

ANOTHER EXCITEMENT AT CHESTERTOWN. —
AN ABOLITIONIST MADE TO LEAVE IN A HURRY.

We are credibly informed that Mr. John Bowers, who was tarred and feathered a short time ago, in Kent county, Md., because of his alleged tampering with slaves, appeared in the vicinity of Chestertown again, on Monday, when old prejudices against him effervesced anew, and his life, for a time, seemed in jeopardy. About three hundred citizens assembled, by common consent, went after him, put him in a carriage, and forcibly drove him to Middletown, Del., where he was shipped by the cars for Philadelphia. We are assured that the whole county was in motion. Fights occurred between the Bowers and anti-Bowers men, culminating in knock-downs, black eyes and bloody noses, in every direction. Mr. Bowers, however, was not personally injured. — We may think his stars that fate ordered otherwise. After what happened him before, we should not have thought him so fool-hardy as to have ventured on the Eastern Shore even for business purposes, much less to make a foolish effort to regain a residence forfeited as in his case. — As to the leaders of the party effecting so happy a vindication, it is enough to say that among the first men in the community — men of wealth and men of intelligence — who, after suffering for years under injuries inflicted by underground railroad agents, came to the wise conclusion, in our convention some time ago, to execute summary vengeance upon every trespasser. — Clipper.
