THE SENTINEL.

ROCKVILLE, MD.

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 5, 1862.

Hard Times, Agait.—Owing to our not receiving assistance in time for a whole sheet this week, we are again compelled to give our readers but half a sheet. Having received the requisite aid, we shall (circumstances permitting) issue a full sheet next week.

WAR NEWS.

In giving the current movements of the army in Virginia, we propose to give only such information as is contained in the public journals, which our readers will remember are not allowed to indulge in any occurrences detrimental to the Federal arms.

On Friday of last week, according to the official account of Gen. Pope, a battle occurred on the identical field of Bull Run, which raged from daylight until after dark, when the Confederate army retired, remaining, however, still in the front. The Federal loss, in killed and wounded, he estimates at about eight thousand—while that of the Confederates, he believes to be double that number. The Federal army is said to have made great captures of prisoners, but he (Pope) was not able to ascertain the number. At the close of the battle, which was fought by McDowell, Sigel and Heintzelman, against Jackson, and it is thought a portion of Lee's army, we are informed, from the same source, the Federal troops were too much exhausted to pursue or harrass their enemy, but it was expected that before the next morning (Saturday) reinforcements would arrive, and the battle be renewed.

The above important statements are contained in Gen. Pope's dispatch early Saturday morning. The subsequent information is received through the press agency—a dispatch from which, on Sunday morning, states that the reinforcements did not reach Gen. Pope as expected, and that the Confederates, being largely strengthened by fresh troops, assumed the offensive, and, on Saturday morning, attacked the Federal army, when a terrible conflict ensued, the advantage at last being with the Confederates. Gen. Pope was forced to fall back to Centreville, which is fifteen miles from Washington, where he was joined by the looked-for reinforcements under Banks, Sumner, Franklin and Couch, to meet which large accessions of strength, unless the Confederates have a sufficient force, "they will be in a tight place. A few days will solve the mystery."

In regard to the number of killed and wounded, all that has been given to the public, through the press, purports to come from an escaped Union surgeon, who states that the line of battle must have extended some five miles, as the dead and wounded covered the ground for that distance. He puts the number, as estimated by a Confederate officer, who was in the field in charge of a gang who were burying the dead, of the Federal loss, at five hundred killed and five thousand wounded, and that of the Confederates, at three hundred killed and an indefinite number wounded. (Other and reliable information places the Federal loss at twenty thousand in killed and wounded, and the Confederate loss at not over one thousand.)

The Star states that, on Sunday last, Gen. Banks, in execution of the order to that end, burned 115 railroad cars, and eight locomotives. Also, that fifty-one cavalry men were surprised and captured by a portion of Stewart's cavalry, on the same day. They were soon thereafter paroled, however, and have reached Washington.

The railroad bridge, over Bull Run, which had heretofore been burned by the Confederates, was rebuilt on Sunday, and again burned the same night.

The escaped Union surgeon, above alluded to, tells of having overheard a conversation between the Confederate Generals, Stewart and Wilcox, from which he inferred that a strong force of Confederates are now marching for Harpers' Ferry.

On Sunday afternoon the Federal army, as a feint to draw out the Confederates, fell back behind the hills of Centreville. On Monday evening, the Confederates, having previously moved up on the right of the Federal army, attacked the latter about two miles north of Fairfax Court-House; but, we are told, were repulsed, with heavy loss on both sides—the Federals holding the field until 3 o'clock next morning; among the killed were Generals Kearney and Stevens, the body of the former was taken possession of by the Confederates, but afterwards delivered into the Federal lines under a flag of truce. (?)

On account of this flank movement of the Confederates, the Federal army was, on Tuesday morning, massed in and around Fairfax C. H. No renewal of the engagement of Monday, it is stated, had occurred up to 9 o'clock Tuesday morning, but heavy cannonading was heard in Washington during the afternoon of that day.

By yesterday's papers, we see that the entire force, under Gen. Pope, have been driven to the fortifications on Arlington Heights, where they are at present encamped, having been closely pursued and harrassed by the Confederates throughout their retreat from the great battle of Saturday. No fighting occurred on the way, with the exception of the conflict on Monday, mentioned above, of which no further particulars are given.

The Confederate forces are supposed to be massed most heavily around Vienna, about ten miles from Washington. A large number of them are proceeding up the river, being already in some force about Leesburg, and in larger force between there and the Chain bridge, as if intending to make a demonstration at Conrad's or Edwards' Ferry. Winchester was evacuated on Tuesday by the Federal troops, it being understood that the Confederates had appeared in force in the Valley.

A letter to the Baltimore American says: "A detachment of about two hundred and fifty men of the First Maryland cavalry and Capt. Means' Independent company went upon a reconnoissance from Harpers' Ferry to Leesburg, under the command of Maj. Cole. When near Leesburg, they suddenly came upon two thousand Confederate cavalry. A skirmish ensued, and our men were of course whipped, and all but about forty either killed or captured. Maj. Cole and Capt. Means were both killed. Some of the wounded are now at Point of Rocks."

It is stated that one hundred and fifty wagons, driven by negroes, were sent to the battle-field of Saturday last, under a flag of truce to bring away some of the wounded. The Confederates consented to the removal of the wounded, but took the negroes.

On Sunday last, a battle took place at Rogersville, Ky., between the Confederate and Union forces; the Confederates, who numbered between fifteen and twenty thousand, twice turned the flank of the Federal line, when a retreat of the latter was ordered to a town called Richmond, where the engagement was renewed, when the Union troops again fell back, retreating to Lexington. No estimate of the loss is given.

The number of Confederates on the South side of Cumberland Gap, which is situated between the States of Kentucky and Tennessee, is computed at 75,000, under Generals Floyd and Smith; whilst at Chattanooga, Tenn., about forty miles further south, there is a reserve of 30,000, under Gen. Bragg. All communication with Nashville, the capital of Tennessee, and which is in possession of the Federals, is cut off, and the troops are subsisting on half rations. Gen. Buell arrived there on the 2d instant, but nothing further is mentioned about the 7,000 Confederates, which were said to have been captured by him a few days ago.

Lexington, Ky., was evacuated on the 1st instant, by the Federal forces, who fell back to Covington. The city of Louisville is in a blaze of excitement. Paris, Ky., was also evacuated, the troops falling back to Cynthiana, but which latter place was in process of evacuation, as Gen. Humphrey Marshall was marching on that place from Piketon. The city of Cincinnati, Ohio, which is opposite Covington, on the Ohio river, is filled with apprehensions of an attack, the Confederates being in force at Bayless Station, only thirty-nine miles distant.

Baton Rouge, the capitol of Louisiana, situate on the Mississippi river, about 75 miles above New Orleans, has been evacuated by the Federal troops, who had taken possession several weeks ago.

A dispatch dated at Grafton, on Sunday last, states that bands of guerrillas have taken the towns of Buckhannon and Weston, in Western Virginia. There was also great alarm at Clarksburg, whence all the movable public property had been transported. The guerrillas are supposed to number at least a thousand men.

LEE CROSSING.—A report reaches us, just as we go to press, that a portion of Lee's forces have crossed the Potomac, near the mouth of the Monocacy.

Later reports confirm the above information. It is stated they are crossing at three different points, at and in the neighborhood of Edwards' Ferry.

EXCITEMENT IN WASHINGTON.—We understand that the excitement in Washington exceeds anything of the kind that has existed since the war began. Vehicles of every kind, and even country wagons, are being impressed into the government service, for the purpose of bringing the immense number of wounded from the seat of war. The Catholic church and college, in Georgetown, and numerous private dwellings, have been taken for hospital purposes. The clerks of the departments, and other employees of the government, have been armed, the fortifications around the city carefully inspected, and every available means put in readiness to repel the apprehended attack on Washington. Large numbers of gunboats are arriving at Alexandria, Washington and Georgetown. Gen. McClellan has been assigned to the command of all the fortifications around Washington city.

☞ We were informed by a gentleman of our acquaintance, who was told the circumstance by a Federal soldier, who was at the battle of last Friday, on the "identical field" of the former engagement of Bull Run, that when the Confederates approached, they came up with their flags flying, and their bands playing the lively old tune—under which the rank and file marched up to their work as steadily as if they were about to engage in a barn-raising. Bully boys, these Rebels!

"Oh, where's been here, since I've been gone;"

OFFICERS KILLED AND WOUNDED.—The following number of killed and wounded commissioned officers in the late battles in Virginia, we take from the National Intelligencer:

Killed.		Wounded.
Generals	5	Generals	6
Colonels	7	Colonels	20
Majors	3	Majors	7
Captains	16	Captains	50
Lieutenants	18	Lieutenants	65
Adjutant	1	Adjutant	1

LATE FROM RICHMOND.—From a party who left Richmond on Friday last, (says the Washington Star,) we learn that 350 Federal prisoners were taken to Richmond, on Wednesday last. It was reported in Richmond that at the cavalry raid on Catlett's Station $5,000,000 worth of Federal property was captured; also Pope's entire wardrobe, and that of his staff, and his Paymaster with $40,000.

EXCITEMENT IN NEW YORK.—By a gentleman just arrived from New York, we learn that great excitement prevailed in that city yesterday, created by the Tribune issuing an extra denouncing General McClellan as a traitor. The feeling against the Tribune office at length reached such a pitch that the authorities had to interfere to save the Tribune office from being sacked; and the difficulty was only settled by the obnoxious edition being suppressed.

PASSING THROUGH.—Several thousand cavalry and several batteries of artillery passed through this place, this morning, en route for the Upper Potomac. They looked much jaded, from their late usage. We also learn that heavy forces of infantry have been sent up the river road, in the same direction.

THE BOUNTY APPROPRIATION INDEFINITELY POSTPONED.—At a meeting of the County Commissioners, on Tuesday last, a proposition, to levy twenty thousand dollars on the county, as a bounty for volunteers, was submitted. We learn that the proposition was indefinitely postponed, by a vote of three to two.

APPOINTMENTS.—The following appointments, in addition to those published last week, have been made for this county: H. F. WEIS, Enrolling Commissioner; Dr. E. E. STONESTREET, Examining Surgeon; M. MOUNDEN, Provost Marshal; J. W. BRADWIN, Deputy Marshal.

GEO. W. DIXON, of this county, has been appointed collector of the Internal tax, and WM. WARING, of Howard, Assessor, for the 5th district of this State.

SHOOTING JAIL.—On Sunday morning last, (says the Frederick Examiner,) four slaves, the property of William Offutt, George W. Chiswell, Joseph Dawson and Benj. White, of Montgomery county, escaped from our county Jail, and have not yet been recovered.

A NEW BELL.—A new bell, of fine tone and weighing some 450 pounds, was placed in the cupola of St. Mary's (Catholic) church, at this place, on Tuesday last.

DEATH.

DIED, on the 13th of August last, at the residence of Mrs. BRIT, in this county, after a lingering sickness of six weeks, BEAUREGARD, infant son of Mrs. JULIA PATTERSON, aged 11 months and one day.

THE MARKETS.

BALTIMORE, September 3, 1862.

GRAIN.—The receipts at the Corn Exchange were fair, viz: 24,000 bushels of Wheat, 14,000 do. Corn, 8,000 do. Oats, and 900 do. Rye. Wheat was in good demand, prime lots commanding full prices. We quote common to fair new white at 1,40@1,50, good to strictly prime do. at 1,55@1,65, damaged and ordinary red at 1,34@1,38, and good and prime do. at 1,42@1,45 per bushel. Sound Corn was scarce and sold higher; we quote ordinary to fair yellow at 58@60 cents, good to prime do. at 61@66 cents, common to fair white at 60@65 cents, and good to prime do. at 66@68 cents per bushel—the market was nearly bare of the last description. Oats were in fair request at 35@40 cts. for common to fair new Maryland, at 56@62 cents for old do., and at 62@66 cents per bushel for Pennsylvania. Rye we quote according to quality, at 60@66 cents for Maryland, and at 78@85 cents per bushel for Pennsylvania.

NOTICE.

THE PUBLIC are respectfully informed, that no more interments will hereafter be allowed in the Protestant Episcopal Burial Ground, without the consent of the Rector, Register, or two members of the Vestry.

Persons desirous of procuring LOTS FOR BURIAL, can be accommodated upon application as above.

Just Published, uniform with the Maryland Code, 1 vol. 8o. Law Sheep, Price $3.

A SUPPLEMENT TO THE MARYLAND CODE.

CONTAINING THE ACTS OF THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY, passed at the Extra Sessions of 1861, and the Regular Session of 1862, divided into Public General and Public Local Laws, and arranged in articles and sections to correspond with the Code. Also, an Appendix, containing the Private Acts and the Resolutions of the Extra Sessions of 1861, and the Regular Session of 1862 in Alphabetical and Numerical Order. By H. C. MCCULLOH, of the Maryland Bar. To which is added the CONSTITUTION OF MARYLAND, with References to the Decisions of the Court of Appeals and the CONSTITUTION OF THE UNITED STATES, with Notes and References to the Decisions of the Supreme Court. The whole carefully and accurately Indexed. By EDWARD OTIS HINKLEY, of the Baltimore Bar.

We believe we thus offer to the public a work invaluable to every Lawyer, Magistrate, Politician, Business Man, and every Citizen of Maryland, and one indispensable to every possessor of the Code.

The importance of the legislation of the late sessions of the Legislature, affecting, as it does, the interests of every man in the State, renders it a matter of the greatest moment to each individual, to have in a convenient and accessible form, the Acts of Assembly, and it is scarcely less so to have embodied, in the same volume, the Important Resolutions which enunciate the policy of the State in the present crisis, while it will prove a matter of no slight moment to individuals and corporations, thus to have preserved in a permanent form, the Acts on which their rights and interests may depend.

By continuing the publication of the work, as we propose, it is believed that the Bar of Maryland will have the Statute Law of the State in a form as convenient and accessible as that of any State in the Union.

☞ Such as may desire to secure the Supplement, will do well to order at once, as the work has not been stereotyped, and the extent of the edition, beyond the number subscribed for, is small.

On the receipt of $3, in current money, the Supplement will be sent prepaid by mail.

On the receipt of $12, in current money, five copies of the Supplement will be sent by any conveyance in conformity to any direction.

The Maryland Code,

Containing all the Public General and Public Local Laws, now in force in the State of Maryland, compiled by Otho Scott and Hiram McCullough, Commissioners; adopted by the Legislature of Maryland, January Session, 1860; the Acts of that Session being there with incorporated; with an Index to each article and section. By HENRY C. MCCULLOH, of the Maryland Bar. Second Edition. Two volumes, 8o. Law sheep, 900 pages, only $6. Interleaved $10.

It is deemed superfluous to dwell on the merits or advantages of this great work, the preparation of which has cost the State upwards of $50,000. It has been carefully examined by several of the most eminent lawyers in the State. All unite in pronouncing it the most complete body of Domestic Jurisprudence for Professional, as well as Popular use ever published, and one of the best arranged, as it is unquestionably one of the neatest and cheapest law books ever produced in this country. The unexpected demand, and the very favorable opinions expressed by competent judges, are gratifying evidences that the mode of issuing the work—in a superior style, and at about one-half the usual price of law books—has met with public approbation.

With an elaborate and well digested Index to each article and section, careful and minute in its classification of subjects, the reader, no matter how unfamiliar with the science of law, may easily examine the enactments on any question referring to his Property, his Rights, his Duties, or his Liberties as a citizen.

☞ Every Law Officer, every Merchant, Manufacturer and Farmer, every Mechanic and Artizan, every Professional and Business Man, ought to secure a copy of The Code.

On the receipt of $6, in current money, the Code and Supplement will be sent prepaid by mail.

On all orders for the Code and Supplement amounting to $15 and upwards, at a time, a discount of 25 per cent. will be made.

Special terms will be made with Agents for counties or districts.

Orders to receive attention, must be accompanied with the cash.

AN ARREST!

WAS ARRESTED, on Monday last, about two miles above Darnestown, A MAN, (name unknown,) having in his possession TWO HORSES—one a dark brown, about 16 hands high, heavy built, nine or ten years old, and shod all round; the other, a bay, about 15 hands high, eleven or twelve years old, nearly blind, and is likewise shod all round. The man, on his way to the Justice's office, "skedaddled," and has not been heard of since.

The owner or owners of the above horses, now in my possession, are requested to come forward, prove property, pay charges, and take them away.
