THE SENTINEL.

BENJAMIN F. WADDY,

Georgetown, D. C., our authorized Agent for receiving subscriptions and advertisements.

From Paris.

PARIS, August 31, 1860.

I take the pleasure to inform the ladies that I am in the Capital of Fashions, taking the greatest pains possible to select the handsomest and latest styles of Goods for the trade of Washington. All the goods bought by the Importing houses in America are shipped and the samples for the Parisian city trade are coming out now, by which I shall be entirely guided in my purchases to show that the ladies in Washington are highly cultivated in their taste, and will not wear anything but articles worn in Paris; therefore, I shall make every effort to accomplish my task—that is! to offer goods to my customers, which will not be found anywhere else, and which will not be surpassed in elegance and beauty by any others. My arrangement are made also, to receive new goods by almost every Steamer during the season, consequently, I shall be one season in advance.

All the orders entrusted to me by the ladies are executed. M. WILLIAN.

RAN AWAY from the subscriber, residing near Middlebrook, Montgomery county, Md., my negro man RUFUS JACKSON. He is of a copper color, about 5 feet 8 inches high. He had on when he left white pants, striped coat and a straw hat; he took with him a bundle of clothes; he is quick and sharp when spoken to. He was purchased from the estate of the late Levi Offutt, and when last heard from was in that neighborhood. I have every reason to believe that he is making his way off on a canal boat.
