primary focus of the camp was the ten-lesson elementary D.A.R.E. curriculum. As an enhancement of the two lessons per day about D.A.R.E., a variety of criminal justice and fitness-related activities were provided for campers.

A partnership was formed with the Criminal Justice Program at the County's high school Career and Technology Center to provide a location for Camp D.A.R.E. and student volunteers to assist as mentors, counselors, and activity directors. D.A.R.E. officers from St. Mary's and neighboring Calvert County volunteered to provide instruction. Local businesses and civic and service organizations donated funding, supplies, and services to help make the camp a reality. Fifty-four boys and girls from throughout St. Mary's County attended Camp D.A.R.E.

Thanks to the vision and commitment of Sheriff Timothy Cameron, D.A.R.E. officers and supervisors, and school personnel, this prevention education program was instituted county-wide and was able to reach every sixth grade student. This was done without benefit of grant or other supplemental funding. Additionally, implementing a summer program of positive alternatives for younger children provided them with the prevention message and usable skills to help them make wise and healthy choices. The success of the program required total community effort and commitment, and the positive relationships forged will benefit all involved for years to come.

MCCPI commends the St. Mary's County Sheriff's Office and all those involved in this effort to benefit the children of Maryland.

The Institute hopes to feature other awards recipients in future editions of Training Notes. If you are interested in learning more about their accomplishments or more about the Governor's Crime Prevention Awards Program, call the MCCPI Office at 410-875-3425.

PROVIDING AND MANAGING TRAINING ON A TIGHT BUDGET

the old "read and sign" format used previously for most roll call training and document viewing. An instructor can also create tests based on the material presented and do so in a format of his choice. Once the student has viewed the assigned material, he can then click on a link for the related test, if appropriate. For the most part, grading is automatic, and the instructor is freed from that task. A test bank of questions exists for each unit of material, and this allows every user to take a different test. Questions can be set up in multi-choice settings or assigned in random order.

While the department was still acclimating to Blackboard, the university came up with another format called Digital Media Classroom, a predetermined classroom setting that allows the instructor to conduct live training over the Internet or to record training that can be broadcast later via the Internet. This enables the presenter to offer his training and use a supporting PowerPoint presentation or other presentation aid. Students can select from different options to view the presentation, including a standard split screen in which the presenter is shown on the left and the PowerPoint or other presentation is on the right or one in which the presenter or the presentation is in full screen. Digital Media Classroom also allows the student to send questions to the presenter. In the event of a "live" presentation, the presenter receives the question via a live e-mail feed as soon as it is sent. With a pre-recorded viewing, the question is directed to the presenter's e-mail address, and he can respond to it in a timely manner.

This format is web-based but only those who have permission have access. This helps to keep the material relatively secure (or as secure as the web can be). In the case of presentations for the Towson University Police Department's personnel, there is access to this material through Blackboard which allows for a higher level of security and provides information on when each activity is completed.

By establishing a cooperative venture with an allied county agency, this set-up is now available not only to our Towson University Police Department but to the other agency as well. It allows us to utilize their instructors and them to utilize our system. While each agency has access to all presentations and all relevant information, the main difference is that the allied agency has this access through the Internet rather than through Blackboard.

TRAINING, RESEARCH & DEVELOPMENT UNIT

CHANGE

by Jennifer Beskid, Administrator

The topic of this edition's article is CHANGE. A quote from George Bernard Shaw sums up the role of change in our lives and careers: "The only man I know who behaves sensibly is my tailor; he takes my measurements anew each time he sees me. The rest go on with their old measurements and expect me to fit them." While many view change in a negative light, change is, in truth, necessary for both people and organizations so that they grow and thrive. This piece will outline a number of changes that have been incorporated into our operations to provide opportunities for growth and professional development for law enforcement professionals.

One important recent change is the addition of some needed standard training to the 2009 MPCTC Training Catalog. Our newest offering is the Audiovisuals for Amateurs course which will be offered four times this year and can be used as a preparation class for those interested in participating in the Enhanced Instructor program. Our instructors will review how to utilize and connect some of the basic equipment used in training including speakers, LCD projectors, and computers. They will also review the basics of how to embed audio and video into PowerPoint presentations. In addition, we will provide hands-on training for students in the basics of PowerPoint presentations. This course will be presented in 2009 on March 11, June 10, September 9, and December 9, and participants are encouraged to bring flash drives and other equipment they want to learn more about.

An orientation for new training coordinators (or people in similar positions) is being offered on the fourth Wednesday of every month from 10:00 a.m.–12:00 p.m. This orientation consists of an overview of procedures for obtaining in-service program approval, as well as those for certification of instructors and mandated courses. To attend this orientation, interested persons may call Jeannette Marxen at 410-875-3515 or Cheryl Friend at 410-875-3514.

TRDU has also added a course that addresses generational differences and their impact in the workplace. Generations as Learners and Staff will provide insights about the various generations that make up the work environment and the manner in which members of each work and expect to be treated. Whether learning in the classroom or through on-the-job training, each worker is an active contributor to the professional environment. Those who participate in this course will be able to openly express the frustrations they have experienced as a result of these perceived differences and seek input from other participants in the course. The dates for this course are May 21, 2009 and October 22, 2009.

Since the fall of 2008, we have been offering a Gang Instructor-Training for Trainers. This course outlines the new training requirements and objectives that are required by MPCTC for all entrance level academies. The dates for this course vary, and information about future training dates can be obtained by calling Cheryl Friend at 410-875-3514. For additional information about the course content, interested persons may contact Mark Radcliff at 410-875-3509. Students who wish to enroll in this course should already be certified MPCTC General Instructors or in the process of becoming certified.

There are other changes being incorporated into our administrative operations that will hopefully streamline and improve several of our internal processes. One of these, the way in which in-service program approvals are processed and returned to agency representatives, went into effect in January of this year. Previously, instructors submitted the In-service Program Approval Application for review; upon meeting MPCTC criteria, the program received an in-service program approval number (P or C) that was written at the top of the application and returned to the submitting agency. In the new system, once the form is processed, the in-service program information is entered into MPCTC's data management system and a printout of the approval code is then mailed to the submitting agency. The submitting agency will now be responsible for maintaining copies of all records submitted to MPCTC as well as the final approval.

Furthermore, significant changes have been made to the forms that we utilize; e.g., the In-service Program Approval, Application for Instructor Certification, and the MPCTC Registration Form, to name a few. As the forms are updated, we will post these modifications on www.mdle.net, and training directors will be notified.

Beyond the changes within MPCTC, an important revision has been made to the Mid-Atlantic Regional Gang Investigator's Network (MARGIN) website. As mentioned above, we have added a Gang Instructor-Training for Trainers course, and the lead instructor for this program happens to be the MARGIN Training Coordinator. MARGIN is an organization with federal, state, and local law enforcement and criminal justice professionals on its roster, and while the bulk of its members are representatives of agencies from throughout the Maryland, Virginia, and Washington, D.C. region, there are also members from across the U.S. The primary goals of their network are to enhance officer safety by providing relevant gang information to law enforcement officers and to ensure the overall safety of the public. MARGIN provides its members access to a secure website, www.margingangs.org, that allows them the opportunity to exchange ideas, cases, etc. with ALL of the MARGIN membership in a protected environment.

LEGAL NOTES

by Holly L. Knepper, Assistant Attorney General
Maryland Police and Correctional Training Commissions

U.S. SUPREME COURT

Exclusionary rule – recalled arrest warrant. A police officer found out that Bennie Dean Herring was at the Coffee County Sheriff's Department to get something out of his impounded truck. As Herring was no stranger to law enforcement, the officer asked the Coffee County warrant clerk to check for any warrants for Herring. She found none, but the clerk in neighboring Dale County found an active arrest warrant for him in the computer system. Coffee County requested a fax confirmation of the Dale County warrant, and, in the meantime, the officer and a deputy had followed Herring from the impound lot, pulled him over, and arrested him. A search incident to arrest revealed methamphetamine and a gun which, as a convicted felon, he could not possess. But when the Dale County clerk searched for a hard copy of the warrant, it was missing; she learned the warrant had been recalled five months earlier but the recall had not been entered in the computer system. By the time the officers were informed of the error, Herring was already in custody. Herring moved to exclude the evidence. However, the trial court concluded that because the mistake was unintentional, the evidence stayed in. Herring was ultimately convicted of federal drug and gun charges.

On appeal, both sides agreed that Herring's Fourth Amendment right to be free from unreasonable searches and seizures was violated, but argued about whether the exclusionary rule should apply to exclude the evidence. This case reached the Supreme Court on that issue and noted that the exclusionary rule is designed to prevent the use of illegally obtained evidence; thus it safeguards Fourth Amendment rights through its deterrent effect. In a 5-4 decision, the Court concluded that when police mistakes are the result of negligence rather than systemic error or reckless disregard of constitutional requirements, "...the criminal should not 'go free because the constable has blundered.'" The Court was careful to point out that not all recordkeeping errors by the police are immune from the exclusionary rule. For example, recklessly maintaining a warrant system or knowingly making false entries to lay the groundwork for future false arrests would justify excluding evidence obtained as a result. Herring v. U.S., 129 S.Ct. 695 (2009).

Traffic stop – pat-down of passenger. Three police officers who were members of a gang task force were patrolling a neighborhood associated with the Crips when they pulled over a car after a registration check revealed suspension for an insurance-related violation. The traffic stop was based solely on this civil infraction; the officers had no reasons to suspect criminal activity by any of the car's three occupants. While another officer ran the driver's documents, Officer Treviso noticed that Lemon Montrea Johnson, the back-seat passenger, was wearing clothing consistent with Crips membership and that he had a scanner in his jacket pocket. Johnson had no ID, but after providing his name and DOB, said he'd served prison time for burglary and was from Eloy, AZ, a place that the officer knew was home to a Crips gang. Officer Treviso wanted to question Johnson separately to gain information about his possible gang membership, so she asked him to get out of the car; Johnson complied. Based on Officer Treviso's interaction and observation while Johnson was still in the car, she suspected he had a weapon, so when he exited the car she patted him down for officer safety. During the patdown, Officer Treviso felt a gun near Johnson's waist. They struggled briefly, and then Johnson was cuffed and arrested on state weapons possession charges, for which he was ultimately convicted.

Johnson argued before trial and on appeal that the gun should have been suppressed as the fruit of an illegal search. The state appeals court reversed his conviction, and the case reached the Supreme Court on the question of whether the patdown was constitutional. The Court reviewed three of its key traffic-stop cases: Mimms – if car is lawfully detained for a traffic violation, police may order driver out of the vehicle; Wilson – police making traffic stop may order passengers out of the car pending completion of the stop; Brendlin – both driver and passenger are seized from the moment police conduct the traffic stop. Thus, the temporary seizure of driver and passenger begins when the car is pulled over for a traffic violation and ordinarily continues for the duration of the stop, until police tell driver and passenger that they are free to go. An officer's inquiries into matters unrelated to the justification for the traffic stop do not convert the encounter into an unlawful seizure, so long as the inquiries do not measurably extend the duration of the stop. Because Johnson was already temporarily seized when the car was stopped by police, and Officer Treviso was not required to tell him he was free to go before "first ensuring that...she was not permitting a [potentially] dangerous person to get behind her," the Court held unanimously that the patdown did not violate the Fourth Amendment. Arizona v. Johnson, __S.Ct.__ (2009).*

Firearms – misdemeanor crime of domestic violence. Police responded to a 911 call for domestic violence by Randy Hayes and found him in possession of a rifle. Based on this and other evidence, Hayes was charged under 18 U.S.C. § 922(g)(9) with possessing firearms after having been convicted of a misdemeanor crime of domestic violence. Section 922(g)(9) prohibits possession of a firearm by persons convicted of "a misdemeanor crime of domestic violence." Hayes's underlying conviction was for violation of West Virginia's battery law which did not designate a domestic relationship between aggressor and victim as an element of the offense; therefore he argued that he could not be convicted under § 922(g)(9) because his predicate conviction was not a “misdemeanor crime of domestic violence.” After the Fourth Circuit Court of Appeals agreed and reversed Hayes’s conviction, the case went to the Supreme Court.

In a 7-2 decision, the Court held that to obtain a federal firearms conviction under 18 U.S.C. § 922(g)(9), the prosecution must prove that the victim of the predicate offense was the defendant’s current or former spouse or was related to the defendant in another specified way (see 18 U.S.C. §921). This domestic relationship must be proven in the federal prosecution, but need not be denominated as an element of the predicate offense. U.S. v. Hayes, __S.Ct.__ (2009) (2009 WL 436680).*

FOURTH CIRCUIT COURT OF APPEALS

Use of force – Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA). After receiving a 911 call that Virginia Evans had not been seen for several days, three police officers went to her apartment. Rennie Hunt, her boyfriend, would not let them in. Evans called out that she was okay, but that Hunt would not let her come to the door. The officers’ supervisor came to the scene; when he tried to check on Evans, Hunt said “If you come in here, I’ve got something for you.” The officers spoke with Evans’s sister and others who advised that Hunt had a history of mental illness. They ran his record which included a recent arrest for assault of Evans. Command staff decided to bring in a hostage negotiator who arrived at the apartment almost two hours after the 911 call. When the negotiator spoke to Hunt through the back door, Hunt yelled that he would “blow his _____ head off.” Negotiations ceased, and police obtained a warrant for Hunt’s arrest. When police officers eventually forced their way into the apartment, Hunt came at them twice, swinging what looked like a scythe and brandishing what looked like a knife; the officers shot and killed him.

Hunt’s sister sued the department and the officers under 42 U.S.C. § 1983, claiming they violated Hunt’s rights under both the Fourth and Fourteenth Amendments of the U.S. Constitution, as well as his rights under the ADA. The case went up to the Fourth Circuit Court of Appeals, which held that the use of deadly force was objectively reasonable in light of the fact that Evans and Hunt had been secluded for several days, Hunt was recently arrested for assaulting Evans, and Hunt implied he had a weapon and would use it. Title II of the ADA prohibits discrimination against disabled individuals based on their disabilities. Discrimination includes not providing the disabled person with a reasonable accommodation. As to the ADA, plaintiff claimed that police should have reasonably accommodated Hunt by calling mental health professionals or Hunt’s family, or seeking to administer medications, rather than agitating him by banging on the door and yelling at him. It was this failure to accommodate his disability that escalated the situation and led to Hunt’s death. The court rejected this claim and refused to engage in “impermissible hindsight” to second-guess the officers’ actions. The court also held that even if officers did have a duty to somehow accommodate Hunt’s disability during the standoff, it was unreasonable to expect the kinds of accommodations that plaintiff suggested because there was no way they could know either what kind of health care or medication Hunt needed or his relationship with his family, and a wrong guess by police could have been disastrous. Given the information they had and the exigency of the situation, the officers’ actions were reasonable – even under the ADA. Waller v. City of Danville, et al., __F.3d__ (4th Cir. 2009) (2009 WL 331966).*

Searches - cell phone, text messages; vehicle inventory. Damian Antonio Murphy was the front-seat passenger in a vehicle stopped on I-81 by Virginia State Police (VSP) for traveling 95 mph. None of the vehicle’s three occupants had a valid driver’s license, so the trooper requested assistance to have the vehicle towed, to determine the identity of its occupants, and to conduct an inventory of the vehicle as required by VSP policy. The second trooper on the scene spoke with Murphy who provided several fictitious names. Murphy showed the trooper how to operate his cell phone to find the number of his employer who he said could verify his identity. Ultimately, the driver was arrested for reckless driving, and the other passenger was arrested for providing a fictitious license; drugs and weapons both were then found in his duffel bag. Murphy was arrested for obstruction of justice because he provided multiple names and his true identity could not be verified. The officers began an inventory search of the vehicle at the scene. Inside the trunk was a duffel bag containing almost $15K, packaged in a manner used by drug dealers when buying large quantities of drugs. Murphy claimed ownership of the money and said it was money he earned by operating a lawn care business that he withdrew from the bank. He also confided that he intended to purchase shoes and clothes in New York for stores he planned to operate in Alabama.

The officers removed all items from the vehicle and had it towed to the Sheriff’s Department to complete the inventory, and all three occupants were booked there. When officers told Murphy he would be fingerprinted, he disclosed his true name and date of birth, stated he was on parole in Alabama, and that he had left the state without permission. This was verified in Alabama. As police continued the inventory, they found 26 uncut sheets of counterfeit $100 bills in a bag that had been in the car’s glove box. Murphy admitted he put the bag in the glove box but denied knowledge of its contents. Murphy’s cell phone was later examined by the DEA, which identified several texts from a Brian Sheppard who stated that Murphy was his drug supplier. Murphy was ultimately convicted of federal charges of drug distribution and possession of counterfeit currency. On appeal, he argued that the cash, counterfeit money, and evidence from his cell phone should have been suppressed.

The Fourth Circuit Court of Appeals disagreed. Regarding the cell phone, the court ruled that it was lawfully seized incident to Murphy's arrest, and would, in any event, have been lawfully seized during the inventory of the contents of the car. The court also ruled that officers may retrieve text messages and other information from cell phones and pagers lawfully seized incident to arrest, and the fact that the cell phone's contents were not searched contemporaneously with his arrest did not make the search unlawful. Murphy argued that the officers' failure to complete the search of the car at the scene of the traffic stop raised an inference of bad faith and showed that the officers were merely rummaging for incriminating evidence when they continued searching the car's contents at the Sheriff's Department. The court rejected Murphy's arguments that the cash and counterfeit currency should have been suppressed on this basis. If a vehicle is in lawful custody, police may inventory its contents, so long as the inventory is conducted pursuant to standard police procedure, and "so long as the purpose of the inventory is to secure the car or its contents and not to gather incriminating evidence against the owner." Here, the inventory search was done pursuant to VSP policy, and the officers' decision to complete the inventory search at another location was reasonable, considering the stop occurred in the early morning hours along a busy interstate. The mere fact that the officers opened some of the containers recovered from the car at the Sheriff's Department did not render their inventory search unlawful. Affirmed. U.S. v. Murphy, 552 F.3d 405 (4th Cir. 2009).

PROVIDING AND MANAGING TRAINING ON A TIGHT BUDGET

To see an example of this, interested parties may go to: <http://alturl.com/gc9>. (Special thanks to Officer Mark Vahlkamp of the Baltimore County Police Academy for his presentation used here.)

The Office of Technology has upgraded the system and they now have a portable unit that can travel off-site to record training. Last year, they brought the system to our annual in-service program and recorded three days' worth of classes and exercises. Anyone who needs to make up classes can now do so via any computer with Internet access.

We have used this format to produce roll call training programs and for recurring programs such as the First Responder Program (a 12-hour recertification program that is divided into three cycles) and our annual fire-arms classroom presentations. Many of the presentations are conducted via this format, with the skills exercises/testing conducted during the face-to-face classroom part of our annual in-service training. This reduces the time officers must spend in the classroom and allows instructors to instead utilize this time for more hands-on skills training.

To obtain more information about these presentation formats, please contact Sgt. Samuel Hannigan, Towson University Police Department, at 410-704-3711 or at shannigan@towson.edu.

Sgt. Hannigan is a member of the Towson University Police Department, and the program described is used for sworn and non-sworn members of that police department, depending on the type of training or documents being sent.

CHANGE

Some of the resources include but are not limited to the following:

- Access to a gang-related library containing bulletins, news articles, and assessments from not only the MARGIN region, but points beyond;
- Private forum for individual postings;
- Photo gallery for graffiti, tattoos, and whatever else a member feels inclined to share; and
- MARGIN merchandise for MEMBERS ONLY.

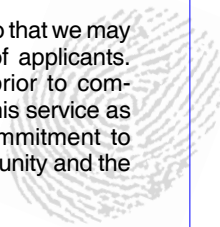

We encourage our readers to register for any of the trainings listed above, search our catalog for additional course offerings, or visit www.mdle.net for additional information.

LiveScan Fingerprinting Services at the PSETC

The Police and Correctional Training Commissions (PCTC) is pleased to inform you that we are now able to offer LiveScan fingerprinting services to Maryland public safety agencies and to State agencies for employment purposes. Criminal record checks for State employment applicants and for public safety personnel are available at no charge to the requesting agency.

Advance notice is preferred so that we may assure speedy processing of applicants. Please call 410-875-3403 prior to coming. The PCTC is providing this service as a part of our continuing commitment to serve the public safety community and the citizens of Maryland.

Have you developed helpful techniques for managing your training requirements?

Do you have any tips or tricks of the trade that make your duties easier?

Would you like to share your knowledge and experience with Training Notes readers all over the state?

Training Notes is inviting articles from our readers that demonstrate novel solutions to problems that are common to all training managers. Please take a few minutes to share your creativity and hard-earned wisdom with others in this new feature of our publication.

PCTC, 6852 4th Street, Sykesville, MD 21784,
Attention: Heather Koch, or

(2) Fax a purchase order to: Heather Koch at 410-875-3975. Note: If you fax a purchase order, please do not mail one also.

Please note that our fax number has changed. Also, since the Digest sells out every year, send your order in as soon as possible to ensure your supply. An order form for the Digest is available on <http://www.mdle.net>. Most orders will be mailed or sent via UPS. Larger orders must be picked up.

APPROVED TRAINING - POLICE

TRAINING PROGRAMS APPROVED BY THE POLICE AND CORRECTIONAL TRAINING COMMISSIONS

"Approval Number" indicates that the program meets the criteria established by the Police Training Commission or the Correctional Training Commission for a mandated course of instruction or in-service training. An approved course number may be used by an agency other than the listed agency if the content and testing strategies are the same and the instruction is provided by a PCTC certified or approved instructor. The accuracy and correctness of the instructional content is the responsibility of the instructor and/or the sponsoring agency and not that of the Police and Correctional Training Commissions.

APPROVED TRAINING - POLICE

TRAINING PROGRAMS APPROVED BY THE POLICE AND CORRECTIONAL TRAINING COMMISSIONS

"Approval Number" indicates that the program meets the criteria established by the Police Training Commission or the Correctional Training Commission for a mandated course of instruction or in-service training. An approved course number may be used by an agency other than the listed agency if the content and testing strategies are the same and the instruction is provided by a PCTC certified or approved instructor. The accuracy and correctness of the instructional content is the responsibility of the instructor and/or the sponsoring agency and not that of the Police and Correctional Training Commissions.

APPROVED TRAINING - POLICE

TRAINING PROGRAMS APPROVED BY THE POLICE AND CORRECTIONAL TRAINING COMMISSIONS

"Approval Number" indicates that the program meets the criteria established by the Police Training Commission or the Correctional Training Commission for a mandated course of instruction or in-service training. An approved course number may be used by an agency other than the listed agency if the content and testing strategies are the same and the instruction is provided by a PCTC certified or approved instructor. The accuracy and correctness of the instructional content is the responsibility of the instructor and/or the sponsoring agency and not that of the Police and Correctional Training Commissions.

APPROVED TRAINING - POLICE

TRAINING PROGRAMS APPROVED BY THE POLICE AND CORRECTIONAL TRAINING COMMISSIONS

“Approval Number” indicates that the program meets the criteria established by the Police Training Commission or the Correctional Training Commission for a mandated course of instruction or in-service training. An approved course number may be used by an agency other than the listed agency if the content and testing strategies are the same and the instruction is provided by a PCTC certified or approved instructor. The accuracy and correctness of the instructional content is the responsibility of the instructor and/or the sponsoring agency and not that of the Police and Correctional Training Commissions.

APPROVED TRAINING - POLICE

TRAINING PROGRAMS APPROVED BY THE POLICE AND CORRECTIONAL TRAINING COMMISSIONS

"Approval Number" indicates that the program meets the criteria established by the Police Training Commission or the Correctional Training Commission for a mandated course of instruction or in-service training. An approved course number may be used by an agency other than the listed agency if the content and testing strategies are the same and the instruction is provided by a PCTC certified or approved instructor. The accuracy and correctness of the instructional content is the responsibility of the instructor and/or the sponsoring agency and not that of the Police and Correctional Training Commissions.

WANTED:

POLICE AND CORRECTIONS MEMORABILIA

PCTC would like to display these items throughout the PSETC and would be interested in your donations to the effort. Please contact Rick Harding at 410-875-3626.

VIDEO-CONFERENCING

We are pleased to announce the availability of video-based teleconferencing at the Public Safety Education and Training Center.

We have equipped one of our conference rooms with a state-of-the-art video conferencing system.

This system will allow you to:

- have live, real-time, face-to-face conversations with persons at up to three separate locations;
- record your meeting on VHS tape;
- view documents, displays, and other materials; and
- scan the conference room 180° to bring attendees on-camera.

Video-based teleconferencing can be set up with any user who has an ISDN connection. MPCTC is able to bring these services to you at NO COST other than our costs for the actual line time of your teleconference.

If you or your staff would be interested in a free demonstration of these resources, please contact: Chris Esser, Electronics Technician, at 410-875-3550 or Joanne Cunningham, Registrar, at 410-875-3402.
