manlike speech of President Bromanas, on the occasion of the serenade to him after the BRECKINGDOE and Lave ratification meeting, which we publish on our first page to-day. We hope it will be read by every citizen. The issues involved in the present campaign are discussed in a clear and forcible light, and abows that the ground upon which the South party stands, is impregnable. He made manly and paternal remonstrance against the spirit of disunion, which is manifesting itsel in different parts of the country. Altogether, it is the best speech we have rend-most opportunely delivered, and must exert a great
