not destroyed in the rosating. It therefore requires less coffee.

One pound of coffee can be rosated in from ten to twelve sinutes, and two pounds in twenty minutes. It is so constructed, that the coffee is kept constantly in motion, and exposed to the same factor of heat; consequently, all the grains are rosated alike, and have exactly the same favor—no foreign flavor being acquired from over-rosating, or not rosating enough. A glass window is prepared at the end of the cylinder, so that the coffee may be inspected just as much as if it was in an open ressel, obvisting the danger of rosating too much, and the sronta passing off, which would necessarily occur did the machine have to be sopened wherever you wished to inspect the coffee, It will beyond all doubt, make better coffee and more of it.
